MONSOON SESSION FROM TODAY

OPPN PREPARES TO CORNER GOVT

GOVT LINES UP 17 BILLS, SAYS WANTS HEALTHY DISCUSSION

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, July 18: The government has readied a big legislative agenda for the Monsoon session of Parliament beginning Monday even as the Opposition seeks to corner the ruling dispensation over its handling of the second wave of Covid-19 and the rise in fuel prices.

The government has listed 17 new Bills for introduction in the session. Three of the Bills seek to replace ordinances issued recently. Once a session starts an ordinance has to be passed as a bill within 42 days or six weeks, else it lapses. One of the ordinances issued June 30, prohibits any agitation and strike by anyone engaged in the essential Defence services. The Essential Defence Services Ordinance 2021 came in the backdrop of the announcement by major federations of the Ordnance Factory Board (OFB) to go on an indefinite strike from the later part of July to protest the government's decision to corporatise the OFB. The Essential Defence Service Bill, 2021 has been listed to replace the ordinance, according to a Lok Sabha bulletin issued July 12.

ALL-PARTY MEET

NEW DELHI: Prime Minister Narendra Modi Sunday told an all-party meeting ahead of the Monsoon session that the government was ready for a healthy and meaningful discussion in Parliament on various issues. Parliamentary Affairs Minister Pralhad Joshi quoted the Prime Minister at the meeting to say that the various floor leaders were told that the government was ready for a healthy and meaningful discussion on various issues raised as per rules and procedures. At the meeting attended by 33 parties, the Prime Minister said suggestions from public representatives, especially from the Opposition, are valuable as they make the discussion rich. Besides Modi, Defence Minister Rajnath Singh, Union minister and Leader of House in Rajya Sabha Piyush Goyal and Parliamentary Affairs Minister Joshi were present at the meeting. P3

is another measure that seeks to replace an ordinance. According to the government, the ordinance was brought to provide a permanent solution and establish a self-regulated, democratically monitored mechanism for tackling air pollution in the NCR and adjoining areas, rather than limited ad-hoc measures.

The Opposition on its part wants to corner the government by raising issues like alleged shortcomings in the healthcare system during the second wave of the coronavirus pandemic and the distribution of Covid vaccines to states. It would also seek replies on the rising prices of petrol diesel and cooking gas during the session which would end August 13.

According to the financial business listed in the bulletin, there would be a presentation, discussion and voting on Supplementary Demands for Grants for the year 2021-22. There would also be a presentation, discussion and voting on Excess Demands for Grants for the year 2017-18. During the session, all Covid-related protocols, which include maintaining social distancing, would be followed. Both the Houses will sit simultaneously.

Amid the pandemic, Rajya Sabha used to earlier sit in the first half of the day, and Lok Sabha in the second half. But from part two of the Budget session in March this year, the two Houses had started sitting simultaneously from their usual timing of 11 am onwards.

2 Maoists surrender, claim many rebels affected by Covid

PNN & AGENCIES

Malkangiri, July 18: Two Maoists carrying bounties on their heads surrendered before Odisha DGP Abhay in Malkangiri district Sunday, and claimed that many red rebels have been infected with Covid-19 and some of them have succumbed to the infection due to lack of proper treatment in the jungles, police said.

The surrendered Maoists said they were scared of the infection and preferred surrender over contracting the disease. They were identified as Rame Podiam alias Sabita, an area committee member and Pallachalam local organisation squad commander of the CPI (Maoist) outfit, and Raidhar Dhurua, secretary of its Daldali cell, an officer said.

Sabita carried a bounty of ₹2 lakh on her head, while Dhurua had ₹1 lakh reward for his arrest, he said. Speaking to reporters, the duo claimed that many Maoists have been infected with Covid-19 and some have succumbed to the disease due to a lack of proper treatment in the jungles.

"We were scared of the infection and preferred to surrender," the Odisha Police said in a statement quoting Sabita. The duo claimed that many Maoists from state want to return to the mainstream but are being prevented by the leaders from surrendering.

Reviewing the Left-wing Extremism (LWE) situation in Malkangiri and Koraput districts during a one-day visit, Abhay said, "Maoist activities in formerly cut-off area Swabhimana Anchal have come down significantly as many security camps have been established, bringing peace in the area."

DEVOTEE-LESS RETURN CAR FESTIVAL IS SCHEDULED FOR JULY 20

AGENCIES

Puri, July 18: The stage is set for Bahuda Yatra (Return Car Festival) of Lord Jagannath and his siblings scheduled to begin July 20 next.

As per tradition three chariots were pulled one by one with South turn from the entry gate parking and stationed at the exit gate of Gundicha temple known as Nakachanadwar facing towards the main temple Saturday. This exercise is called "Dakshini Moda".

After the observance of the daily needs of deities in the Adap mandap, three Puja pandas came with the "agyamallyas" in a procession Saturday and handed over the order of the deities to park the chariots in front of the Nakachanadwar for the return journey. About five hundred police personnel were engaged in making all the three chariots on the Dakshini Moda exercise.

Meanwhile, the administration has geared up activities to conduct devotees "Bahuda Yatra" as was done during the Rath yatra July 12 last. This apart from the preparation by the temple administration was on to observe Sunabesh, the golden attire of the trinity and Adharpana rituals of deities after their arrival at the Simhadwar of the main temple.

The entire city and Badadanda would be placed under curfew for 48 hours for the Return Car Festival. Temple sources said after arriving at Simhadwar July 20, the Sunavesha of deities on the Rathas would be held July 21 followed by Adharpana offering July 22 and finally, the presiding deities would return to their original abode in the sanctum sanctorum of the temple July 23 known as Niladri Bije (homecoming of deities).

Amazon's Jeff Bezos to blast off into space tomorrow

AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE

Washington, July 18: Jeff Bezos, one of the richest person in the world, is set to join the astronaut club Tuesday on the first crewed launch by Blue Origin, another key moment in a big month for the fledgling space tourism industry.

The mission comes days after Virgin Galactic founder Richard Branson crossed the final frontier, narrowly besting the Amazon magnate in their battle of the billionaires.

Blue Origin's sights are, however, set higher: both literally in terms of the altitude to which its reusable New Shepard craft will ascend compared to Virgin's spaceplane, but also in its future ambitions.

Bezos founded Blue Origin back in 2000, with the goal of one day building floating space colonies with artificial gravity where millions of people will work and live.

Today, the company is developing a heavy-lift orbital rocket called New Glenn and also a Moon lander it is hoping to contract to NASA under the Artemis programme.

"They've had 15 successful New Shepard uncrewed flights and we've been waiting years to see when they're going to start flying people," Laura Forczyk, founder of space consulting firm Astralytical, told AFP, calling it an "exciting time" for enthusiasts.

New Shepard will blast off at 8:00 am Central Time (1300 GMT) July 20 from a remote facility in the west Texas desert called Launch Site One, some 40 kilometers north of the nearest town, Van Horn. The event will be live streamed on BlueOrigin.com beginning an hour and a half before.

Oldest and youngest
Joining Bezos on the fully autonomous flight will be barrier-breaking female aviator Wally Funk, who at 82 is set to be the oldest ever astronaut, Dutch teenager Oliver Daemen, the company's first paying customer, who will become the youngest astronaut.

Rounding out the four-member crew is Jeff Bezos' brother Mark, a financier who directs the Bezos Family Foundation and works as a volunteer firefighter.

The pair is best friends, and Jeff shared the moment he asked his younger sibling to join him in a viral video on Instagram last month. Notably absent is the mysterious winner of a $28 million auction for a seat, who had "scheduling conflicts" and will take part in a future flight, and has asked to remain anonymous, the company said.

After lift-off, New Shepard will accelerate towards space at speeds exceeding Mach 3 using a liquid hydrogen/liquid oxygen engine with no carbon emissions.

The capsule soon separates from its booster, and the astronauts unbuckle and begin to experience weightlessness. The crew will spend a few minutes beyond the Karman line - the internationally recognised boundary between Earth's atmosphere and space, at 100 kilometers altitude, as the spacecraft peaks at 65 106 kilometers high.

The booster returns autonomously to a landing pad just north of its launch site, while the capsule freefalls back to Earth before deploying three giant parachutes, and finally a thruster, to land gently in the west Texas desert.

Bhubaneswar, July 18: The Special Task Force (STF) of Crime Branch (CB) has arrested two persons allegedly involved in illegal arms trade and seized 10 guns from their possession, a senior police officer said Sunday.

Following a tip-off, the STF personnel nabbed Basanta Moharana of Nayagarh and Krushna Chandra Srichandan of Khurda town while they were preparing to sell the illegal arms. The seized arms comprised five pistols/revolvers, 5 SBML guns, 8 rounds of live ammunition and one empty cartridge, said STF SP Tejeswar Patel.

This apart, one motorcycle and other materials have been seized from their possession, he said.

The STF carried out a raid on the basis of intelligence input regarding illegal possession/sale of illegal firearms near village Siko under Jankia police limits in Khurda district.

The SP said the arrested persons were booked under different Sections of the Arms Act and they were also involved in other criminal cases in different districts. The STF, since 2020, has seized as many as 47 firearms, 84 live ammunition and arrested several criminals.

Reopening of schools hailed but concerns persist

Keeping in mind the inconvenience online education has caused to majority of the students, the state government has decided to allow commencement of offline teaching for Class X and XII students from July 26. Though School and Mass Education Principal Secretary Satyabrata Sahu has clarified that attending the classes physically is not mandatory and rather discretionary, the damage the education system incurred due to the last two waves and a predicted third wave ramming in are the two aspects which have left students, parents and educationists alike in quandary. Arindam Ganguly of Orissa POST speaks to a cross section of academics, students and parents over the decision...

School reopening is a great step and we are very excited to go to school. However, the safety of students is a matter of concern, especially the ones below 18 years, as they are not yet vaccinated. Even all the teachers are not fully vaccinated. At this juncture, with the third wave expected to come in a few days, we have to be more aware and take precautions more seriously.

The Capital city is still witnessing rise in Covid cases. Some cases were found in my locality too. So, my parents aren't ready to send me to school.

The government must find a solution to this situation.

YASH PRADOSH | CLASS X STUDENT

My entire Class XI studies were done online. So, going to school for Class XII will be exciting. But the fear of a third wave is still there. It all depends on my parents.

ADITI BALBANTRAI | CLASS XII STUDENT

The decision of resuming of fine classes is a welcome step because learning in physical classroom is the best way for effective studies. Before that, the government should also take steps to vac-inate students as the third wave will be more dangerous for children, as per reports.

SWETALINA MOHANTY | CLASS XII STUDENT

I had literally lost all hopes of reopening schools this year but glad that the state government has finally taken the decision to get on with things back again.

Also, owing to the first term of our boards this year, attending physical classes was a prime concern as it's surely going to help us a lot to get back on track with studies. Although the situations now are not very acceptable, I hope each one of us will follow the Covid-19 guidelines sincerely

SHRADHA DAS | CLASS XII, SCIENCE

The state government and private schools must ensure that the schools remain safe for students. Private schools must arrange appropriate infrastructure and strictly follow guidelines such as wearing masks and sanitising schools

PRASANNA BISOI | PARENT

The difficult situation is not over yet. However, education is important too. Rather than restarting the classes immediately with the third wave round the corner, the state government should try to strengthen the online classes. The solution at this time is to wait for the third wave to subside and try to cover 70 per cent vaccination in the state

MITA RANI SAHOO | PARENT

At present, I have not taken any decision regarding sending my kid to school. We hope that the school will hold a meeting with the parents before resuming offline classes. I will take the decision only after looking at the situation in the school and their preparations

NANDITA DAS MOHAPATRA | PARENT

We are prepared. This decision was very important for board students, as they need extra focus which can be provided only in classrooms. Also, the Central Board of Secondary Education (CBSE) recently unveiled a special assessment scheme for Class X and XII Board exams for academic session 2021-22 in view of the pandemic. Under the new scheme, academic session will be divided into two terms with 50 per cent syllabus in each term. We hope that this style will be helpful to our students

NILAKANTHA PANIGRAHI | PRINCIPAL, SAI INTERNATIONAL SCHOOL

We are cleaning the school premises fully as per the standard operating procedure. We are also in talks with parents and are taking their consent before allowing kids back into the school. 90 per cent of our teachers have been vaccinated with first dose

SANDHYA JENA | PRINCIPAL, BJEM SCHOOL

The government's move to reopen schools is welcome, keeping in mind the problems faced by students in online mode of education due to poor (internet) connectivity. So far, the online mode has been able to cater to merely 40 per cent of the students

NABA KISHORE PUJARI | EDUCATIONIST

It's a positive step by the state government. It will help prepare students for the competitive exams.

It also breaks the monotony of studying alone from home, away from their friends and teachers. Meeting their peers will boost their mental wellness and build their confidence as well. Being in the physical presence of their teachers and learning from them face to face, will promote better education practices

MONA LISA BAL | CHAIRPERSON, KIT INTERNATIONAL SCHOOL

Meanwhile, intellectuals have stressed on the facts that education cannot be overlooked for such a long period and classroom teaching cannot be a substitute for online education.

However, the government, instead of taking consent of parents, should rather counsel them as some of the parents may be reluctant to send their kids to schools out of fear, they said. The role of school management committees can be pivotal. Subsequently, schools should also be opened for elementary grade children who are also losing out on education, they added.

POST NEWS NETWORK

Cuttack, July 18: Private bus operators have decided to resume their services Monday following an assurance by the state government to look into their demands.

Even though the state government had allowed intra-state bus services a few days ago, private bus operators did not resume services immediately citing various issues related to loans, insurance, bank EMIs and taxes.

"The state government has assured us to consider the issues raised by our association. So, we have decided to resume bus services Monday," said a private bus operator. But, private bus employees said that their griev-

The residents have demanded a thorough probe into the issue and legal actions against those who facilitated their entry into cordon.

The Puri district administration had put the entire city under curfew for 48 hours and residents of houses along the Badadanda were asked not to go to the rooftop or balcony to watch the pulling of chariots.

The government had banned the entry of devotees into the 3 km-long Grand Road, the venue of the Car Festival July 12, 2021 and allowed only the servitors to pull the three chariots while strictly following Covid protocols.

However, the breach of security cordon was noticed during the Srigundicha Yatra, said sources.

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bolangir, July 18: The Odisha Covid-19 dashboard informs that so far 23,070 persons in Bolangir district have tested positive for the virus. It also points out 22,898 persons have recovered while 87 have succumbed to the disease. However, there are doubts regarding the exact number of fatalities. It has led to controversies in various quarters in the district.

It has been alleged that the district administration and the Odisha government are fudging Covid-19 data and concealing the actual number of Covid-related deaths in the district.

The enlistment of orphaned children due to both or one of the parents succumbing to Covid-19, in the 'Ashirvad Yojana' has suddenly put the spotlight on Covid-19 deaths in the district. Over 2,733 children have applied for financial assistance in 'Ashirvad Yojana'. The applicants have lost either both parents or one. However, the actual reason for the deaths is not available. Hence officials are at a loss to tackle the situation. Many feel that in the process, children actually orphaned due to Covid-19 will be deprived of their financial benefits.

Notably, Prime Minister Narendra Modi had announced that financial assistance will be provided to the children orphaned due to Covid-19 much before the Odisha government had launched the 'Ashirvad Yojana'.

Lack of irrigation facilities hits cultivation in Salipur block

POST NEWS NETWORK

Salipur, July 18: Lack of irrigation facilities has hit cultivation on hundreds of acres of farmland under this block in Cuttack district, a report said.

With monsoon playing hide and seek, farmers are yet to start cultivation in the block. The canal through which water could have been supplied to the farmers is presently clogged with aquatic plants and other debris. As a result, it has sparked resentment among the farmers in the area.

Reports said that farmers in the area mainly depend on rain and the canal water for their farmlands. The Tentol branch canal which originates from the Kendrapara canal is not functional at all. The flow of water has completely stopped and so the farmlands are not getting proper supply.

In such a situation, farmers are hoping that there will be sufficient rainfall soon and they can start cultivation. Saplings have already been planted, but those are withering due to lack of proper supply of water. Most of the agricultural land now has shrubs and wild grass growing. Farmlands on the upstream of the canal have also developed cracks due to heat and insufficient water.

Also, farmlands in Bodamundai, Pikol and other villages on the upstream also are suffering due to lack of irrigation facilities. This is because the authorities have not cleaned the branch canal No 6 which also originates from Kendrapara canal.

The canal authorities have released water in the Kendrapara canal from July 9. However, Salipur block is not being able to avail of the facility as most of the smaller canals are clogged with silt.

Online education remains a distant dream in many Sundargarh villages any connection. So online learning is not possible for students living in this village. It is the closest place where some form of network is available. Approximately, 50 students from Classes I to VII attended the online classes conducted by Soni Sangeeta Dzungdung.

The students of Tirolakucha village under Gurundia block also experience the same predicament every day. Amar Mundari, Sachin Mahali and Gopal Oram were seen sitting on top of Jhandi hill Saturday, seven kilometres away from their village. When asked, they said they are giving their online tests. As there is connectivity problems in their village, they had no option, but to travel this far.

Amar is a Class IX student while Sachin and Gopal study in Class VII. They are students of a private school in Bhubaneswar. The school is conducting online classes on a regular basis and the examinations started July 1.

When asked, the trio said they have regularly been trekking the distance to attend the online classes and exams. "We don't have mobile networks in our village. So we have no other option but to travel this arduous journey every day as the network is only available there," the three said in unison.

Cuban Crisis

It is an irony of history that when China is celebrating the centenary of its party, the Communist Party of China (CPC), another communist country, Cuba, is confronted with the biggest mass demonstrations for three decades against food shortage, high prices, power outage and one party political system. As thousands of protesters took to the streets in towns across Cuba, it was not simply an expression of nation-wide anger against a temporary economic crisis compounded by the Covid-19 pandemic. The outpouring of anger is a tell-tale manifestation of the people's lack of faith in the Cuban variety of communism that has failed to improve the common man's quality of life. This is mainly because Cuban communism has all these years been doggedly refusing to effect economic reforms or combine socialism with the market forces the way Chinese communism has done to emerge as the second largest economy of the world.

The assertion by Cuban President Miguel Diaz-Canel July 17 that the protests are nothing but a black 'lie' spread by the USA does not cut much ice as images circulated on social media sites in Cuba clearly show all's not well. The protests began in the morning of July 11 in the town of San Antonio de los Baños in the west of the island. With millions of Cubans now with mobile internet on their phones, news of the protests quickly swept to Havana and thousands erupted in central Havana chanting 'homeland and life' and 'freedom'. This was a parody on the clarion call given by Cuba's Communist liberator Fidel Castro in the 1950s - 'homeland or death'. The protesters are angry because there is an acute shortage of basic food and medicine and there are power-cuts in the current spell of gruelling heat. The common refrain of the protesters is change of government, multiparty elections and end of communism.

Even if there is an element of truth in the Cuban President's charge that the USA is engineering the demonstrations to overthrow Communist rule in Cuba, fact remains that the Cuban economy is collapsing for a combination of factors including the rulers' refusal to reform it for the past 30 years. The Trump administration dealt a severe blow to the island's economy with over 200 new sanctions aimed at sabotaging Cuba's economy and stirring discontent. The measures are being continued by his successor Joe Biden. The pandemic has worsened the crisis with drastic fall in tourism, a key revenue earner for Cuba, drop in remittances contributed by Cubans working in the USA and the crude oil crisis in friendly Venezuela.

Cubans have become accustomed to waiting in queues for hours to buy basic goods such as chicken and detergent. Medicines have disappeared from pharmacy shelves.

Cuba had witnessed the biggest protests in 1994, when tens of thousands demonstrated at Havana's Malecón promenade amid an acute economic crisis brought on by the fall of the Soviet Union. But, the charisma of Fidel Castro had bailed the Communist rulers out at that time.

Now, Cuba's economy is struggling like never before and Miguel lacks Castro's stature. Apart from the toll the pandemic has taken on tourism, the poor harvest of sugar this season has hit the economy hard. Sugar, which is mostly exported, is a key earner for Cuba. As a result, the government's reserves of foreign currency are depleted and it is unable to buy imported goods to supplement shortages, as it would normally do.

But, the main problem that has brought this crisis to Cuba is the country's Soviet-style, centrally planned economy and its hesitation to adopt market-oriented reforms that other remaining communist countries have taken up. Its economy has contracted by over 35 per cent and it never recovered from the crisis the collapse of the Soviet Union in 1991 plunged it into, economists say. At the same time Cuba did not heed advice from China and Vietnam to reform its economy. During an official visit in 2018, the general secretary of Vietnam's Communist Party, Nguyen Phu Trong, urged Cuba to adopt the model of market economy as Vietnam had done in the 1980s. Over 30 million Vietnamese were lifted out of poverty in the wake of the new experiment. Cuba's government owns and operates most industries, while most of the labour force is employed by the state.

Faced with severe shortages of food and medicine, Diaz-Canel recently picked up the pace of reforms, unifying the country's dual currency and legalising the status of private businesses allowed to operate decades ago. He also promised more movement in that direction. But for the average Cuban, the reforms are too little, too late and they lack credibility. Former leader and brother of Fidel, Raul Castro had also promised ambitious economic reforms in 2011, but they were never fully implemented.

Hence, it won't serve much purpose to the current Cuban leadership either to see an American plot in the spate of protests or put down massive demonstrations with an iron hand. The challenge is to the economic model and political ideology and the response will show the mettle of the leadership.

WORDSWORTH

■ Omphaloskepsis

Omphaloskepsis is the practice of figuratively contemplating one's navel as an aid to meditation or introspection, hence introspection itself. It's relatively new, having been invented by Aldous Huxley in his book Those Barren Leaves in 1925. It turns up in only a few dictionaries and seems to be a word that survives more for the opportunity to show off one's erudition than as a real aid to communication. It's formed from two Greek words, omphalos, "navel, boss, hub", and skepsis, "the act of looking; enquiry".

■ On all fours

The image behind it is that of a dog or similar animal. If it has use of all four legs, it runs smoothly and evenly, as opposed to the way it would limp if one of its legs were damaged. The expression was originally on all four, known from the sixteenth century in phrases we're still familiar with, such as crawl upon all four (the final '-s' was added in the nineteenth century; earlier, a word such as "legs" or "extremities" was understood). In the eighteenth century, people started to use to run on all four as a figurative expression to describe some proposition or circumstance that was fair or equitable, well-founded, sturdily able to stand by itself. To be on all four or to stand on all four meant to be on a level with another, to present an exact analogy or comparison with something else (presumably the image is of two animals standing together, both on all four legs, hence in closely similar situations).

The second says, "Well I'm so tough, once I was caught in a rat trap and I bit it apart!" Then the third rat gets up and says, "Later guys, I'm off home to harass the cat."

HOPING AGAINST HOPE

FOCUS LIC'S IPO

Why privatise LIC? The government says it is not privatisation but only an initial public offering of some stake. That was what Anurag Thakur, then Minister of State for Finance and Corporate Affairs, unequivocally stated in the Parliament sometime back. The Cabinet Committee on Economic Affairs has recently given its in-principle approval for LIC's IPO. The government's fast and preparatory steps indicate the actual sale is most likely to start during the last quarter of the current fiscal. IPO or with whatever name it is called, the government is going to ease its monopoly control on LIC, selling a part of its stake.

PSM Rao

IT IS NOT AT ALL REASONABLE TO SELL LIC'S STAKE, THE FAMILY SILVER, FOR FISCAL DEFICIT NEEDS

Considering its unparalleled achievement in terms of not only the enormous social benefit it generated but the support it provided to the exchequer during troubled times, does not LIC qualify to be excluded from any plan for privatisation? The enormous potential of the milk cow (LIC's IPO alone is estimated to fetch around ₹1 lakh crore in the ₹1.75 lakh crore disinvestment plan) and the urgent need for funds make the government blind to the damage it is going to cause in the long run. It is not at all reasonable to sell LIC's stake, the family silver, for fiscal deficit needs.

Even a cursory look at the birth and evolution of LIC shows how ludicrous is the idea of easing monopoly control on it. Private insurance did not work in the public interest during the pre and early post-Independence years. The very first life insurance company, Oriental Life Insurance Company, set up in Calcutta (now Kolkata) in 1818 served only the European community. This and many other foreign companies did not cover Indians' lives at all. It required concerted efforts by persons like Babu Mutty Lal Seal to make the British companies agree to insure Indians' lives. Even after agreeing to this, Indian lives were treated as sub-standard and heavy extra premiums were charged. Although this anomaly was removed, private insurance could not be freed from fraud and incompetence.

LIC is not only providing efficient life insurance service to people but utilising people's money for the country's economic development besides giving huge funding support to the government

Before nationalisation, 25 insurance companies went into liquidation, 80 did not even file their statutory returns, 245 life and 108 general insurance companies failed the policyholders. The Vivian Bose Commission, set up during Nehru's time, noted many other irregularities like money-laundering and false claims of big business houses and their accommodating sister concerns in the insurance business.

To protect the public interest, the LIC was formed just with ₹5 crore capital in 1956, amalgamating 245 private entities which included 154 Indian, 16 foreign and 75 provident fund societies. Although the capital was enhanced to ₹100 crore, it was not an extra burden; the LIC had internally generated the sum. The present authorised capital of ₹25,000 crore, too, doesn't serve any useful purpose as long as the sovereign guarantee to policyholders (Section 37) remains intact.

Despite minimal government support and private competition since 1999, the LIC's growth has been phenomenal. Its market share in the number of policies (the number is more important than money because the public sector's focus is on low-income groups) in March 2021 was 81.04 per cent and for the whole financial year was 74.58 per cent. In case of premium amount, it was 64.74 per cent and 66.18 per cent for March 2021 and the whole financial year respectively. The customer service of the public sector insurer has been excellent as found when the MARG's survey was employed by the RN Malhotra Committee in 1993: 97 per cent of the respondents rated the service good/excellent.

The LIC has eight zonal offices and 113 divisional offices, 2,048 branches, 1,526 satellite offices and 1,178 mini offices in the country (March 31, 2020). It has foreign branches in Fiji (Suva and Lautoka), Mauritius (Port Louis) and the United Kingdom (Wembley) and joint ventures in Bahrain, Nepal, Sri Lanka, Kenya, Saudi Arabia and Bangladesh and a wholly-owned subsidiary in Singapore.

With its ₹31 lakh crore balance sheet, LIC is the country's second-largest financial services institution next only to the SBI with ₹39.51 lakh crore assets. The sum assured stands at ₹56,86,035.01 crore. LIC has 1,14,498 employees besides 10,80,809 active agents out of total 12,08,826 agents (March 31, 2020).

Although the government gets only 5 per cent of the surplus leaving 95 per cent to the policyholders, it got ₹2,697.74 crore dividend in 2019-20. The net total income was ₹6,15,822.94 crore. The taxes LIC paid that year amounted to ₹10,225.24 crore.

Besides being the biggest institutional investor in the country (Rs 30,69,941.67 crore as of March 31, 2020), LIC gives funding support to the government in a big way. During 2019-20 it subscribed ₹1,78,717.61 crore to the government of India securities and ₹1,28,483.62 crore to the state governments' borrowings. During the same year it invested ₹52,297.79 crore in the social sector: power, housing, water supply and sewerage, roads, bridges and railways.

The investments, as of March 31, 2020, for Central, state, social sector and other government guaranteed securities aggregated to ₹24,01,456.50 crore. LIC operates varied other activities: it owns LIC Housing Finance Ltd (with ₹2.10 lakh crore outstanding loans as of March 31, 2020), LIC Mutual Fund Asset Management Company Ltd, LIC Pension Fund Ltd, LIC Cards Services Ltd and IDBI Bank.

At least one thing that should deter the government from LIC's disinvestment is the support it gets for other PSUs' disinvestment; LIC purchases a substantial portion of other PSUs' stake. Examples: LIC was allotted 4.4 per cent of the 5 per cent stake of ONGC's disinvestment in 2012; 60 per cent (Rs 6,000 crore) of NMDC's stake (of ₹9,928 crore) in 2009-10 and ₹4,263 crore of NTPC's ₹8,480 crore. Other purchases include: SAIL (71 per cent in 2013), BHEL (Rs 2,685 crore in 2014), Coal India Limited (Rs 7,000 crore in 2015), Indian Oil Corporation (Rs 8,000 crore in 2015), GIC (Rs 8,000 crore in 2015); New India Assurance Company (Rs 6,500 crore in 2017) and HAL (Rs 2,900 crore in 2018). Also, LIC bought 51 per cent of the beleaguered IDBI Bank's stake in 2019.

LIC is not only providing efficient life insurance service to the people but utilising people's money for the country's economic development besides giving huge funding support to the government. It is an 'apathandhava' (a friend in need), in its true sense, to this, previous, and future governments. So, the present government has no right to sell the stake without the approval of the people in general and the workforce of the organisation in particular. It is not correct for the government to kill the goose that lays the golden eggs or the 'kamadhenu' that fulfills all its wishes. Hope the government will reconsider. Or, is this going to be hoping against hope?

SPECTRUM GEOPOLITICS

The US that Israel & Palestine need

For many generations of Arab youth, mine included, studying and working in the United States was a coveted opportunity to experience freedoms, possibilities, and the sense of egalitarianism that the American way of life embodied. It was a doubly enriching experience for those of us raised in authoritarian or conservative societies. It was thrilling to be able to think and act independently, without societal pressure. I was excited to take home some of the lessons I learned from a functioning democracy, not least the vital role of freedom of expression, the importance of civil society, and the exceptional benefits of empowering people.

Of course, I was also aware of the US system's failings, and in particular the perpetuation of racism and inequality. I remember the Jim Crow laws enforcing racial segregation in the former Confederate states, and the assassination of Martin Luther King, Jr., who articulated African-Americans' dreams of equality and human decency. But I was hopeful that America's democratic system had the tools it needs for self-correction. I remain so, based on the major transformations in values, laws, and mindsets that I witnessed.

What shocked me most was how the US, a country that prides itself on its love of freedom and justice, could all too often pursue a hegemonic and repressive foreign policy, from its appalling wars in Vietnam and Iraq to its support of ruthless dictators. Regardless of its cause, the disconnect between America's self-image and its foreign policy fuelled a confused perception of the country in the Arab world and elsewhere. While many young Arabs wanted to become US citizens, almost all of them loathed US foreign policy.

Arabs and Muslims saw the Israeli-Palestinian conflict as Exhibit A in the case against America. They found it difficult to grasp why a sense of empathy for the Jewish people - which was fully justified, given the horrible atrocities committed against them - should somehow translate into injustice against the Palestinians. This US bias in favour of Israel has become, over time, a matter of consensus in American politics; for many lawmakers, support for Israel is synonymous with the fight against anti-Semitism.

Even more dangerous was the conflict's religious dimension, which added to a creeping schism between the Muslim and Western worlds. Relations soured further as a result of US-led wars in the Middle East, and hit rock bottom with President Donald Trump's Muslim travel ban and his "Deal of the Century" to secure peace in the region - an offering to the Palestinians that deepened mistrust by being far worse than any that had come before.

The latest outbreak of Israeli-Palestinian violence again brought to the surface the deep-seated sense of humiliation and rage harboured not only by Palestinians in the occupied territories, but also among Israeli Arabs and across the Arab and Muslim world. It was widely hoped that US President Joe Biden's administration would make the promotion of democracy and human rights central to its foreign policy. But this hope quickly dissipated when the US government simply repeated the familiar mantra that "Israel has the right to defend itself" without mentioning the elephant in the room: Israel's crawling expansion of settlements in occupied Palestinian territory, its policy of discrimination, and its denial of the Palestinians' right to an independent state.

On a personal level, this was profoundly disheartening. Over five decades, I have seen how the US approach to upholding Palestinians' rights has become almost apologetic. Today, I contemplate in disbelief how the Jewish people, who suffered so much for so long, are capable of inflicting on another people some of the same atrocities previously committed against them.

But I still sense a glimmer of hope, and a widespread acknowledgment that a return to the status quo ante and the hellish cycle of violence is not viable. I also sense the beginning of some soul-searching inside Israel, among the Palestinians, and across the Arab world to find new ways forward based on coexistence and mutual acceptance.

A more evenhanded US approach would help the Palestinians, Israel, the region, and the world. If Biden can manage the necessary shift in US foreign policy, then America truly will be back.

BSP for Brahmins

Sir, In a laughable development bordering on the ludicrous, BSP supremo Mayawati is organising 'Brahmin Sammelans' in various districts of Uttar Pradesh to woo the Brahmins who, she alleges, are being ignored by Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath. The irony is that not so long ago her party despised the upper castes to the extent of coining the famous slogan of "tilak, tarazu aur talwar, maro jutey inko chaar." It is the bane of Indian politics how core ideologies are compromised at the altar of electoral arithmetic without even batting an eyelid.

Karnataka giveaway

Sir, Though Karnataka Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa has denied reports of his resignation, the stony silence maintained by the central leaders proves that something is cooking. His two-day visit to Delhi to meet the BJP's top brass and agreeing to help the central leadership find a replacement is a giveaway. The CM who has been directed to helm the state 'for now' announced that he would convene a BJP legislature party meeting July 26, the day he completes two years in office, raising the stakes further.

Let the Games begin

Sir, We are eager to exhale after two years of being cooped up. More than us, the global sports fraternity is raring to go. For a fortnight from Friday, July 23, the headlines will be about the heights achieved by the human body and spirit, rather than the doom and gloom that we are being subjected to. With 11,000 athletes from 206 countries competing, new records and new champs will emerge. Twenty-seven world records were broken in the 2016 Rio Olympics and 32 in 2012, London. Tokyo, 2021, is anyone's guess, with the athletes rusty and the stands empty. All over the world, the athletes have found themselves stranded due to the lockdown resulting from rising cases of coronavirus, and Indian athletes were no exception. The Olympic Games symbolise the triumph and celebration of the unity of all human wisdom and power. The Olympics is the celebration of tolerance, peace, mutual respect and universal brotherhood spreading through the means of sports. But, the athletes as well as the organisers need to be alert because cases of coronavirus are being reported in the Olympic village. For the moment though, let's forget the games politicians play and sit back to enjoy the biggest sports show on earth.

Scant rainfall, defunct LI points trigger farm crisis

Saplings wilt as farmlands go dry

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhanjanagar, July 18: With monsoon playing truant, the farming sector is affected by insufficient rain in Bhanjanagar and other areas in Ganjam district. Adding to the crisis are defunct lift irrigation points. Farmers are worried a lot, a report said.

According to the report, farmers alleged that they were supplied seeds by government authorised agencies for the kharif season. The seeds were sub-standard and the saplings were affected by pest quickly.

Moreover, the farmlands are dry due to dearth of water while most lift irrigation points in the region have gone kaput. They apprehend a looming crisis in the agriculture sector owing to insufficient rainfall.

Farmers are unsuccessfully trying to save the paddy saplings while resentment is growing among them. Upset over supply of sub-standard seeds and defunct lift irrigation points, farmers in Bhanjanagar, Jagannathprasad and Bellaguntha blocks are bracing themselves for an agitation. They demand immediate supply of fertilisers.

By the second week of June, Bhanjanagar has received much less rainfall than normal. Therefore hectares of farmlands are lying dry.

Bhanjanagar and Sorada reservoirs are the lifelines for agriculture in this area. This year, both the reservoirs do not have adequate water to feed the agriculture sector. Farmers observed that if the area does not get rain in five to six days, water supply from the reservoirs will stop.

Water will be released from Daha reservoir July 25 while Baghua reservoir lacks water to meet the needs of agriculture, they added.

Panipanchayats looking after the reservoirs will decide when water will be released through canals.

When contacted, executive engineer, Gokula Chandra Padhi of the Water Resources department said that they have started releasing water through canals. "This process will go on for four months. Normal rainfall is expected in coming days," he added.

Farmers of Tanarada under Bellaguntha block - Sania Bisoyi, Akula Nayak and Radhamohan Sethi alleged that they were supplied with sub-standard seeds due to which saplings are prone to pests. "Saplings are wilting due to pest attacks. Help of agriculture officials is sought, but they do not come out for our rescue at the time of crisis," they lamented.

There are two irrigation points in Bhanjanagar area, but they are of no use for the last few years due to electrical problem.

Despite scanty rainfall, farmers are still trying their best to save crops. "We now need good seeds and fertilisers. The department should immediately look into this issue in the larger interest of farmers," locals said.

Mukund Chandra Padhi, agriculture officer of Jagannathprasad block, said that the department is receiving reports from different areas about saplings being affected by pests. Farmers are being advised to apply pesticides, he added.

FARMERS FUME AS LI PROJECTS GO KAPUT

POST NEWS NETWORK

Khandapara, July 18: Two lift irrigation points have been set up near Sunamuhin river on the outskirts of Khandapara town in Nayagarh district. Farmers alleged that these two facilities are of no use for farming as they are lying defunct due to lack of repair and maintenance for last nine years.

Nine years ago when the two projects were made functional, farmers were enthused about prospects for the agriculture sector in the region. However, the projects failed to deliver their service as the concerned department did not pay attention to their maintenance.

"Lakhs of rupees have been spent for the two projects to bolster irrigation for farming in the riparian pocket, but it seems the funds spent on the project have gone down the drain," local farmers lamented.

Now, farmlands are dry due to poor rainfall. "Had the lift irrigation project been repaired earlier, they would be of good use at this time of crisis," farmers noted.

Time after time, farmers have drawn attention of the lift irrigation department towards the sorry state of the projects. But no step was taken to set them right.

Service wires connected to the project have been stolen by miscreants while the premises of the two projects are lost in wild creepers

On the other hand, service wires connected to the project have been stolen by miscreants while the premises of the two projects are lost amidst wild creepers.

Local farmers have sought the attention of the department and the district administration for immediate steps to make the projects functional.

Contacted, Bijay Kumar Tarai, assistant engineer of the lift irrigation department, admitted that the two projects are defunct, but quick steps will be taken for their restoration.

16 held for thrashing 3 members of family

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Berhampur, July 18: At least 16 people were arrested in Ganjam district Sunday for allegedly thrashing three members of a family on the suspicion of witchcraft, police said.

Villagers suspected Bimal Nahak of practising witchcraft as at least six persons had died in the past one-and-half month at Chirikipada Sasan in Polasara area, 52km from Berhampur.

Several villagers Friday allegedly assaulted the 45-year-old man, who claimed innocence. They had also attacked his wife and son when they rushed to his rescue, police said.

Since there is no permanent gynaecologist at Patana CHC, women in labour pain often fail to get immediate medical attention. The villagers urged the administration to get the dilapidated bridge repaired and appoint a permanent gynaecologist at Patana CHC.

BSP to woo back Brahmins in UP

Party to launch campaign from Ayodhya to reach out to Brahmin voters

AGENCIES

Lucknow/Ballia, July 18: Stepping up preparations for the UP Assembly election, Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP) chief Mayawati Sunday announced that a campaign will be launched from Ayodhya to reach out to Brahmin voters and urged the community not to be 'misled' by the BJP.

Speaking to the media here, she claimed the people from the 'upper castes' were repenting voting for the BJP in the last state elections and said their interests will be safeguarded if her party comes to power.

"A campaign, led by BSP general secretary Satish Chandra Mishra, will be started from Ayodhya July 23 to awaken the Brahmin community once again. The Brahmins will be assured that their interests will remain safe under the BSP regime," the former chief minister and Dalit leader said.

Mayawati's Brahmin outreach was considered as one of the key factors for her win in the 2007 UP assembly election.

The BSP chief said she is fully confident that the members of the "Brahmin community will not get misled by the BJP" and will vote for her party in the upcoming elections.

The ruling BJP hit back, alleging the BSP chief is 'remembering' the Brahmins only because of assembly elections next year and is pursuing 'opportunistic politics'.

On the agitation against the farm laws, the BSP chief said all political parties should come together and hold the Centre accountable.

"The indifferent attitude of the Centre towards farmers protesting against the three farm laws is extremely sad. It is necessary that pressure is put on the Centre in Parliament," she said.

Mayawati alleged that there is rising unemployment and inflation, which is posing hardships to the people, due to the wrong economic policies of the central government.

She said the BSP MPs will raise issues such as the rise in fuel and cooking gas prices and matters related to COVID-19 vaccination during the Monsoon session of Parliament which begins Monday.

"There are many issues on which the public wants accountability of the government," she said.

She claimed that people from the 'upper castes' especially the Brahmin community are 'feeling extremely sad as they had voted for the BJP and helped form its government for five years.'

She also praised the Dalit community, saying it stayed united in the last assembly election and voted for her party.

"I feel proud of the people of the Dalit community in the state who did not deviate, remained united, and voted for the BSP. As a result, in the 2017 UP Assembly elections, we may have got less number of seats, but our vote percentage stood at 22.23, more than the Samajwadi Party's 21.82 per cent."

She said that not only the BJP but the Congress also had tried to "lure the Dalits by using different tactics".

"They ate 'khichdi' in the house of Dalits, although it was brought from their own house as they did not like the 'khichdi' cooked by the Dalits and brought from the home of the Dalits. Rath Yatra was also taken out," she said.

Have an open mind: Priyanka on forging alliance for UP polls

AGENCIES

Lucknow, July 18: Congress general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra Sunday said her party is 'open-minded' about forging an alliance with other political parties for the Uttar Pradesh Assembly polls.

Asked whether the Congress will go it alone on all the 403 assembly seats in the state or align with some political party, Priyanka Gandhi told reporters in an informal meeting here, "It is too early to say."

On whether she is ruling out an alliance, she said, "I do not rule it out. We are absolutely not closed-minded. We are keeping an open mind."

"Our aim is to defeat the BJP," she said, adding that other political parties should also be "open-minded". Priyanka Gandhi said the organisation is also her area of focus and a lot of work has been done on it in a silent manner.

"I have an open mind, but my priority is my party," she said. To a question on the Congress becoming active in her presence and tending to become inactive as soon as she leaves the state, the party general secretary said, "When I come (here), there is media focus and you pay attention. But when I am not here, you do not pay any attention. But our work is going on."

"We have done the maximum work during the COVID-19 pandemic. You can see that we are the ones who have raised issues. Congress is no longer confined to garlanding photographs. Our party has been out of power for 30-32 years, and it has become weak. However, full efforts have been made, and a lot of energy has come (into the party)," she added.

Asked to comment on what ails the Congress, Priyanka Gandhi said, "Congress is an old party and in old institutions, there are certain ideas and ways that become fixed. At the same time, in the elders, there is a lot of wisdom and experience, yet you have to bring in the new. So the challenge for the Congress is that you have to bring the good from the old, keep it, and be able to reach out to the public." When asked if she will camp in Lucknow more often, she said, "Well, I will be going to Delhi today. I will be absent for 15-20 days and after that, I will come. The thing is that I get caught up with a lot of work in Delhi and I am required for other things. But I intend to spend much more time here."

To a query on whether she will be the Congress CM candidate for the 2022 UP Assembly elections, Priyanka Gandhi said, "It's too early to say."

The Congress leader, who was on a three-day visit to Lucknow, also said that plans are afoot to revamp the Congress Seva Dal in UP.

Danish Siddiqui to be buried at JMI graveyard

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, July 18: Slain photojournalist Danish Siddiqui will be laid to rest at the Jamia Millia Islamia graveyard, according to a statement Sunday.

"Jamia Millia Islamia (JMI) Vice Chancellor accepted the request of the family of late photojournalist Danish Siddiqui to bury his body at the JMI graveyard meant exclusively for university employees, their spouses and minor child," the university said in the statement.

Siddiqui had done his masters from the university. His father Akhtar Siddiqui was the Dean of Faculty of Education there.

Danish Siddiqui had studied at AJK Mass Communication Research Centre (MCRC) from 2005-2007.

The Jamia Teachers' Association (JTA) expressed condolences at the death of Danish Siddiqui. The Officiating Director of AJK

MCRC said, "Danish was one of the brightest stars in our hall of fame and a proactive alumnus who kept returning to his alma mater to share with students his work and experiences. We will miss him deeply but are determined to keep his memory alive."

Professor Sabeena Gadihoke said his photographs were hard-hitting but he never compromised on the dignity of those within his frames. "Danish had the unique ability to bestow a journalistic picture with empathy and to give dignity and grace to his subjects," she added.

JTA president Professor Majid Jamil described his death as a big loss to journalism and the Jamia community.

Siddiqui, who won a Pulitzer Prize in 2018, worked for Reuters news agency and was killed Friday in the town of Spin Boldak, near the border with Pakistan. He was embedded with Afghan special forces at the time of his death.

Pvt schools burn a hole in parents' pocket

Hundreds of parents, who have been financially hit due to Covid-19, have discontinued their children's studies from private schools after private schools took strict action against those who could not deposit their fees

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

New Delhi, July 18: The charging of exorbitant fees by private schools has become a major contentious issue for thousands of parents across the national Capital during the ongoing Covid-19 pandemic.

Hundreds of parents, who have been financially hit due to Covid-19, have discontinued their children's studies from private schools after private schools took strict action against those who could not deposit their fees.

All India Parents Association National President, Ashok Agarwal, told IANS that all such parents should consider shifting their children from unaided private schools to Delhi government schools so that they do not have to pay high fees.

At such a time the government should not deny admission to any such student based on any particular ground. Quality education should also be ensured through proper recruitment of teachers.

Poonam Kochhity, Principal of Seth Anandram Jaipuria School, says that her school is following requisite government instructions. However, those parents who are struggling with financial problems are being given a fee discount. Parents can now pay the fees in monthly mode. On special request, parents facing financial problems can also make late payment of fees.

On the subject of paying school fees during the Covid-19 pandemic, Heritage Xperiential Learning School says, "Although most of the parents of children studying in our school have paid the fees, Covid-19 has posed financial challenges for many parents. We offer a discount in fees to parents facing financial challenges."

At the same time, the Delhi government has decided that such students studying in private schools across Delhi, who now want to leave private schools and enroll in government schools will no longer need to take transfer certificates. These students will be granted admission to Delhi government schools without submitting the transfer certificate. The Education Department officials will take the transfer certificates of these students from private schools at their level.

Delhi deputy chief minister Manish Sisodia, who is also the education minister, said due to Covid-19 several people have lost their jobs. In such a situation many parents cannot afford to pay the exorbitant fees charged by private schools and are getting their children enrolled in government schools. However, many private schools are demanding arrears according to the hiked fees for the last one year.

In case of non-payment of this amount, transfer certificate is not being issued by private schools to children. Therefore, the Delhi government has provided this relief to the students in case of a TC, he said. The daughter of Kiran Pathak, a parent from Delhi, studies in class 7. According to her, the new decrees of the school that have come out in the past few days have increased the troubles of the parents. Many private schools are now not only charging hiked fees but also demanding fees hiked in the last one year. According to Kiran, if the situation persists she will have no option but to send her daughter to a government school by shifting her from private school.

Manish Sisodia said the Delhi government is firmly defending the students and parents in the court over fee hike by private schools. The AAP government appeals to the parents that if they want they can enroll their children in Delhi government schools.

Delhi cancels Kanwar Yatra

AGENCIES

New Delhi, July 18: The Delhi Disaster Management Authority (DDMA) Sunday prohibited the annual Kanwar Yatra in the city to prevent the spread of COVID-19.

"No celebrations, processions, gatherings, etc. Shall be allowed during forthcoming Kanwar Yatra-2021 starting from July 25 in NCT of Delhi," stated an order issued by the DDMA.

The DDMA order came a day after the yatra was cancelled in Uttar Pradesh.

The yatra usually goes on till the first week of August and sees thousands of Shiva devotees, called 'kanwariyas', travelling mostly on foot from neighbouring states, including Uttar Pradesh, Haryana and Delhi, to collect water from the Ganges in Haridwar in Uttarakhand.

Earlier this week, Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal had said that governments should take every step to prevent the spread of COVID-19.

Portable theatres become vaccination centres

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, July 18: From entertaining hundreds as a travelling theatre to re-inventing itself as a coronavirus facility amid the intense second wave, the portable cinema hall has now been transformed into vaccination centre for inoculating people against the infection.

The travelling theatre was established to take cinema to rural and interior parts of the country in 2015 and has since showcased different films.

Even though the cinema business was paralysed by the pandemic, these inflatable theatres on wheels resumed with all COVID-19 protocols.

The last film screened in these theatres was "Kaagaz" that was taken to the interiors of Uttar Pradesh this year, but as the pandemic situation worsened in the country, it was decided to convert these 150-seater theatres to Covid facilities.

The last film screened in these theatres was "Kaagaz" that was taken to the interiors of Uttar Pradesh this year, but as the pandemic situation worsened in the country, it was decided to convert these 150-seater theatres to Covid facilities

The portable cinema company, Picturtime Digiplex, had converted its portable theatres to coronavirus field facilities in Maharashtra, Delhi, Madhya Pradesh, Assam and Uttar Pradesh during the second wave of coronavirus.

Since then over 5,000 COVID-19 patients have been treated at the facility, said Sushil Chaudhary, founder and CEO of Picturtime Digiplex.

And now, as the vaccination drive picked up in the country, one of these mobile theatres in Delhi has been converted to a vaccination centre, he said.

Established in collaboration with Apollo hospitals, the vaccination centre since its operation on July 13 has inoculated 400 people till now, he added.

"While our field hospitals with oxygen bed facility continue to be put to good use in various states of the country, we thought why not transform our medical unit at Apollo Delhi into a full-fledged vaccination centre. I believe such is the power of portability and these rapid deployed medical enclosures that it could change its form and purpose as per the need of the hour. We are hoping to set up more of such vaccination centres as per requirement," said Chaudhary.

SANGAT SINGH GILZIAN, SUKHWINDER SINGH DANNY, PAWAN GOEL, AND KULJIT SINGH NAGRA HAVE BEEN APPOINTED WORKING PRESIDENTS

AGENCIES

New Delhi, July 18: Congress president Sonia Gandhi Sunday appointed Navjot Singh Sidhu as the new president of the party's Punjab unit, notwithstanding the strong opposition from Chief Minister Amarinder Singh.

Rahul Gandhi also appointed four working presidents to assist Sidhu in the run-up to the next Assembly elections.

The appointments came after days of internal squabbling and public bickering that virtually divided the state unit between two factions owing allegiance to Singh and Sidhu. The new working presidents are Sangat Singh Gilzian, Sukhwinder Singh Danny, Pawan Goel and Kuljit Singh Nagra, who represent different regions and castes. "Congress president has appointed Navjot Singh Sidhu as the president of Punjab Pradesh Congress Committee with immediate effect," according to a party statement. "The party appreciates the contributions of outgoing PCC president Sunil Jakhar," the statement said. Nagra, who was in charge of party affairs in Sikkim, Nagaland and Tripura, has been relieved of his present responsibilities. Sidhu, who joined the Congress from the BJP ahead of the last assembly elections in 2017, has increased his efforts to gather support in the past few days and met several MLAs and leaders.

With the decision, the party leadership has clearly signalled to put its weight behind Sidhu while ignoring Amarinder Singh's opposition. The leadership feels Sidhu can lead the party's campaign with fresh energy and enthusiasm and help ensure its victory in the upcoming assembly polls slated for early next year. Sidhu's ability to pull crowds and launch a vigorous campaign has worked in his favour as the party feels that infusing fresh energy in the party ranks is required at a time slackness has set in after four-and-half years in power. The support of Rahul Gandhi and Priyanka Gandhi Vadra has also helped in Sidhu clinging the post despite strong resistance. The cricketer-turned-politician now faces the challenge of uniting the party and bringing cohesion in its ranks, besides winning the trust of the old guard and veterans. Chief Minister Singh is learnt to have told Sonia Gandhi that he will not meet Sidhu till he publicly apologises for his attacks on him in the recent past.

Calls are being made by party veterans to unite the party ahead of the assembly polls, else the AAP and the Akali Dal-BSP combine could upstage it. AICC general secretary in-charge for Punjab affairs of the party Harish Rawat congratulated Sidhu and the four working presidents.

He expressed his gratitude to Congress president Sonia Gandhi for granting approval to the new team in Punjab. "Thank you madam for your great gesture," Rawat said.

Sonia rejigs Cong Parliament groups

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, July 18: Ahead of the Monsoon session, Congress president Sonia Gandhi has reconstituted the party's strategy groups for Parliament by including party leaders Manish Tewari and Shashi Tharoor in the panel for Lok Sabha and Ambika Soni and Digvijaya Singh in the panel for Rajya Sabha.

Tharoor and Tewari are part of the G-23 leaders who had written to Gandhi last year seeking an overhaul of the organisation, including a visible and full-time leadership, triggering a storm in the party. The reconstitution of groups has been done to ensure the effective functioning of the party in both houses of Parliament during the Monsoon session starting Monday, Gandhi said.

The groups will meet daily during the session and can meet during the inter-session periods as well. The Parliamentary strategy group for Lok Sabha is led by Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury and has deputy leader Gaurav Gogoi, chief whip K Suresh and whips Ravneet Singh Bittu and Manickam Tagore as members. Senior party leaders Manish Tewari and Shashi Tharoor are the new inclusions in this strategy group for lower house.

In Rajya Sabha, the new members included in the strategy group are Ambika Soni and Digvijaya Singh, while P Chidambaram is also part of the group.

Leader of Opposition in Rajya Sabha Mallikarjun Kharge is the leader of the strategy group in Rajya Sabha, while Anand Sharma, who is deputy leader of the party, and Jairam Ramesh, who is the chief whip of the party in the upper house, are also in the strategy group, besides AICC general secretary K C Venugopal.

The joint meetings of these groups can be convened as and when needed and Mallikarjun Kharge shall be the convener; the communication by Congress president Sonia Gandhi said.

326 sedition cases filed in India between 2014-19

AGENCIES

New Delhi, July 18: A total of 326 cases were registered in the country under the controversial colonial-era penal law on sedition between 2014 and 2019 in which just six persons were convicted.

The Supreme Court last week observed that Section 124 (A) of the IPC - offence of sedition - has been enormously misused and asked the Centre why it was not repealing the provision used by the British to "silence" people like Mahatma Gandhi to suppress the freedom movement.

According to the Union Home Ministry data, a total of 326 cases were registered under the sedition law between 2014 and 2019, with the highest 54 cases in Assam.

Out of these cases, charge sheets were filed in 141 cases while just six people were convicted for the offence during the six-year period.

The data of 2020 has not been compiled by the home ministry yet, officials said. In Assam, out of the 54 sedition cases registered, charge sheets were filed in 26 cases and trials were completed in 25 cases. However, there has not been a single conviction in the state in any of the cases between 2014 and 2019, the data says. Jharkhand has registered 40 cases under Section 124 (A) of IPC during the six years in which charge sheets were filed in 29 cases and trials were completed in 16 cases in which just one person has been convicted. In Haryana, 31 cases were registered under the sedition law in which charge sheets were filed in 19 cases and trials were completed in six cases in which just one person has been convicted.

The IMD said moderate to severe thunderstorms with lightning are very likely at isolated places over Uttar Pradesh, Gujarat, Madhya Pradesh, and east Rajasthan during the next 24 hours.

"They may cause injuries leading to casualties to people and animals staying outdoor," the MeT department cautioned.

Moderate to heavy rainfall at isolated places are also very likely over Delhi and Chandigarh July 18 and 19. Western and southern India is also expected to receive heavy rains.

All-party meet: Parties demand restoration of MPLAD funds

AGENCIES

New Delhi, July 18: Various parties, including the Congress and the TMC, Sunday demanded restoration of MPLAD funds, in an all-party meeting chaired by Lok Sabha Speaker Om Birla, sources said.

He assured them that he will raise the issue with the government and its top functionaries, they said.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi and floor leaders of various parties were present in the customary all-party meeting on the eve of the Monsoon session of Parliament.

The session will begin on Monday and conclude August 13.

Leader of Congress in Lok Sabha Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury, TMC leader Sudeep Bandopadhyay, YSR Congress leader Midhun Reddy were among those who raised the issue of MPLAD funds during the meeting in the presence of Parliamentary Affairs Minister Pralhad Joshi, the sources said.

Birla also told members that they will be given adequate opportunity for discussion on issues of public interest and appealed to them to cooperate with the Chair in the smooth conduct of the House.

In the meeting, Speaker Birla lauded the leaders for their support during the last five sessions, an official statement said.

He also appealed to them to continue their cooperation during the Monsoon Session too, it said.

Leaders of political parties assured the speaker that they will extend all cooperation in smooth functioning of the House.

Later, talking to reporters, Birla said he has requested leaders of parties in Lok Sabha to respect the sanctity and dignity of the House and sought their cooperation for the smooth conduct of the proceedings of the House. He said that the House represents the collective will and aspirations of the country and it is the responsibility of members to voice the concerns of the people they represent, while maintaining the decorum and rules of the House.

The speaker said that the House belongs to all members and he will give all of them ample opportunity, including those from smaller parties and single member parties, to participate in the proceedings so that more and more issues of public interest can be discussed.

Birla informed that for the session, extensive arrangements have been made for safety of members, officials and the media according to Covid protocols. He also noted that an app is being developed which will be an "one stop solution" for all parliamentary matters. The Monsoon session of Parliament is the sixth session of the 17th Lok Sabha and subject to exigencies of government business, would conclude on August 13. There would be a total of 19 sittings.

JP Nadda's new headache

BJP president J P Nadda has a huge problem in hand to accommodate 11 of the 12 sacked ministers including six Cabinet Ministers in the organization. Of the 12, Thawar Chand Gehlot had already been appointed Karnataka governor. Santosh Gangwar who was labour minister in the government until the other day, may also be sent as governor or given some post. He is a Kurmi leader from UP and the party would like to keep the Kurmis in good humour. It is clear that Sadanand Gowda will neither be made Governor nor given a post in the Central BJP as B L Santosh, powerful general secretary, doesn't like him. There is some problem in making axed senior minister Ravi Shankar Prasad as General secretary in the BJP. He is senior to Nadda and other general secretaries will also be uncomfortable with him. However, Prakash Javadekar (who held information and broadcasting, and environment) may be rehabilitated and tipped to receive key assignments in poll-bound states. There are 8 general secretaries after Bhupender Yadav moved to the ministry. Yadav was general secretary in charge of Gujarat and Bihar. Gujarat votes late next year. Ramesh Pokhriyal, dropped as Education Minister is being considered for party assignment because of polls in Uttarakhand. There are as many as five vacancies in the BJP parliamentary board, due to the untimely death of Arun Jaitley, Sushma Swaraj and Ananth Kumar, elevation of M Venkaiah Naidu as Vice-President and the appointment of Gehlot as governor. With most of the old guard having been sidelined or sent to the Raj Bhavans, the selection for the five vacancies will be keenly watched.

Jumbo ministry's jumbo problems

PPrime Minister Modi's blockbuster mega reshuffle and presence of as many as 45 Ministers of State have created tremors. While 12 were shown the doors, many including Yessopad Naik (Goa) holding Independent Charge of the Aayush ministry, were demoted. Pralhad Patel who was MoS (IC) of Culture & Tourism was also demoted and given Jal Shakti & Food Processing under two Cabinet Ministers. Interestingly, a small Jal Shakti ministry under Gajendra Shekhawat now has two Ministers of State - Patel and Bisheshwar Tutu. Worst, a small ministry like Culture & Tourism ministry with a budget of less than ₹4700 crores has one Cabinet Minister along with four Ministers of State. No ministry in the Modi government including Home, Finance, Railways or External Affairs has four Ministers of State. But it seems, Modi has some mega plans for the ministry of Culture & Tourism under G Kishen Reddy. Yessopad Naik, Ajay Bhatt, Arjunram Meghwal & Meenakshi Lekhi are new MoS in this ministry. But the Tourism and Culture ministry has no room for three Ministers of State and the Cabinet Minister Reddy is struggling to carve out a role for his four juniors. Rao Inderjit Singh who was made MoS Corporate Affairs, has no room for him to sit in the ministry and hasn't taken the charge. No work allocation order was issued by the Finance Minister, Nirmala Sitharaman either.

I am no Nitish: Uddhav tells PM

Details have surfaced about what transpired during the private meeting between the Prime Minister and Uddhav Thackeray in Delhi June 8. Both have maintained cordiality and even when Sena-BJP were fighting publicly, the Prime Minister stayed clear. But it is clear that the PM has taken the command of Maharashtra affairs in his own hands. The Prime Minister is keen that BJP comes to power in the crucial state of Maharashtra having 48 Lok Sabha seats. The BJP-Sena alliance had won 42 seats in 2019 But BJP alone cannot win so many. But the BJP is waiting for some 'accident' to happen. Uddhav Thackeray is reported to have told the PM, "Aapke Logon Ne Mujhe Wahan Dhakela Hai" (Your people have pushed me into this situation). What he meant was that he had not even thought of an alliance with Congress and NCP. But it was BJP leadership which forced him into this situation in 2019 and joined hands with NCP and Congress. He also explained that he could not "suo-moto" break the existing three-party alliance and join hands with the BJP like a midnight coup. He cannot walk out just like that. Though he did not name any state leader, sources say he had Nitish Kumar in mind. Uddhav doesn't want to be Bihar's Nitish Kumar who changed sides merely to stay in power. Uddhav also said that ideologically he had not compromised even after joining an alliance with Congress and NCP. The PM on his part said the BJP would be happy about his continuation as CM until five year term. Sena's Sanjay Raut too echoed these sentiments saying, "If BJP had not pushed Shiv Sena to such an extent, it would have been in power today."

4 shot outside stadium in US

Washington: Four people were shot outside a baseball stadium crowded with thousands of spectators in the US capital Saturday, causing the game to be abruptly halted as spectators were ushered out. Police said four people had been shot but there was "no ongoing threat", without clarifying the condition of the gunshot victims. Police tweeted officers were "responding to a shooting... in which two people were shot outside of Nationals Park," in the Navy Yard neighborhood of southern Washington, DC.

Taliban favours political settlement over conflict

TALIBAN LEADER MAWLAWI HIBATULLAH AKHUNDZADA REFERRED TO THE IMPOSITION OF AN ISLAMIC SYSTEM

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Islamabad, July 18: Senior Afghan leaders are in the Middle Eastern state of Qatar talking peace with the Taliban, whose leader Sunday issued a statement saying the insurgent movement wants a political settlement to Afghanistan's decades of war.

Still, there are few signs of a political agreement on the horizon, as the battles over Afghan districts continue in dozens of provinces and in the cities there are thousands seeking visas to leave.

Meanwhile in his statement ahead of Tuesday's Eid al Adha Islamic holiday, Mawlawi Hibatullah Akhundzada, the Taliban leader, said the Islamic Emirate, as the Taliban called their government during their rule that ended with the US-led coalition invasion in 2001, favoured a political settlement.

"In spite of the military gains and advances, the Islamic Emirate strenuously favours a political settlement in the country, and every opportunity for the establishment of an Islamic system," he said.

Akhundzada's statement referred to the imposition of an Islamic system without explaining what that meant and how that differed from the system of the Islamic Republic of Afghanistan.

He promised to support education, but for girls he said the "Islamic Emirate will... Strive to create an appropriate environment for female education within the framework of sublime Islamic law."

The Taliban have denied reports of destruction by their commanders saying that the footage being shown is old and accuses the government of propaganda.

'China's first human infection case with Monkey B virus dies'

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Beijing, July 18: A Beijing-based veterinarian who was confirmed as China's first human infection case with Monkey B virus (BV) has died, amid rising concerns, the official media here reported.

The 53-year-old male vet, who worked for an institution researching on non-human primates, showed early-onset symptoms of nausea and vomiting, a month after he dissected two dead monkeys in early March, the state-run Global Times reported Saturday, citing English Platform of Chinese Centre for Disease Control and Prevention. The vet had sought treatment in several hospitals, and eventually died May 27, the report said.

His close contacts are safe from it, for now, it added.

It said that there were no fatal or even clinically evident BV infections in China before, thus the vet's case marks the first human infection case with BV identified in China.

Researchers had collected the cerebrospinal fluid of the veterinarian in April and identified him as positive for BV, yet samples of his close contacts suggested negative results for the virus.

The virus, initially isolated in 1932, is an alphaherpesvirus enzootic in macaques of the genus Macaca. It can be transmitted via direct contact and exchange of bodily secretions and has a fatality rate of 70 per cent to 80 per cent.

US, Iran feud over prisoner swap talks

AGENCIES

Washington, July 18: The Biden administration lashed out at Iran Saturday for accusing it of delaying a proposed prisoner swap to force a quick resumption of indirect nuclear talks.

In a pair of tweets from his verified account, Seyyed Abbas Araghchi said the nuclear talks in Vienna could not resume until Iran's hardline president-elect is inaugurated in early August. "We're in a transition period as a democratic transfer of power is underway in our capital," he said. "TEN PRISONERS on all sides may be released TOMORROW if US&UK fulfill their part of deal."

In response to Araghchi's remarks, State Department spokesman Ned Price categorically rejected the claim, denied there was already an agreement on a swap, and said the US was prepared to continue talks on prisoners even while waiting for the resumption of the nuclear negotiations.

"These comments are an outrageous effort to deflect blame for the current impasse on a potential mutual return to compliance with the JCPOA," Price said.

Price called Araghchi's reference to the possible imminent release of 10 prisoners on all sides "just another cruel effort to raise the hopes of their families."

"If Iran were truly interested in making a humanitarian gesture, it would simply release the detainees immediately," he said.

'Iran ready to proceed today'

Iran insisted Sunday that a prisoner swap deal has been agreed with the United States, the Iranian foreign ministry spokesman said, a day after Washington denied such an agreement had been reached. "Outrageous" = the US denying simple fact that there is an agreed deal on the matter of the detainees. Even on how to announce it," Saeed Khatibzadeh said in a tweet. "Humanitarian swap was agreed with US & UK in Vienna-separate from JCPOA (the Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action)- on release of 10 prisoners on all sides. Iran is ready to proceed TODAY." Iran has said that the seventh round of the talks will not resume until Iran's hardline president-elect, Ebrahim Raisi, takes office in early August.

Af calls back envoy, diplomats from Pak

The diplomatic crisis between Pakistan and Afghanistan deepened Sunday after Kabul announced that it will withdraw its ambassador and other senior staff from Islamabad after the abduction and torture of the daughter of its envoy to Pakistan. Merkel pays visit to flood-affected areas

Death count in western Europe reached over 188

AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE

Schuld, July 18: Chancellor Angela Merkel said Sunday that she was horrified by the "surreal" devastation in the flood-ravaged region of Germany, as the count in western Europe reached at least 188 people dead with dozens still missing.

Merkel, who is retiring from politics after September's elections, listened to the accounts of residents where the swollen Ahr river swept away houses and left debris piled high in the streets.

At least 157 people have died since Wednesday in Germany's worst flooding in living memory, police said.

In Rhineland-Palatinate state alone, authorities reported 110 dead and 670 injured.

At least 27 people have lost their lives in neighbouring Belgium.

Rescue crews were sifting through rubble to find victims and survivors, often in dangerous conditions. Police deployed speedboats and divers to recover bodies swept away in the torrents.

Historic heavy rainfall also battered Switzerland, Luxembourg and the Netherlands.

As the waters began to recede in Rhineland-Palatinate and neighbouring North-Rhine Westphalia (NRW), concern shifted south to Germany's Upper Bavaria region, where incessant rains inundated basements and led rivers and creeks late Saturday to burst their banks.

One person died in Berchtesgaden Land, a spokeswoman for the Bavarian district told AFP. Pope Francis expressed his "nearness" to the people of the stricken regions.

UK PM to self isolate after backlash

AGENCIES

London, July 18: British Prime Minister Boris Johnson and finance minister Rishi Sunak will both self-isolate in line with national guidance, abandoning heavily criticised plans to take part in a pilot scheme that would have allowed them to continue working.

Cases are rising by more than 50,000 a day and hundreds of thousands of Britons are being asked to self isolate for 10 days, causing havoc for employers and parents, prompting train cancellations and forcing some businesses to close their doors.

The U-turn comes a day after health minister Sajid Javid said he had tested positive for COVID-19 and at a time when the government's coronavirus response is under intense scrutiny.

Almost all remaining restrictions in England will be lifted Monday despite a surge in infections as ministers put their faith in the advanced vaccine programme.

Cases are rising by more than 50,000 a day and hundreds of thousands of Britons are being asked to self isolate for 10 days, causing havoc for employers and parents, prompting train cancellations and forcing some businesses to close their doors.

The government announced at 0700 GMT that Johnson and Sunak had been exposed to a person with COVID-19 and would take part in a trial scheme that allowed them to keep working instead of self-isolating.

But less than three hours later that decision had been reversed after a flurry of criticism from voters, political opponents and business owners.

Opposition politicians had said it was hypocritical for Johnson and Sunak to exempt themselves from some of the rules.

"Boris Johnson and Rishi Sunak have been busted yet again for thinking the rules that we are all following don't apply to them," said Labour Party leader Keir Starmer.

After war with Israel, mourning Gaza marks Eid al-Adha holiday

AGENCIES

Gaza city, July 18: For Palestinians who lost loved ones in the fighting between Gaza militants and Israel two months ago, there is little cause for celebration during the upcoming Muslim holiday of Eid al-Adha.

Known as the Feast of Sacrifice, it commemorates for the faithful the prophet Ibrahim's readiness to sacrifice his son to show his dedication to God.

The holiday, coinciding with Hajj, the annual Islamic pilgrimage to Mecca, begins Tuesday, and Muslims traditionally mark the occasion by slaughtering sheep or cows and exchanging gifts.

For this year's four-day festival, Mahmoud Issa, a 73-year-old retired teacher, bought new clothes for his grandchildren and took them to a farm to choose an animal to slaughter. But, he mourns the death of his daughter Manar, 39, and her daughter, Lina 13, who he said were killed by an Israeli missile that destroyed their house in the Bureij refugee camp May 13. Manar's husband and three other children survived.

More than 250 Palestinians were killed in hundreds of Israeli air strikes in Gaza that were launched after Hamas began firing rockets at Israel in retaliation for what the group said were rights abuses against Palestinians in Jerusalem.

Thirteen people were killed in Israel during rocket barrages that disrupted life and sent people running for shelter.

Gaza's Hamas Islamist-run government says 2,200 homes were destroyed and 37,000 damaged by Israeli bombing during the 11 days of cross-border fighting in May

POOR SALES

In Gaza's livestock markets, breeders and farmers reported poor sales ahead of the holiday. At one market in the town of Khan Yunis, some customers loaded animals onto donkey carts to take them home.

"This year, the purchase of animals is weak because of the blockade, war and the Coronavirus," said merchant Saleem Abu Atwa, referring in part to tight border restrictions imposed by Israel and Egypt, which cite security concerns for the measures.

"We hope calm continues. It is for the sake of everyone," he added.

At a street stall in Gaza's busy Rimal neighbourhood, Mohammad Al-Qassas laments the destruction of his shoe store in the fighting as he sells goods that he salvaged from the rubble.

The 23-year-old fears that an Egyptian-brokered truce that ended the most serious hostilities between Gaza militants and Israel in years might not last.

Auto exports recover amid improved pandemic situation

AGENCIES

New Delhi, July 18: Automobile exports from India recovered in the first quarter with all vehicle segments, including passenger vehicles and two-wheelers, witnessing growth following an improvement in the pandemic situation across various international markets.

As per the latest SIAM data, total vehicle exports during the April-June quarter this fiscal stood at 14,19,430 units as compared with 4,36,500 units in the same period of 2020-21 which saw massive disruptions due to the COVID lockdowns across the country, hampering sales as well overseas shipments.

SIAM Director General Rajesh Menon said that while two-wheeler shipments were better than previous three years, passenger vehicles, three-wheelers and commercial vehicles export numbers were yet to catch up with numbers in the first quarter of 2018-19 fiscal.

"If we just compare export numbers of Q1 of 2021-22, two-wheelers have done better than previous three years, however, the total number of passenger vehicles, three-wheelers and commercial vehicles exports were higher in Q1 of 2018-19," he noted.

Flipkart says CCI probe shouldn't treat it the same as Amazon

REUTERS

New Delhi, July 18: Walmart's Flipkart should not be treated the same as rival Amazon in an Indian antitrust probe as the evidence against the two firms was "qualitatively different", Flipkart argued in a court filing seen by Reuters.

Both Amazon and Flipkart have challenged the Competition Commission of India (CCI) in court as they seek revocation of an Indian court's June decision to allow an antitrust probe against them to continue. The companies deny any wrongdoing.

India's government has called the US firms arrogant and accused them of using legal routes to stall the investigation.

In final submissions made to a court in Karnataka, the Walmart unit argued that CCI and the court "confuse the facts" between the case of Amazon and Flipkart, and overlooked that they were "fierce competitors".

To back its arguments, it said that a business agreement examined by the CCI before ordering its probe was only between Amazon and its sellers, and there was no such evidence against the Walmart unit.

"The allegations and the evidence before the CCI against the Appellant were qualitatively different from those relating to Amazon...The CCI should have independently examined the case against each of the two platforms," Flipkart said in its 46-page submission, which was not public.

Both Amazon and Flipkart have challenged the CCI in court as they seek revocation of an Indian court's June decision to allow an antitrust probe against them to continue coming days.

Flipkart and Amazon did not immediately respond to a request for comment. The CCI didn't respond outside regular business hours Sunday.

For years, Amazon and Flipkart have denied allegations from brick-and-mortar retailers about circumventing Indian law by creating complex business structures.

Trade minister Piyush Goyal last month lashed out on US e-commerce giants for filing legal challenges and failing to comply with the CCI's probe, saying "if they have nothing to hide... why don't they respond to the CCI?"

In February, a Reuters' investigation based on internal Amazon documents showed the US firm for years had helped a small number of sellers prosper on its platform in India, using them to bypass foreign investment laws. Amazon also has indirect equity stakes in two of its big online sellers, Cloudtail and Appario, which get "subsidized fees", Reuters reported.

The Walmart unit argued in its submission that "unlike in the case of Amazon", there were no structural links of any kind between Flipkart and its sellers. Flipkart "ought to have been treated differently from Amazon," it said.

Amazon and Flipkart are leading players in an e-retail market India forecasts will be worth $200 billion by 2026.

OPEC, allies reach 'full agreement'

The disagreement, sparked by a demand by the UAE to increase its own production, temporarily upended an earlier meeting of the cartel

AGENCIES

Dubai, July 18: OPEC and allied nations Sunday agreed to raise the production limits imposed on five countries, ending an earlier dispute sparked by the United Arab Emirates (UAE) that roiled global energy prices.

The disagreement, sparked by a demand by the UAE to increase its own production, temporarily upended an earlier meeting of the cartel. In a statement Sunday, the cartel announced that Iraq, Kuwait, Russia, Saudi Arabia and the UAE would see their limits rise.

"What binds us together is way beyond what you imagine," Saudi Energy Minister Prince Abdulaziz bin Salman said. "We differ here and there but we bond."

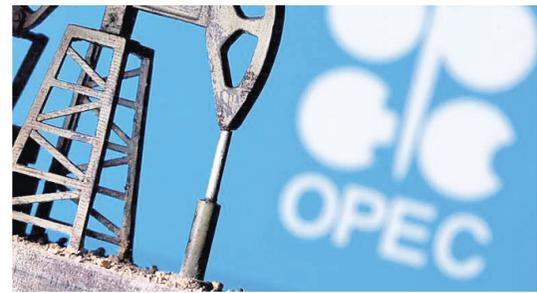

Prince Abdulaziz declined to elaborate on how they came to that consensus, saying it would see the cartel "lose our advantage of being mysterious and clever."

But he clearly bristled at earlier reports on the dispute between Saudi Arabia, long the heavyweight of the Vienna-based cartel, and the UAE. Prince Abdulaziz deferred at the beginning of a news conference afterward to al-Mazrouei in a sign of respect.

"The UAE is committed to this group and will always work with it and within this group to do our best to achieve the market balance and help everyone," al-Mazrouei said.

Oil prices collapsed amid the coronavirus pandemic as demand for jet fuel and gasoline dropped amid lockdowns across the globe, briefly seeing oil futures trade in the negatives. Demand since has rebounded as vaccines, while still distributed unequally across the globe.

FPIs turn cautious, pull out ₹4,515cr from equities in July

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, July 18: Foreign portfolio investors (FPIs) have pulled out ₹4,515 crore from the equities segment in the first half of July as they turn cautious towards the Indian market.

"With markets trading near all-time high, FPIs would have chosen to book profits. They have also been staying on the sidelines given high valuations and most likely on the back of the risk of a potential third wave of the coronavirus pandemic," said Morningstar India Associate Director (Manager Research) Himanshu Srivastava.

Though the continuing firmness in the dollar and the possibility of rising bond yields in the US do not augur well for capital flows into emerging markets like India, there is no immediate worry at the moment, he said.

Besides, he also added that the outflows have not been huge which signifies that foreign investors are adopting a cautious stance towards Indian equities rather than being negative on it.

Builders laud state's stamp duty cut decision

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, July 18: The developers from state capital breathed a sigh of relief as the state government has proposed in the cabinet meeting on reduction of stamp duty on registration of Power of Attorney given to builders for the development of real estate projects.

Through the proposed amendment of Indian Stamp Act, a new article for agreement for sale of immovable property involving delivery of possession or Development Agreement in respect of any immovable property was introduced with chargeability of stamp duty at 2%. Currently, the stamp duty is being charged 5%.

The CREDAI Bhubaneswar Foundation welcomed the proposal. General Secretary Umesh Pattnaik said, "The reduction will definitely make a change in the real estate sector in Odisha and will bring more revenue to the state government. Also, it will give a boost to real estate investments in Odisha during pandemic times."

Due to 5% stamp duty, less number of Development Agreements is registered leading to a revenue loss to the state as well as legal complications. "The cut in stamp duty is relief for the sector and for developers. It will enable builders to reduce their selling prices of apartments and finally customers will be benefited by this move," Sachin Singh, Director of Property Brands said.

Another developers' association AFORD said that this cost is still lower in states like West Bengal. And also, "the registration and stamp duty slab for purchase of apartments should be lowered in comparison to the same on lands to encourage the sale of apartments as by construction of apartments, valuation of the whole property is increased in comparison to a bare land or duplex project as more no. of flats are constructed using the floor area ration said, Nishith Ranjan Nanda, President.

ANALYSTS EXPECT 'MUTED' JUNE QUARTER FOR TELCOS

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, July 18: Analysts have predicted a "muted" June quarter for telecom companies due to slow smartphone sales amid lockdowns, free recharges given by telcos for low income users to help them stay connected during the pandemic and moderate subscriber additions.

In its note, JM Financial said while it expects "subdued activity" in the lower ARPU (Average Revenue Per User) category and consolidation of SIM, similar to 1QFY21 period, it remains cautious of a possible sequential decline in usage metrics. This, given that the "second Covid wave in India has impacted the professional/ middle income category, who drive the bulk of the data usage".

"We expect Q1 FY22 to be a muted quarter in terms of subscriber additions and sequential ARPU growth across telcos," the report said. In its analysis, bulk of the subscriber addition happened in June 2021, post the start of unlocking across the country.

"We expect Jio/Bharti to add 8 million/2 million subscribers in Q1 FY22, while we expect VIL (Vodafone Idea) to report 7 million subscriber losses, driven by both consolidation in the lower ARPU subscribers and subscriber losses to other networks," it said observing that ARPU growth would be "muted".

according to a report by Emkay. So far as subscriber addition are concerned, it said, Jio is expected to outpace Bharti with 5 million adds, while Bharti's subscriber base is assumed to be flat sequentially.

Jio's outperformance would be partially driven by the full impact of JioPhone tariffs launched in February 2021, it said. For Vodafone Idea, it anticipated a contraction of about 4 million in subscriber base along with a decline in ARPU.

ICICI Securities' in its report expected Q1FY22 revenue growth for telecom sector to be "slow" despite an additional day in the quarter.

So far 55 people associated with the Games have tested positive for Covid-19 out before coming to Japan for the 18,000 Games participants. Then there is the screening at the airport followed by regular screening, testing for athletes every day," he added.

The organisers did not specify whether the two infected athletes staying at the village will be quarantined elsewhere.

The development comes a day after a non-athlete at the Village tested positive for the dreaded virus. He was shifted out of the premises. "We believe we have the situation under control. As such, properly if cases are found, the individuals are isolated and we trace all close contacts if there are any other cases, that's what is most important," Hide Nakamura, chief Games delivery officer for Tokyo 2020, said in a press conference.

"Even with all measures fully taken, there will be some positive (coronavirus) cases. What is important is that when such cases arise, we properly systematically isolate them so that there will be no further transmissions," he added.

Tokyo, July 18: Three athletes, two of them staying at the Olympic Village, have tested positive for Covid-19, the Games Organising Committee (GOC) announced Sunday. This new development has added to the scepticism around the troubled event which opens July 23.

It is the first instance of athletes staying at the village catching the infection. Their identities have not been revealed by the organisers. The third infected athlete is staying at a designated Games hotel.

A total of 10 cases were detected on the day, including five 'Games concerned personnel', one contractor, and a journalist, according to the Covid-19 positive case list uploaded by the GOC. The total number of Games-related Covid-19 cases has now risen to 55 as per the GOC records.

"When there is a positive Covid-19 - it means action. There is a clear procedure to identify close contacts. A case is not just data in a spread sheet but leads to action, including immediate follow-up testing," International Olympic Committee's (IOC) Games executive director Christophe Dubi stated.

Four Indian sailors - Nethra Kumanan and Vishnu Saravanan (laser class), KC Ganapathy and Varun Thakkar (49er class) - were the first Indians to arrive here from their training bases in Europe. They started training Thursday.

Even the news of two athletes testing positive for the virus in the Games Village did not affect the spirit of the Indian sportspersons. They appeared in a positive frame of mind and went through the protocols at the airport and the village in a meticulous manner. Mary Kom remarked that it is for the benefit of the athletes only that such restrictions have been put in place.

Meanwhile the shooting contingent will start training from Monday, informed Sanjeev Rajput who will be taking part in his third Olympics. "We have booked our bus to check out the shooting range," Rajput said.

Despite the scepticism, IOC president Thomas Bach has insisted that the Games pose 'zero risk' for the residents of the Olympic Village and the Japanese people in general.

The Games will be held behind closed doors as infections soar in the Japanese capital. The city is recording more than 1,000 cases per day for the past few days.

Tokyo, July 18: Excited and cautious in equal measure, the first batch of athletes from India's Olympic contingent arrived here Sunday. They cleared the exhaustive Covid-19 related protocols at the airport before entering the Games Village.

The arrival of the Indians came on a day when two athletes staying in the Olympics Village tested positive for Covid-19. The 88-strong Indian contingent were given a grand send-off at the Delhi airport Saturday night. They were joined here by the shooters and boxers who were training in Italy and Croatia till Saturday.

The group included archers, badminton and table tennis players and both the men's and women's hockey teams. Participants for judo, gymnastics, and swimming also were in the first contingent. They landed in the Japanese capital aboard a chartered Air India flight from New Delhi.

"It was a six hour wait at the (Tokyo) airport where we underwent Covid-19 tests but that was expected. All came out clear and we have checked into the village. All smooth so far," a contingent member said Sunday.

Somaya was in the team that won the hockey gold in the 1980 Moscow Olympics. "The Tokyo Olympics team are one of the fittest to leave our shores. This enables them to play high-intensity hockey for the entire duration of a match. Besides, they are more aware tactically than earlier teams. The 'rolling substitution' rule in particular is being leveraged well by the team and this should enable them to maintain a blistering pace right through the tourney," Somaya said.

Career-best show

Midland: India's golfer Aditi Ashok and Thailand's Pajaree Anannurakarn missed out on their maiden LPGA success but won a lot of praise after finishing tied-3rd at the Dow Great Lakes Bay Invitational tournament here. TOTAL DOMINATION IN TOUR DE FRANCE

Pogacar retains crown

AGENCIES

Paris July 18: Tadej Pogacar of Slovenia won his second straight Tour de France title Sunday thus establishing a new era of dominance after dominating over his competitors for nearly two weeks. In the end, his triumph was a foregone conclusion as he did not leave any room for serious competition.

The race's outcome had been known for days, and Pogacar, 22, entered the traditionally celebratory final stage with an unassailable lead of 5 minutes 20 seconds. It was the margin he had established Saturday and he held on to it to retain his crown with ease. Fans who have been following the race regularly were of the opinion that even in the years to come, Pogacar will not really face any serious challenge. In a sport where superlative performances are routinely shadowed by suspicions of cheating - Pogacar has been hailed as a machine, a tornado and a champion who might leave his mark on the Tour's history as past greats like Bernard Hinault and Eddy Merckx have done. Merckx, 76, said last week that Pogacar was on his way to at least five Tour de France titles; others have said the race has entered 'the Pogacar era'.

However, in spite of his dominating win, Pogacar is not ready to consider himself as the boss of Tour de France. "Except for media attention, nothing has changed for me," he said after the win Sunday. "There's a bit more media, more press: more and more questions that are actually the same. You get more and more comfortable, and everything else is the same," he added.

Colombo, July 18: Debutant and birthday boy Ishan Kishan's (59, 42b, 8x4, 2x6) blitzkrieg and a patient unbeaten knock by skipper Shikhar Dhawan (86, 95b, 6x4, 1x6) helped India achieved a resounding seven-wicket victory over Sri Lanka in the first ODI of the three-match series here Sunday. Chasing 263 for a win, India easily achieved the target in the 37th over to stamp their dominance in the match. In the process, Dhawan also crossed the 6,000-run milestone in ODIs.

Kishan, who celebrated his 23rd birthday Sunday, dominated the Sri Lankan bowling hitting the bowlers all over the park. He was confidence personified and put India in a commanding position before his departure. In the process, he scored the fastest half century on ODI debut, reaching his 50 in just 33 balls.

Dhawan on the other hand anchored the innings. He was associated in three useful partnerships that made the chase look easy. First, he put on 58 runs for the first wicket with Prithvi Shaw (43, 24b, 9x4), then he added another 85 for the second wicket with Kishan and finally 72 runs for the third wicket with Manish Pandey (26) to seal an easy win for India.

OCA tourneys to start July 26

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, July 18: The senior and U-19 Inter-District cricket tournament for the Kalahandi Cup will start July 26, the Odisha Cricket Association (OCA) said in a release Sunday. A total of 37 teams will be participating in the event. The Inter-District tourney for the under-16 boys will also start on the same day. In this event 36 teams will be taking part.

In the three segments the teams have been divided into six groups. Among the teams to watch out for in the tournaments are East Coast Railways (ECORSA), Bhubaneswar A & B, Cuttack A&B and Rourkela. As the tournament will be played during the monsoons, the OCA has kept a number of reserve days for smooth conduct of the matches. The league and preliminary stage matches will end in the second week of August.

It will be good opportunity for Odisha cricketers to showcase their skills as cricket remained largely suspended due to the Covid-19 pandemic last year. This year also the virus is creating havoc.

However, OCA in their release hasn't mentioned anything regarding the protocols that are to be followed during the matches.

The dates of the super league and the finals will be announced later. Keeping in mind the weekend shutdown in many districts, the OCA has also not scheduled matches on those particular days as it would cause problems to the players.

Boxing coach exudes confidence

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, July 18: "It's like the big final exam after studying very hard," according to Indian boxing's high performance director Santiago Nieva. He is a touch nervous but mostly excited ahead of his own Olympics debut. Nieva is aware that all the 'good work of past four years wouldn't count if there is no medal to show in Tokyo'.

"I am a little tense, not all the time but sometimes. Mostly I am excited because it is like the final exam after all the hard work," Nieva said ahead of his departure with the Indian boxers, Saturday. "This is my first Olympics. I was there in London 2012 as an expert on the sport, if that counts for anything," he added.

Nieva said results matter, nothing else. "Everything that we have done so far, all that we have worked on will not be appreciated if we don't get an Olympics medal. I am aware of that," the boxing coach pointed out.

close range boxing and mental strength. The boxers have worked on these aspects and have improved by 70-80% in all the three departments," Nieva informed.

"For example, Amit is a fantastic long range boxer and we have made sure that he improved in close punches as well. He is not the tallest boxer in his category, so he had to improve in close range boxing," Nieva added.

Nieva who has also been associated with Swedish and Argentina boxing teams in the past was quick to point out that the boxers will have to take control of the centre of the rings if they are to win medals. "They have to do that. They cannot evade that and expect to win," asserted Nieva.

Controversy mars Hamilton's triumph

AGENCIES

London, July 18: In the end defying Formula One (F1) champions Lewis Hamilton won Sunday the British Grand Prix. He took 52 laps to win the race. However, most present at the Silverstone race track talked only about the first lap and forgot the remaining 52. It was the story about nine thrilling corners on the opening one that completely changed the complexion of the title race.

It was in the opening lap that championship leader Max Verstappen crashed out of the British Grand Prix when a spirited battle with Hamilton sent the Dutchman spinning hard into a barrier. The race was red-flagged Sunday for the tire barrier to be repaired and Hamilton was dealt a 10-second penalty for making contact with Verstappen. The seven-time world champion had no reaction on his radio when Mercedes informed Hamilton of the penalty. He coolly overcame the penalty to emerge victorious.

Verstappen beat Hamilton at the start for the second day in a row at Silverstone and the two title contenders furiously zigzagged for position. The drivers touched at least twice as Hamilton tried to slip past Verstappen for the lead.

Hamilton's front wheel touched Verstappen's rear wheel the second time the drivers made contact, and the Red Bull careened off course, through the gravel and into the tire barrier. A tire from Verstappen's car bounced off the car during the spin. The driver however, escaped unscathed.

Hamilton told his Mercedes team the position in the corner was his and he was not to blame. "I was ahead going in there, man," Hamilton said over the radio. "I was fully alongside him, my line. Yeah, he turned in on me, man," he added.
