ODISHA MEN IN CRUISE RAVE PARTY

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, Oct 5: The names of two Odisha men surfaced in the sensational rave party in a cruise ship involving Aryan Khan, son of Hindi film actor Shah Rukh Khan in Mumbai October 2. Sources said two out of the four persons held Tuesday reportedly hail from Odisha. The accused were identified as Manish Udayaraj Darya, 26, from Rourkela and Avin Dinanath Sahu, 30, of Raghunathpalli of Sundargarh district. The NCB lawyer reportedly claimed that both Manish and Sahu were on the cruise as guests.

The NCB officials seized 2.4 grams of ganja from the possession of Manish while Sahu confessed to have consumed ganja twice on board. However, the reports are yet to be confirmed by the authorities of the central drugs enforcement and intelligence agency.

Notably, the Narcotics Control Bureau

Sunday arrested Khan, after drugs were seized by its team from a Goa-bound cruise ship off the Mumbai coast. This was claimed to be the first-ever raid of a cruise ship by NCB. Khan along with two others - Munmun Dhamecha and Arbaaz Merchant - are currently under NCB custody on remand till October 7.

UP police too busy to arrest minister's son

A video of the horrifying moment circulating on social media shows an SUV driving into a group of protesters from the rear, crushing many of them

SIT TO PROBE

Lucknow: The Yogi Adityanath government set up a Special Investigation Team to probe the Lakhimpur-Kheri incident. The six-member SIT will be headed by Additional SP Arun Kumar and will include Deputy SP Sandeep Singh and three inspectors. Violence broke out in Lakhimpur-Kheri Sunday resulting in death of nine persons.

AGENCIES

Lakhimpur Kheri, Oct 5: The UP Police has apparently not found time to arrest Ashish Mishra, the son of Union Minister Ajay Mishra Teni, because they were "busy - first with the negotiations and then with post-mortems and cremations. The FIR against Ashish Mishra was filed 24 hours ago and he has been charged with murder and causing death by negligence. The police inaction is fuelling the anger of the farmers as well as opposition leaders over the incident.

Additional Director General Police (Lucknow Zone), SN Sabat, said, "We were first busy with the negotiations with the farmers and then with the post-mortems and then with getting the cremations done. We follow a due process in every case and we will investigate this case thoroughly and then initiate necessary action."

Sabat denied that the police are taking time because the accused are high-profile people. The farmers in Lakhimpur Kheri said the minister's son was at the wheels of an SUV that mowed down a group of people, killing four and injuring several others. The violence it triggered led to four other deaths. A video of the horrifying moment circulating on social media shows an SUV driving into a group of protesters from the rear, crushing many of them.

Ajay Mishra, the Union Minister of State for Home, has claimed that the vehicle overturned, crushing the protesters who were throwing stones at the cavalcade. He also claimed that his son was not present at the site of the incident Sunday.

Congress general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra Tuesday alleged that she was being held illegally at the PAC compound in Sitapur and no notice or FIR has been provided to her even after her 38-hour detention and was not allowed to meet her legal counsel.

Fuel prices at record-high

AGENCIES & PNN

New Delhi, Oct 5: Petrol and diesel prices Tuesday surged to all-time high levels as rates were increased again after international oil prices hit the highest mark since 2014. Petrol price was hiked by 25 paise a litre and diesel by 30 paise, according to a price notification of state-owned fuel retailers.

This sent the petrol price in Delhi to its highest-ever level of ₹102.64 a litre and to ₹108.67 in Mumbai. Diesel rates too touched a record high of ₹91.07 in Delhi and ₹98.80 in Mumbai.

CITY PRICES
Petrol	₹103.53 (+0.25)
Diesel	₹99.33 (+0.33)

Prices differ from state to state depending on the incidence of local taxes. The sixth increase in fuel rates in a week's time has sent petrol prices above ₹100 in most major cities of the country.

Similarly, the ninth increase in prices in less than two weeks has shot up diesel rates above ₹100 mark in several cities in Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan, Odisha, Andhra Pradesh and Telangana. International oil prices rallied to a near seven-year high following a decision by OPEC+ to maintain its planned gradual increase of supply, despite the market facing an energy crunch.

Global benchmark Brent jumped to USD 81.51 per barrel, while West Texas Intermediate rose to USD 77.76 a barrel.

A Class-VII girl in backward Daspalla block of Nayagarh district was removed from her school online group after she protested denial of MDM rice to her by the school authorities

POST NEWS NETWORK

Nayagarh/Daspalla, Oct 5: A Class-VII girl of Adarsha Vidyalaya in Daspalla area of Nayagarh district was deprived of attending online classes after she objected to denial of midday meal rice (MDM), a report said Tuesday.

Rojali Pradhan was removed from her online group in the school and refused permission to attend online classes. The office of the block education officer denied books to her following the incident. The development has sparked resentment among residents who attacked the highhandedness of the authorities and harassment of a young girl. The girl apprised the headmaster of her school, Daspalla

BEO and the District Collector on the development but her plea is yet to be addressed. Left with no options, the girl accompanied by her parents launched a sit-in outside the block education office in Daspalla, Monday. Alarmed over her protest, BEO Pradipta Behera and Daspalla IIC Jayprakash Parida met her at around 11 pm Monday and assured to look into her demands. Later, the girl and her parents withdrew from the sit-in. However, several hours have passed since then but her name is yet to be re-added in her class online group. According to the complaint, Rojali was admitted to Adarsh Vidyalaya in Daspalla. The BEO's office gave her books after her admission. After receiving books, the class teacher added her name to her class WhatsApp group so that she could attend her online classes.

However, the unexpected happened when the authorities of Radha Mohan High School refused to give her midday meal rice as her name was not there in the school attendance register September 4. She objected to the denial of rice following which her name was removed from the online group in her school.

Jury appreciates physical modelling of Earth's climate, quantifying variability and predicting global warming

AGENCIES

Stockholm, Oct 5: The Nobel Prize for physics has been awarded to scientists from Japan, Germany and Italy: Syukuro Manabe, 90, and Klaus Hasselmann, 89, were cited for their work in "the physical modelling of Earth's climate, quantifying variability and reliably predicting global warming".

The second half of the prize was awarded to Giorgio Parisi, 73, for "the discovery of the interplay of disorder and fluctuations in physical systems from atomic to planetary scales." The panel said Manabe and Hasselmann "laid the foundation of our knowledge of the Earth's climate and how humanity influences it.

Starting in the 1960s, Manabe demonstrated how increases in the amount of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere would increase global temperatures, laying the foundations for current climate models. About a decade later, Hasselmann created a model that linked weather and climate, helping explain why climate models can be reliable despite the seemingly chaotic nature of the weather.

He also developed ways to look for specific signs of human influence on the climate. Parisi "built a deep physical and mathematical model" that made it possible to understand complex systems in fields as different as mathematics, biology, neuroscience and machine learning.

After the announcement, Parisi said that "it's very urgent that we take very strong decisions and move at a very strong pace" in tackling climate change. "It's clear for future generations that we have to act now," he said.

State tech(s) up fight against hemp

The state govt will use drones, satellite imagery and remote sensing technologies to locate and stop hemp farming

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, Oct 5: Continuing enforcement activities against illegal hemp cultivation in the state, the government destroyed hemp crop across 22,217 acres in 2020-21 as compared to 9,473 acres in 2018-19.

The government has also decided to use drones, satellite imagery and remote sensing technologies to locate such activities in the state.

At a high-level meeting chaired by Chief Secretary SC Mohapatra, it was decided that the police and the excise department will intensify enforcement activity to stop hemp farming in the state.

Mohapatra asked the revenue department officials to check records of land where hemp is cultivated and take action against the landowners as per provisions of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act.

Excise department principal secretary SK Lohani said hemp cultivation was destroyed in 10 districts. "Hemp farming has been contained to a large extent in Angul and Sambalpur districts, but such activity has been detected in Boudh, Deogarh, Gajapati, Ganjam, Kandhamal, Koraput, Malkangiri and Rayagada," he said.

Taking a district wise review of the situation, Mohapatra directed to intensify enforcement activities through joint action by police, excise and revenue officials. He asked the officials to spot the areas and villages in which illegal hemp cultivation is done through collection of local intelligence.

The Chief Secretary instructed to identify the land record of private persons in whose land hemp is cultivated and proceed against them stringently as per provisions of the NDPS Act.

Collectors have been asked to prepare district-level action plans for prevention of illegal means of earning through targeted alternative livelihood interventions. They were asked to identify tribal poor families who are living on this trade and provide them alternative livelihood opportunities through convergence of Odisha Livelihood Mission, MGNREGS, high return cash crop, agri-business, agro-product aggregation, small food processing units, goatery, poultry, integrated farming and similar other schemes.

Mohapatra asked the Collectors to visit the villages where hemp cultivation was generally found in previous years and talk to people regarding alternative sustainable livelihood options. It was decided to enhance grants under OLM, NRLM and departmental livelihood schemes in the vulnerable areas.

Development Commissioner Pradeep Kumar Jena advised officials to intensify awareness and IEC activities in the identified villages with involvement of village community, PRI representatives, NGOs, SHGs, farmers' clubs and educated youth.

Aryan needs appointment to meet Pa at home!

Mumbai: In a plot straight out of the all-time favourite American comic book 'Richie Rich', the poor rich Aryan Khan has reportedly told the Narcotics Control Bureau sleuths that his father and mega-star Shah Rukh Khan remains so busy that occasionally, he needs an appointment just to meet him.

Ironically, life became a full circle when a couple of days ago, SRK had to take the NCB's permission for a brief meet with his son in the agency lock-up, when the 24-year-old cried before his celeb dad, though eventually it has surfaced that no drugs were recovered from him.

Aryan, along with at least 10 others, was rounded up and arrested at various times Sunday-Monday in the NCB's first-ever raid on a luxury ship, the Cordelia Cruises, as it was preparing to lift anchor for a fun-filled two-night gala voyage to Goa with around 1,300 affluent passengers on board.

The other youngsters in the NCB net are: Munnum Dhamecha, Arbaaz Merchant, Vikrant Chhoker, Nupur Sarika, Ismeet Singh, Mohak Jaiswal and Gomit Chopra, and the rest nabbed in the second NCB operation aboard the cruiser on Monday.

Keratosis pilaris is a condition that causes rough patches and small, acne-like bumps on the skin.

Yami added: "I also found the courage to share my truth with you. Phew! I didn't feel like airbrushing my folliculitis or smoothing that 'under-eye' or 'shaping up' that waist a tiny bit more! And yet, I feel beautiful."

FLYOVER IN LIMBO

Will 6 yrs of Jatni locals' dismay end in March '22?

ADMINISTRATION DOESN'T GIVE TWO HOOTS TO HUNDREDS OF VEHICLES PASSING UNDERNEATH THE HALF-BUILT FLYOVER INVOLVING TREMENDOUS LIFE RISKS

The under-construction flyover at Jatni

POST NEWS NETWORK

Jatni, Oct 5: Locals of Jatni are sceptical about the completion of a flyover, the construction of which began way back in 2015 and was set to be operational by 2017.

The 1,133-metre long and 12-metre wide under-construction flyover lies in the middle of the Jatni main road on National Highway 13, which connects Khurda, Nayagarh and Puri. The state government had begun the construction work in 2015 with an estimated cost of Rs 54.97 crore.

However, six years have passed and the daily commuters of Jatni have been facing loads of difficulties due to the incomplete flyover.

It is pertinent to mention here that owing to land acquisition for the said project, change in contract agencies, and rampant corruption, the total estimated cost has jumped to Rs 100 crore while more than 200 businesses have been displaced, which are yet to be set-

Although many accidents have occurred in the area due to the miserable condition of the passage and innumerable potholes, neither the administration nor any political party seems to be bothered about it

Owing to land acquisition for the said project, change in contract agencies, and rampant corruption, the total estimated cost has jumped to ₹100 crore ted by the administration.

On the other hand, allegation of corruption in setting up of vending zones for evicted businesses from Sitaram Square has raised a lot of eyebrows. Locals are in dismay amidst corruption, change in consulatory dates of completion and political mudslinging.

The worst part about this conundrum is the absence of a well-planned approach road, which is essential before the onset of any construction work. Hundreds of vehicles are passing underneath the under-construction flyover with tremendous life risks, considering the history of bridge collapses in state and country. Neither the administration nor any political party seems to be bothered about it. Owing to the miserable condition of the passage and innumerable potholes, many accidents have occurred in the area, endangering lives and properties.

Meanwhile, Works Minister Prafulla Kumar Mallik, who visited the site Tuesday afternoon, said the rehabilitation package was delivered three days ago for 23 households evicted during land acquisition for the bridge. He also assured that the construction would be complete by March 2022, and the bridge would be inaugurated April 1.

Jatni MLA Suresh Kumar Routray (Congress) was also present during the minister's visit to the site.

JV formed for floating solar projects

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, Oct 5: A joint venture has been formed between Green Energy Development Corporation of Odisha (GEDCOL) and National Hydroelectric Power Corporation (NHPC) for implementation of floating solar projects in Odisha.

The joint venture will make Odisha a leading state in terms of solar power generation, particularly from floating installations. The GEDCOL was formed in 2013 to spearhead the renewable energy production and achieve the target of renewable purchase obligation (RPO) of the state.

Keeping in view the impacts of climate change, the GEDCOL has set a target to generate 1,500 MW of power by 2022. The corporation on its own has installed 20 MW terrestrial and 4 MW rooftop solar projects in the state while many other projects are in the pipeline.

Terrestrial solar power plants require large land masses. However, the western and southern parts of Odisha are hilly and forested while the coastal region is prone to cyclone, flood and lower solar radiation. Thus, only a few

Reconnaissance and preliminary study of the reservoirs have been carried out with the help of experts from European Union, International Finance Corporation (IFC) and Solar Energy Corporation of India (SECI), sources added.

Rengali reservoir was chosen for installation of floating solar plants of 500 MW capacity in phases over the next two years. The joint venture between NHPC and GEDCOL has been accepted by the Department of Investment and Public Asset Management of the Union government.

The JV company has prepared detailed project reports (DPRs) for solar plants of 100 MW capacity and invited bids in this regard while the process is underway for projects of another 200 MW capacity.

BHITARKANIKA NATIONAL PARK Wildlife poaching, forestland encroachment raise concern

POST NEWS NETWORK

Kendrapara, Oct 5: Wildlife poaching and encroachment of wetland and forestland inside Bhitarkanika sanctuary in Kendrapara district has become a cause of concern for environmentalists and activists, a report said.

The issue came up for discussion at a webinar on wildlife conservation marking the 67th Wildlife Week. It was organised by Odisha Environmental Society here. The meeting was presided over by the Society's president Sundar Narayan Patra. Experts denounced increasing human intervention in the forests of Bhitarkanika.

They pointed out reports of 'Worldwide Fund for Nature' and 'United Nation Environment Programme' in which it has been said that due to unnecessary human interference many species of wildlife and plantations would soon become extinct. They cited Bhitarkanika as an example of human interference in the wild.

A two-member team from International Union for Conservation of Nature (IUCN) on behalf of UNESCO had visited Bhitarkanika in 2016 to enlist wetland in the World Heritage list.

After assessing the core areas of Bhitarkanika, the team returned. In 2017, the team pointed out in its report about the unnecessary human intervention in the Bhitarkanika core area.

They said that prawn gheries, farming, poaching and encroachments inside the core area of Bhitarkanika have become hurdles for according World Heritage status to the Bhitarkanika sanctuary. Besides, modern life style in the eco-sensitive zone has been taking a heavy toll on wildlife conservation, they added.

Environmentalists like Biraja Prasad Pani, Hemanta Kumar Rout, Samarendra Mahali and Laxmidhar Swain pointed out that illegal occupation of forestland has been a major problem in Bhitarkanika while more humans than wildlife are staying inside the sanctuary area.

"People have been rearing cattle on forest land. Entry of people in the prohibited area is common. Poaching of wild animals and marine species are routine," they said.

"Prawn gheries are polluting environment. Forestland has been cleared by illegal settlers inside the park. Rearing of domestic animals is causing infection among the wild animals. Besides, Dhamra port and Wheeler Island have a negative impact on wildlife in Bhitarkanika," they observed.

They voiced concern over the fact that National Waterway-5 will be executed in future while coastal highway will split the wetland into two parts. This will only impact wildlife conservation, they noted.

Man abducted, beaten to death in Ganjam

POST NEWS NETWORK

Hinjilicut, Oct 5: In a shocking incident, a person was kidnapped from his house and later beaten to death on a road by a man and his son. The father-son duo then dumped the body of the deceased in a canal so that it is swept away. This gruesome crime was committed at Godarapalli under Hinjilicut police limits in Ganjam district Tuesday.

The deceased has been identified as P Dharmarao (60). Police during preliminary investigation came to know that the murder was committed due to past enmity. It was alleged that the two accused of the same village forcibly took Dharmarao from his house in an auto-rickshaw to Rusikulya Embankment-9 at Mohanapalli. The two then mercilessly thrashed Dharmarao till he breathed his last. On being informed, Hinjilicut IIC Basudev Bhoi and other police officials rushed to the spot. With help of firemen, police retrieved the body of the deceased from the canal. Later, Aska SDPO Umashankar Singh, Patapur IIC Sabyaschi Malla and Sheragada IIC Mamata Samantray along with a forensic team started an investigation into the murder. The body was sent to MKCG Medical College and Hospital for post-mortem. The two accused are absconding. Police have mounted a search operation to nab the accused. However, no complaint had been filed at the police station in this regard till the last report came in.

NARAYAN DEHURY OF BHEJIKUND VILLAGE HAS BEEN ABLE TO COMPENSATE LOSSES INCURRED DUE TO FAILED CROPS BY TAKING UP INTEGRATED FARMING

POST NEWS NETWORK

Deogarh, Oct 5: Though Narayan Dehury is aged at 65 years, he does not consider himself to be old. He belongs to the village of Bhejikund in Nuadihi panchayat under Riamal block in Deogarh district. While his educational qualification is not much, he is renowned as a popular and progressive farmer in this region.

Inhabitants of this village, located amidst the lush green jungles on the hilly region of this tribal-dominated district, mostly depend on paddy farming and local forest produce.

In such a remote village, Dehury has become a source of inspiration and has given a ray of hope to other villagers. The primary means of his earning/livelihood is integrated farming. He has adopted a self-sufficient farming strategy keeping in view the problems and challenges arising out of climate change in the field of agriculture nowadays.

By doing that, Dehury has been able to compensate the losses incurred due to failed crops by cultivating another crop or taking up some other profitable farming.

Using scientific methods, Dehury cultivates paddy on three acres of his five-acre farmland, and earns up to ₹48,000 per annum. Just after the paddy harvest of kharif season, he grows mustard on two acres, which is otherwise known as rice and mustard intercropping. Dehury has also taken up fish farming in two ponds dug on an acre of land. Annually, he catches up to 10 quintals of fish on an average and earns about ₹80,000. Apart from this, he also rears Banraj and Kadaknath poultry and earns ₹15,000 per annum by selling eggs and meat. In addition, he earns around ₹40,000 a year by selling the milk of eight jersey cows.

Taking advice of the Krishi Vigyan Kendra and with the help of his son Sanjay, Dehury has bought an egg incubator and subsequently become the only farmer in the district to supply Kadaknath chicks to people interested in poultry.

Taking an extra effort, Dehury also rears almost 80 ducks and sells their eggs and meat. By taking up strategic integrated farming, he manages to make up for losses even during drought or flood situations. He earns about ₹3 lakh from integrated farming and, thereby, has scripted an inspiring success story.

FOCUS AGRICULTURE

TIME FOR A FOOD REVOLUTION

With nature's capacity to support human life having already reached a breaking point, changing what we put on our plates has become an urgent priority - one that will play a crucial role in determining the future living conditions on planet Earth will be incredulous that we used to drive around in cars that spewed toxic fumes into the air.

Another piece of good news is that we are quickly strengthening our understanding of the relationship between soil health and food production. We already know how to improve crop rotations, and we are expanding the use of water-harvesting systems and conservation-based agriculture. This allows us to move away from ploughing that irritates the soil and releases carbon emissions.

Moreover, the Land Institute is developing new forms of perennial - rather than annual - staple food crops. Instead of having to sow their seeds every year, farmers will be able to harvest the same plant for four, five, or six years in a row. And because these perennial crops have root systems that run deeper than those of annual crops, they are more resilient and absorb more carbon in the soil. They also require much less diesel in the tractor.

We know that we can move quickly as a global community when we need to. The pandemic has taught us that rapid change is possible. Now, we must bring the same urgency (and even more follow-through) to fixing our relationship with food and how we produce it. Our food system is our most essential life-support mechanism. But we won't be able to transform it in time if only a minority of us are even aware of the challenge.

This year's summit is an opportunity to raise awareness. But it should be understood as only one step along the way. We can each take an additional step with every meal we share. Changing what we eat is a radical act that will make us and nature healthier and happier. By making nature-conscious eating choices and helping to spread the word, each of us can contribute to keeping planetary warming within the 1.5° Celsius limit laid out in the Paris agreement. A healthier plate makes for a safer planet.

©PROJECT SYNDICATE

This year, the United Nations is convening a special gathering to "raise awareness and elevate public discussion" about how food-system reform can help us to achieve the Sustainable Development Goals. But the world needs much more than a food-systems summit. It needs a food revolution. With nature's capacity to support human life having already reached a breaking point, changing what we put on our plates has become an urgent priority - one that will play a crucial role in determining the future living conditions on planet Earth.

Across G20 countries, the majority (60 per cent) of people know that we must make a rapid transition to renewable energies this decade. Not only are the necessary technologies increasingly available and affordable; pressure from both civil society and the financial sector is growing. Yet only 41 per cent of people recognise that we also need to transform our food systems in this decisive decade. This glaring gap in awareness shows that we need a wake-up call.

For decades, land-based ecosystems have been absorbing around 30 per cent of excess carbon-dioxide emissions, protecting us from the worst climate shocks. But over the last 50 years, we have obliterated at least half of these natural assets. When forests, for example, are destroyed for industrial food production, they do not just stop absorbing CO₂; they start emitting it. Assets that were contributing to the planet's resilience suddenly become liabilities that are undermining it. This double-whammy is why food production now accounts for over one-third of global emissions.

We are tantalizingly close to being on track for a fossil-fuel-free future. But that achievement will mean little to future generations if we do not also transform our broken food system. Just as we are pushing fossil fuels into retirement (while thanking them for all they have done for us), so too must we phase out industrial agriculture.

Industrial agriculture was designed for the noble purpose of feeding a growing population. But it is no longer fit for that purpose. In addition to its massive contribution to global warming - which will cause more crop failures, driving up hunger - the current system results in massive levels of food waste, the monopolisation of seeds (which leaves smallholder farmers at the mercy of multinational corporations), the degradation of once-fertile soils, poisoned waterways, and catastrophic biodiversity loss. All this amounts to an injustice that we can no longer tolerate. Ultimately, if we fail nature, we fail on climate, and we fail ourselves.

Many people recognise that we are approaching dangerous climatic tipping points, and most - 82 per cent across G20 countries - want change that protects nature. So, let's show them what that would look like. This year's Food Systems Summit is an opportunity to build momentum in some of the biggest priority areas of food-system reform. For example, we urgently need to make regenerative farming the dominant model globally. This form of agriculture relies on farming and grazing practices that nurture the soil, rather than killing it.

Furthermore, to continue to meet the nutritional demands of the world's population, we also need to expand where food is grown. Agriculture can be practiced in every space available, from rooftops, balconies, and converted car parks to fields and home gardens. And, finally, we need to ensure that people understand that what we eat can contribute directly to our own well-being, as well as that of the planet.

The good news is that we're not starting from scratch. The EAT-Lancet Commission has already scientifically defined a diet that would nurture both people and the planet. This diet, which is readily available to people around the world, features a drastic reduction in meat consumption and a commensurate increase in plant-based proteins.

Plant-based proteins are to the food sector what renewables are to the energy sector. Safe, tasty, and increasingly affordable and accessible, these proteins will soon proliferate widely, in part because investors already see their market potential. By 2040, children will be horrified to learn that we used to mass-produce and slaughter animals in factory farms, just as they

Wheels of Injustice

The Uttar Pradesh (UP) police claims to be too busy to arrest the son of a Union Minister of State alleged to have run over two protesting farmers. The brutal killings of farmers at Lakhimpur Kheri, Uttar Pradesh, October 3 under the wheels of the motorcade of Union Minister of State for Home Ajay Mishra' Teni has drawn national attention. This retaliatory attack forms a set pattern which the BJP government has been following to stonewall protests against its decisions and policies. As it happened on many a previous occasion, this time also, the BJP government in Uttar Pradesh has made the scene of mayhem inaccessible to Opposition politicians and the media.

What is worse in the case of Lakhimpur Kheri is that the Centre has become so insensitive that it has not yet asked the minister involved in the gruesome incident to step down immediately for the sake of fair investigation and justice.

As facts are emerging, the minister himself appears to have set the stage for the bloody showdown which took an ugly turn after the driver of an SUV that was part of the minister's motorcade mowed down the farmers. The driver, some claim it was the minister's son, seemed to have been unnerved by the gathering crowd of protesting farmers and so drove over them.

As observed in a video that has gone viral, the minister provoked the farmers in the haughtiest manner possible warning them of dire consequences if they did not withdraw their nearly year-long agitation against the three controversial farm laws. His words, as heard in the video, only show the scant respect he has for decency. The tone is threatening, to say the least. "This country is of farmers. I am also a farmer; you are also a farmer. If I got down to action, then you would not even have found a way to run away. If the farm laws were bad, the protests would have spread across the country," Mishra purportedly said.

In a way, the Centre's refusal to act against the minister is understandable. For, his words and actions seem to be in consonance with the thinking of his party. It has, by now, made it an integral part of its strategy while dealing with popular protests. It first contemptuously turns down criticism of its policies and laws that it wants to shove down the throats of the people. Thereafter it adopts an ostrich-like policy not to see the reality when protests become stormy. If that does not work, it shows its muscles by making the protests appear a law and order issue. When protesters behave belligerently even after that, attempts are made to brand them as anti-nationals and draconian laws under the Sedition Rules or the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act (UAPA) are invoked to browbeat them into surrender. It could achieve some measure of success in the case of civil rights activists whom the government calls 'urban naxals'. When the effort to paint the agitating farmers as collaborators of Khalistani separatists failed, the government adopted the tactic of total indifference hoping that once the movement is pushed out of media headlines, it would die down. However, the farmers have proved to be hard nuts and that they are neither dependent on the media nor on politicians to champion their cause. They have shown a unique way of asserting their right and voicing their protests against what they believe are anti-farmer laws on their own strength. And that seems to have unnerved the government. The brutality at Lakhimpur Kheri is one such manifestation.

The minister may also have been prompted by the anxiety of his party that the protests may adversely affect the party in the coming UP Assembly elections in this region, which is why he seems to have chosen the option of whipping up a fear-psychosis among the farmers. The BJP won all the eight seats in this district in the 2017 Assembly polls which was a remarkable improvement as it had bagged only one seat in the 2012 polls. This district in UP's Terai belt has strong links with agriculture with considerable Sikh population.

Lakhimpur Kheri's demography shows Brahmins as the dominant group, followed by Muslims and Kurmis among non-Yadav OBCs. The farmers here mainly depend on sugarcane production. There are chances that there will be electoral repercussion on five other districts in this belt which together account for 42 Assembly seats. The BJP won 37 of these seats in the 2017 Assembly polls, the Samajwadi Party that contested in alliance with the Congress got four seats and the BSP one.

The BJP seemingly fears the farmers' agitation against the three farm laws may upset its appcart this time around. Hence, the Union Minister of State for Home appears to have used intimidation as a tool to ensure the BJP can repeat its 2017 performance. The Centre's delay in taking action against him and his son involved in the gruesome incident only strengthens suspicion.

Pharmacogenomics

It's well known that patients do not all react the same to a given drug. The range is so wide that some do not respond at all, or only adversely, to drugs which are perfectly adequate for others. It seems that much of the variation is due to small differences in our individual genetic make-ups, often on only a single element of our DNA (called single nucleotide polymorphisms, thankfully abbreviated to SNPs, pronounced snips). The new field of pharmacogenomics builds on the detailed research now being conducted to determine the exact sequence of DNA in our bodies (the human genome), and on the advanced genetic tools now becoming available. The aim is to work out what the differences between patients' DNA mean for drug efficiency and to create suitable diagnostic tests. Pharmacologists can then produce drugs that are tailored for patients with a particular genetic sequence and ensure that patients who are susceptible to the side-effects of a drug are not given it. The word is a combination of pharmaco-, the prefix that relates to the study of medicines or drugs, with genomics, itself a word too new for most dictionaries, meaning the formal study of the genetic make-up of organisms. Within a decade, pharmacogenomics and DNA-chip technology could provide effective drugs personalised to match patients' symptoms with their individual genetic make-ups (Daily Telegraph, Feb. 1998). The real push toward pharmacogenomics may be driven by managed health care. A diagnostic test, even if it does add cost, could avoid the expense of today's trial-and-error methods of making multiple doctor's visits to have a prescription adjusted (Scientific American, Oct. 1998).

Greedy lawyer

A lawyer opened the door of his BMW, when suddenly a car came along and hit the door, ripping it off completely. When the police arrived at the scene, the lawyer was complaining bitterly about the damage to his precious BMW. "Officer, look what they've done to my Beeeeeemer!!!" he whined.

"You lawyers are so materialistic, you make me sick!!!" retorted the officer. "You're so worried about your stupid BMW, that you didn't even notice that your left arm was ripped off!" "Oh no!" replied the lawyer, finally noticing the bloody left shoulder where his arm once was. "Where's my Rolex????!!!"

Don't object to marriage, except to an object

THIS IS, OF COURSE, A COMMON PROBLEM IN MARRIAGES: ONE PARTNER EXPECTS THE OTHER TO CHANGE

At any given moment, there are probably millions of people around the world who are dreaming of wedding ceremonies. They have a strong desire to dress up in bridal finery and make a lifetime commitment in front of friends and relatives. Many of these single people are dreaming of marrying a particular person, perhaps a boyfriend or girlfriend or someone whom their parents have selected. But others do not yet have a specific person in mind: they are still searching, hoping, praying, and dreaming.

Some of them are so intent on getting married, wearing a bride's dress or groom's suit that they just go ahead and do it. "Why should I keep waiting for the perfect person?" they ask themselves.

That's what an Indonesian man named Khoiril Anam recently did. He asked himself an important question: "Who has provided me with rice for the last few years?"

After contemplating this question, he dressed up in his traditional wedding attire and got married in a private ceremony to his rice cooker.

According to news reports, Anam draped a sheer white veil on the rice cooker, giving it the appearance of a bride. He shared pictures of the wedding on social media, including one photo in which he's kissing his bride, and another in which he's signing the official wedding papers. He revealed his reasons for marrying the rice cooker in a caption, saying she was "fair, obedient, loving and good at cooking."

He did not share any details about the wedding night. We can only guess that he kept the bride plugged in and had a steamy night.

No details about the honeymoon were revealed either. Perhaps the newlyweds took a boat ride to a nearby island, and perhaps the bride, in a romantic gesture, sat on the groom's lap the whole time.

Unfortunately, the marriage did not last. Four days after tying the knot, Anam announced that he was divorcing his wife. His reason: she was good at cooking rice but could not cook any other dishes.

This is, of course, a common problem in marriages: one partner expects the other to change.

Anam: "Rice, rice, rice. All you keep cooking is rice. I'm tired of rice."

Cooker: "Stop pushing my buttons! You keep pushing my buttons!"

Anam: "What else can I do, but push your buttons and hope you cook something else?"

Cooker: "If you had wanted your wife to cook something else, you should have married an Instant Pot. But the Instant Pot isn't fair and obedient, is it?"

The lesson for all single people is clear: do not marry a rice cooker and expect it to suddenly turn into a chapati maker. If you want a chapati maker, then marry a chapati maker.

It's always sad when a marriage ends in divorce, especially when it has a big impact on statistics. As far as I know, the divorce rate in human history when a man marries a rice cooker is now 100 per cent. I'm not sure, however, what the divorce rate is for all marriages involving humans and objects.

Yes, in case you are wondering, Anam is not the first human to think of marrying an object. One British woman married a duvet (a type of blanket); another Brit married a chandelier; and an American woman married a train station.

None of these marriages are legally binding, of course. Anam's marriage to the rice cooker was mainly a publicity stunt, but thanks to him, perhaps fewer people will object to marrying humans.

Groom's father: "Good news. My son has changed his mind. He will marry your daughter, Priya, after all." Bride's father: "That's wonderful! We were praying for such an outcome. What made him change his mind?"

Groom's father: "I told him to make a choice. I said, 'You must either marry a nice cook like Priya or a rice cooker.' He made a good choice."

Vaccine rules

Sir, India is justified in slapping tit-for-tat travel curbs on UK national after the latter imposed quarantine rules for Indians who have been vaccinated with two doses of AstraZeneca's Covishield. Under the UK rules, Indian travellers who have received both doses of Covishield vaccine manufactured by the Serum Institute of India will still be considered 'unvaccinated'. In the wake of the UK's refusal to remove quarantine rules for vaccinated Indian travellers, India decided to impose reciprocal restrictions on UK nationals travelling to India from October 4. India can never be blamed for adopting such reciprocal measures against the UK. Notwithstanding the fact that Covishield is a vaccine of British origin, the UK was firm on its rules. By imposing such irrational rules the UK offended Indians and discriminated against them. According to the new Indian rules, all UK nationals, irrespective of their vaccination status, will have to comply with four measures that include RT-PCR test and mandatory quarantine for 10 days. Authorities in the ministry of health and family welfare and ministry of civil aviation would be responsible for the implementation and monitoring of the rules. In the wake of India's imposition of vaccine rules for UK nationals, the UK is frantically trying to engage with the Indian government to resolve the issue. Countries like the UK must realise that when the world is faced with a health crisis, all must stand together and combat the disease. Prejudice and discrimination must be replaced with mutual help and co-operation. Venu GS, KOLLAM

UP mayhem

Sir, The recent mayhem articulated by unscrupulous and anti-social elements at Lakhimpur Kheri in Uttar Pradesh during the farmers' peaceful agitation is unfortunate and disheartening. The killing and mob-lynching of innocent farmers and political workers have taken the political circles by storm. The house arrest and detention of noted political leaders have worsened the situation. Instead of arresting the culprits, the administration is detaining political leaders and this is not the desired solution. As the state goes to Assembly elections next year, a proper magisterial inquiry and forensic examination will go a long way in nabbing the culprits. It is imperative to maintain law and order in the affected area on a priority basis. The onus is on the state administration to take tough measures against mobs and anti-social elements which are disrupting peace and spreading terror among the public. Prabhudutt Dash, BHUBANESWAR

Bolangir, Oct 5: Bolangir police arrested Tuesday three members of a high profile ATM looting gang of Haryana. They had been duping depositors with cloned cards.

Reports said, Panda had withdrawn ₹10,000 and again tried to withdraw another ₹10,000 which failed. On the pretext of offering help, the accused Sumit, who entered the kiosk, tried to insert Panda's card into a swipe machine which he was carrying.

Panda confronted him but Sumit threatened him and tried to escape. Locals rushed to the spot and overpowered Sumit. They handed him over to the police. Subsequently, a joint police team tracked the mobile phones of the other accused. One was nabbed from near Deogaon and the third from the Titlagarh

The SDPO informed the three accused used to steal money from the accounts of people by cloning their cards through skimming machines. "The gang members have sound technical knowledge. They would collect data from the debit cards of people by using another machine connected via Bluetooth. With the information, they used to prepare cloned cards," Bag said.

Later, the gang members would manage to obtain the secret PIN and later withdraw money using the cloned cards. Further investigation into the case is underway, police said.

KERALA FAKE ANTIQUE DEALER CASE

Opposition, govt trade charges in Assembly

AGENCIES

Thiruvananthapuram, Oct 5: The Kerala Assembly Tuesday witnessed trading of charges between the ruling and treasury benches over the now arrested fake antique dealer Monson Mavunkal with Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan stating that no one will be spared.

Vijayan added that the Archaeological Survey of India and DRDO have been asked to probe the validity of the antiques which are in possession of Mavunkal.

Vijayan was replying to an adjournment motion moved by Congress legislator PT Thomas, who linked the role of recently retired State Police chief Loknath Behra and a Kerala woman (Anita Pullalalyil) hailing from Trissur, now settled in Italy in the fake antique case.

Thomas asked in the House, "How come this lady was present in key conferences of the Kerala Police and also of the Kerala government." He alleged that she was the link between Mavunkal and the government.

Replying to this Vijayan took a dig and without naming anyone, said, "All in Kerala know who was the one who had gone and stayed there for treatment. I am not going into all such details now. Everything is now being probed by the police," said Vijayan.

Vijayan was referring to State Congress president K Sudhakaran, who had approached Mavunkal for some skin ailment. Though Vijayan did not name Sudhakaran, it's known to all, as Sudhakaran himself had admitted that he had visited Mavunkal.

Vijayan informed that four different cases and a criminal case have also been registered against Mavunkal and none will escape the law.

Thomas pointed out that Behra

went to the extent of providing police security to the antique museum of the fraudster antique dealer.

"All have seen the pictures of top police officials (Behra and now serving additional director general of police Manoj Abraham) visiting Mavunkal's museum and it's surprising that even after suspicion was raised and a letter was there from the police, it took two years for the police to probe the case. It's really surprising that you (Vijayan) said you came to know of this fraud only recently, which means you did not see the police report filed two years back," said Thomas and pointed out that the authenticity of a copper plate inscription on Sabarimala in Mavunkal's possession has also now come up.

Vijayan, however, pointed out that since the entire case is being probed which includes the issue on Sabarimala also, at the moment he will not be able to reveal any more details.

With Vijayan's reply, Speaker MB Rajesh was satisfied and he denied leave for the adjournment motion and soon Leader of Opposition VD Satheesan got up and said it was natural that public personalities like politicians will be photographed at various places.

"The Intelligence had given a very detailed report in 2019 about Mavunkal and his deeds, but nothing was done. It was the police which gave credibility to this fraudster by providing security and top police officials visited him. We will cooperate with any agency and no need to target anyone and if anyone is targeted, we will surely hit back," said Satheesan and added that even film stars had gone for beauty treatment.

Satheesan later walked out with other opposition legislators, after permission was denied to discuss this issue.

54-year-old Mavunkal took all his high profile guests into his fold by showcasing antiques in his collection, which he claimed included the "staff of Moses" and "two of the 30 silver coins that were taken by Judas to cheat Jesus Christ".

Police said he had showcased these "rare" items - a throne said to be used by Tipu Sultan, as well as a huge collection of old Qurans, Bibles (Old Testament and New Testament), and old handwritten copies of Bhagavad Gita. Mavunkal used to bring several VIPs to his palatial residence, a part of which was converted into a museum to house his 'precious' antiques.

Last month he was arrested by the Crime Branch after six people complained of getting cheated by Mavunkal.

Schools likely to reopen in Bengal

SCHOOLS HAVE STARTED OPENING UP IN DIFFERENT STATES

AGENCIES

Kolkata, Oct 5: In a significant development, the West Bengal finance department has sanctioned ₹109 crore to the education department for the renovation of 6,468 state government schools in the state, indicative enough the government is keen to open the schools after Durga Puja.

Though the notification doesn't mention anything about the reopening of the schools but it is indicative enough the state has moved another step closer to the opening of the schools in the state.

"The opening of the schools is subject to other factors but as of now the third wave of Corona has not made much effect in the state and in that case if the schools are to be opened then we will have to keep the buildings ready for one year and nine months there has been no activity in the schools and naturally the buildings are in a very bad shape. The opening of the schools will depend on the final nod of the chief minister," a senior official of the state education department said.

On August 5 this year after her meeting with the Global advisory body Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee had said that her government was considering reopening of schools and colleges that have been shut since March due to the second wave of the coronavirus (Covid-19) pandemic.

Banerjee had said that educational institutes might reopen in West Bengal on alternate days after the Durga Puja vacation in November.

However, the education department officials indicated that the schools might not open in a full-fledged manner.

"There might be an alternative arrangement like the students might be divided into two groups and will be asked to attend the schools three days a week. The number of students in a particular class will be reduced so that a safe distance is maintained. The department is presently working on the modalities," the official added.

Schools asked to repair buildings

The West Bengal school education department has sent a notification to all state-run and state-aided secondary and higher secondary schools to repair their buildings. The notification said a consolidated amount has been allocated for 6,468 secondary and higher secondary schools located in different districts of the state towards repair and maintenance of their buildings and compounds and said the schools concerned will have to send the details of their audited expenses under different heads to the district authorities, officials said. The divine inter-state journey that keeps alive a century-old tradition

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Thiruvananthapuram, Oct 5: The Gods came out of their respective shrines in Tamil Nadu and embarked on a grand journey Sunday to reach Kerala.

The Covid protocols forced them to shun their usual ceremonial vehicles but their procession is expected to reach here this evening as scheduled, covering several kilometres by road and accepting ritualistic welcome by devotees and the guard-of-honour from the armed police at the borders.

The arrival of these three sacred idols from Tamil Nadu has been marking the beginning of the annual Navratri festivities in Kerala capital for nearly two centuries. For the last over 180 years, the idols of 'Saraswathy', the Goddess of knowledge and art, 'Kumaraswami', the warrior deity and 'Munnotti Nanga' who symbolises the power worship, have been travelling the distance to mark the festival here as part of a practice that existed in the erstwhile princely state of Travancore (present south Kerala). The idols atop the decked up vehicles would cover a distance of 100 kms between Kanyakumari and the Kerala capital, to and fro.

This year's nine-day Navratri festivities will get underway here October 6. Adithya Varma, a member of the Travancore royal family, said it was the visionary king Swathi Thirunal who had introduced the practice of bringing the idols here in 1839.

All the three idols were brought from Kanyakumari district of neighbouring Tamil Nadu, which had been part of Travancore during the pre-independence royal era. When Kerala was formed

November 1, 1956 after the reorganisation of the states, it had lost four southern taluks-Thovala, Agastheeswaram, Kalkulam and

MATTER OF FAITH

Though the three idols were traditionally brought atop a caparisoned elephant, silver horse and a decorated palanquin respectively with the accompaniment of hundreds of people including devotees, it was avoided this time due to the pandemic protocol

This year, the idols were being brought to Kerala in vehicles decorated with flowers

Vilavancode - which had been amalgamated to form Kanyakumari district and made part of Tamil Nadu. But, the ceremonial procession of idols have been continuing under the aegis of the democratic governments of the two states till date. The idol of Goddess Saraswathy is brought from the Thevarakettu temple located inside the historic Padmanabhapuram palace while that of Kumaraswami from Kumarakoil Shri Murugan Temple.

Goddess Munnotti Nanga joins the procession from the ancient Suchindram temple, which is also located in Kanyakumari district. For the people of the southern states, it is an occasion to reminisce about the tradition, legacy and bond shared by them during their bygone past. Ahead of the procession, Kerala State Minister for Devaswom, K Radhakrishna, Sunday, accepted the traditional sword of Travancore royals kept at "upparika malika" of the Padmanabhapuram palace, from the representatives of the Tamil Nadu government. It was later handed over to the devaswom officials, accompanying the idols during the procession.

Letter to SC seeks high-level judicial probe

AGENCIES

New Delhi, Oct 5: A letter was sent to the Supreme Court on Tuesday seeking a high-level judicial inquiry, involving the CBI, under the supervision of the apex court into the October 3 Lakhimpur Kheri incident in which eight people were killed as violence erupted during a farmers' protest.

The letter by two advocates has urged Chief Justice of India N V Ramana to treat it as public interest litigation (PIL) so that guilty could be "brought to justice".

It has also sought direction to the Home Ministry and the police to register an FIR in the case and punish those allegedly involved in the incident.

LAST RITES PERFORMED

Bahraich/Lakhimpur Kheri (UP): The Uttar Pradesh authorities Tuesday agreed to the demand for a second post-mortem of a farmer killed in the Lakhimpur Kheri incident after his family refused to cremate him, while mortal remains of the three others were consigned to flames at their native places during the day. Family members of Gurvinder Singh (22) of Moharia village of Bahraich had refused to cremate him till a second autopsy is done, claiming that he was shot dead. They received support from farmer leader Rakesh Tikait and Punjabi singer Sonia Maan, who arrived in the village Tuesday evening. Senior district administration officials confirmed that the second post-mortem of Gurvinder will be conducted at the district hospital. They said a vehicle has been sent to bring the body to the hospital post-mortem house. A team of experts has arrived at Bahraich district police line from capital Lucknow by helicopter for the autopsy, they said.

this court, involving CBI within a stipulated time.

It said having regard to the seriousness of the killing of farmers, it is incumbent upon the apex court to intervene in the matter.

Eight people were killed on October 3 as violence erupted during a farmers' protest claiming the lives of both farmers and BJP workers ahead of a visit to Lakhimpur by Uttar Pradesh Deputy Chief Minister Keshav Prasad Maurya.

The apex court, while hearing a plea by a farmers' body protesting against the three new farm laws and seeking directions to authorities to allow it to stage 'satyagrah' at Jantar Mantar here, had on Monday observed that nobody takes the responsibility when such incidents happen.

The observations by the top court had come when Attorney General K K Venugopal referred to the "unfortunate" incident at Lakhimpur Kheri.

Several farmer organisations are protesting against the passage of three laws -- The Farmers Produce Trade and Commerce (Promotion and Facilitation) Act, 2020, The Essential Commodities (Amendment) Act, 2020 and Farmers (Empowerment and Protection) Agreement on Price Assurance and Farm Services Act, 2020. Initially, the protests started from Punjab in November last year and later spread mainly to Delhi, Haryana, and Uttar Pradesh.

Ready for 'two front' war: Air Chief Marshal

Air Chief Marshal VR Chaudhari said the IAF should have around 35 fighter squadrons by the next decade as he talked about the phasing out of old aircraft and induction of new ones

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, Oct 5: Chief of Air Staff Air Chief Marshal VR Chaudhari said Tuesday that the Indian Air Force is fully committed to the theaterisation concept to best utilise India's military resources but at the same time stressed that the new model should reflect the strengths and requirements of each service.

Addressing a press conference ahead of Air Force Day on October 8, he said the IAF is fully prepared to deal with any security challenge in eastern Ladakh and that new air-bases and other infrastructure created by the Chinese side in the region will not affect his force's combat readiness.

The newly-appointed Chief of Air Staff spoke on a range of issues including the IAF's modernisation plan, dealing with new security challenges in the wake of geopolitical developments, enhancing the force's capability to deal with rogue drones and phasing out old aircraft like the MiG-21 jets.

Air Chief Marshal Chaudhari said the IAF should have around 35 fighter squadrons by the next decade as he talked about the phasing out of old aircraft and induction of new ones. He said there are four MiG-21 squadrons and the plan is to retire them in the next three to four years.

Asked about security threats emanating from close ties between Islamabad and Beijing, he said there was nothing to worry about the partnership, but flagged concerns over the possibility of western technology reaching China from Pakistan.

Assuring the nation that the IAF will be ever ready to safeguard the nation's sovereignty and interests in all circumstances, Air Chief

Air Chief Marshal Vivek Ram Chaudhari speaks during a press conference, ahead of the 89th Air Force Day on October 8, in New Delhi, Tuesday

Marshal Chaudhari said his force is effectively capable of dealing with a "two-front" war scenario involving China and Pakistan.

Replying to a question on China ramping up infrastructure development along the Line of Actual Control (LAC) in eastern Ladakh, he said India was aware of it and noted that the neighbouring country continued its deployment at three airbases in the Tibet region.

However, he said the building of airfields and other infrastructure by China will not impact India's military preparedness and suggested that the Chinese military has the disadvantage of high altitude in the region. "That is a weak area for them." "We are fully prepared to deal with any situation and challenge in the region," said the IAF chief.

Air Chief Marshal Chaudhari also noted that the IAF was fully committed to theaterisation concept to maximise the utilisation of military resources. But noted that wider discussions on the requirement of each service should be ensured to carry forward the initiative.

BJP sweeps GMC polls Woman burnt alive

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Gandhinagar, Oct 5: Crushing the opposition by bagging 41 ward seats in the civic polls, the BJP ensured that it will rule the Gandhinagar Municipal Corporation (GMC), polling for which was held Sunday. This thumping victory gives the ruling party in Gujarat much more confidence for the assembly elections slated next year.

The BJP scored over arch rival Congress, bagging 41 ward seats out of the total 44 seats. Two seats were claimed by the Congress with the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) debuting in the political arena here with one seat. The GMC saw approximately over 56 percent polling in eleven wards of the state's capital. This was higher than in the last elections held in 2016, which was 52.02 percent. Polling went off peacefully with no untoward incident reported anywhere.

With the entry of the Aam Aadmi Party in the political scenario of Gujarat, the Gandhinagar Municipal Corporation elections saw a three pronged battle on Sunday.

The Gujarat SEC held the GMC elections at 284 polling booths. Out of the total booths, four were marked as extremely sensitive, 144 sensitive and 136 normal booths. Out of the total 2.30 lakh registered voters in the state capital Gandhinagar, approximately over 56 percent exercised their democratic right to elect 44 councillors from 162 candidates across 11 wards of the GMC.

Of the 2,81,897 voters, 1,58,354 exercised their franchise on Sunday, with 86,046 male voters and 72,308 female voters. The least polling was registered in the Panchdev temple ward, in the heart of the city, with approximate 37.41 per cent and the maximum was registered in the Kolawada-Vavol ward with approximate 66.93 per cent polling.

Reprimanding student for indiscipline is no abetment to suicide: SC

IN A JUDGMENT, A BENCH COMPRISING JUSTICES S. ABDUL NAZEER AND KRISHNA MURARI SAID, IT IS NOT UNCOMMON THAT TEACHERS REPRIMAND A STUDENT FOR NOT BEING ATTENTIVE OR NOT BEING UP TO THE MARK IN STUDIES OR FOR BUNKING CLASSES OR NOT ATTENDING THE SCHOOL

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

New Delhi, Oct 5: The Supreme Court Tuesday said if a student is simply reprimanded by a teacher for an act of indiscipline and when the same conveyed to the parents to discipline the child, which results in child committing suicide, then teacher cannot be charged and tried for the offence of abetment of suicide under section 306 of the IPC.

In a judgment, a bench comprising justices S. Abdul Nazeer and Krishna Murari said, it is not uncommon that teachers reprimand a student for not being attentive or not being up to the mark in studies or for bunking classes or not attending the school. "The disciplinary measures adopted by a teacher, reprimanding a student for his indiscipline, in our considered opinion, would not tantamount to provoking a student to commit suicide, unless there are repeated specific allegations of harassment and insult deliberately without any justifiable cause or reason", said the bench, adding that it is a solemn duty of a teacher to instill discipline in the students.

The bench noted that a simple act of reprimand of a student for his behaviour by a teacher, who is under moral obligations to inculcate the good qualities in a student, would definitely not amount to instigation or intentionally aid to the commission of a suicide by a student.

The top court made these observations while quashing an FIR filed against a physical training teacher of a school on charges of abetment to suicide. A grade 9 student had died by suicide and left a note blaming the teacher. The mother lodged an FIR alleging that her son committed suicide due to mental harassment meted out by the teacher.

"Insofar as, the suicide note is concerned, despite our minute examination of the same, all we can say is that suicide note is rhetoric document, penned down by an immature mind", noted the bench. The bench said a criminal trial is not exactly a pleasant experience and the appellant who is a teacher would certainly suffer great prejudice, if he has to face prosecution on absurd allegations of irrelevant nature.

The teacher had found the boy regularly bunking classes, initially he reprimanded him but on account of repeated acts, brought this fact to the knowledge of the principal, who called the parents on telephone to come to the school. "No further overt act has been attributed to the appellant either in the First Information Report or in the statement of the complainant, nor anything in this regard has been stated in the alleged suicide note", the bench noted, setting aside the Rajasthan High Court judgment, which refused to quash the FIR against the teacher.

Pak Taliban's next target

Kabul, Oct 5: It is widely believed by the international community and global powers that the swift and shockingly fast takeover of the Taliban in Afghanistan has been possible due to the support of Pakistan, which is said to have been a major beneficiary of gains as a result. However, the reality on ground in Afghanistan seems to be entirely different as many Taliban fighters see Pakistan as their next target of attack.

SPEAKING TO MANY TALIBAN FIGHTERS DEPUTED AND POSITIONED AS SECURITY PERSONNEL IN DIFFERENT PARTS OF KABUL, IT WAS WITNESSED THAT THE NEXT COUNTRY FOR JIHAD AND IMPOSITION OF ISLAMIC RULE OF LAW, IN THE EYE AND VIEWS OF THE TALIBAN FIGHTERS, IS PAKISTAN

PAK SOLDIERS SURRENDER

As per statements on Twitter, some Pakistan Army soldiers have surrendered to the Tehreek-e-Taliban Pakistan (TTP) armed militia in Waziristan. "Keeping up 'parampara' (tradition) of surrender... Surrendered Pakistani Army soldiers paraded by terrorist org Tahirik-e-Taliban TTP in Mirali, Waziristan," Pakistani human rights activist Arif Aajakia said on Twitter along with an image. Earlier, Pakistan Prime Minister Imran Khan had said the government is in talks with some groups of the banned Tehreek-i-Taliban Pakistan (TTP), seeking a reconciliation, the Dawn had reported.

ings, which has been the prime demand of the group even during their two-year-long negotiations with the US, which led to the 2020 Doha Agreement. While the Taliban leadership strives to claim their success story in Afghanistan, many fighters believe that the takeover of Afghanistan and imposition of the Islamic Shariah law is not the end to their struggle, but is the beginning of the spread of their jihad in the rest of the world. "Alhamdulillah we have brought the Islamic Shariah law in Afghanistan. Now, we will do the same in Pakistan. We will attack Pakistan and impose Islamic Shariah law in that country also soon Insha Allah," said one of the Taliban fighters. "The current setup in Pakistan is un-Islamic and is wrong. We will wage jihad on Pakistan and spread our Islamic laws, applied in Afghanistan, into Pakistan soon," another Taliban fighter stated. During the conversation, the Taliban fighters lashed out at the Pakistan government for providing bases to US forces and allowing them to be used to kill them through drone strikes. The fighters also slammed Pakistan for providing logistics and routes for NATO supplies to Afghanistan. "Pakistan's government has been a puppet government. They gave bases to the US. Provided their land routes for NATO supplies and even worked with them against us. This is not right and we will make sure that Pakistan's current puppet setup is changed and Islamic laws are implemented there also," he said. The Taliban leadership may claim that it will not allow its soil to be used against any country including Pakistan, but the sentiments among the Taliban fighters certainly raise major concerns over the tendency and vulnerability of fighters, who may be used by others groups to not only target Pakistan but also push the Taliban leadership under criticism.

A SHOCKING FRENCH REPORT

'3.3 lakh kids victims of church sex abuse'

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Paris, Oct 5: A major French report released Tuesday found that an estimated 330,000 children were victims of sex abuse within France's Catholic Church over the past 70 years, in France's first major reckoning with the devastating phenomenon.

The president of the commission that issued the report, Jean-Marc Sauve, said the estimate, based on scientific research, includes abuses committed by priests and others clerics as well as by non-religious people involved in the church. He said about 80 per cent are male victims. "The consequences are very serious," Sauve said. "About 60% of men and women who were sexually abused encounter major problems in their sentimental or sexual life."

times association "Parler et Revivre" (Speak out and Live again), who contributed to the probe, told The Associated Press that the high ratio of victims per abuser is particularly "terrifying for French society, for the Catholic Church." The commission worked for 2 1/2 years, listening to victims and witnesses and studying church, court, police and press archives starting from the 1950s. A hotline launched at the beginning of the probe received 6,500 calls from alleged victims or people who said they knew a victim. Sauve denounced the church's attitude until the beginning of the 2000s as "a deep, cruel indifference toward victims." They were "not believed or not heard" and sometimes suspected of being "in part responsible" for what happened, he deplored.

The 2,500-page document prepared by an independent commission comes as the Catholic Church in France, like in other countries, seeks to face up to shameful secrets that were long covered up.

The report comes after a scandal surrounding now-defrocked priest Bernard Preynat rocked the French Catholic Church. Last year, Preynat was convicted of sexually abusing minors and given a five-year prison sentence.

Chinese military activity near Taiwan provocative: US

"We urge Beijing to cease its military, diplomatic, and economic pressure and coercion against Taiwan, and we have an abiding interest in peace and stability across the Taiwan Strait," she said. "That's why we will continue to assist Taiwan in maintaining a sufficient self-defence capability. We maintain our commitments, as outlined in the three communiques, Taiwan Relations Act, and the Six Assurances," she said.

Taiwan's Defence Ministry said 56 Chinese warplanes made incursions into its air defence identification zone on Monday, the highest number since the island began publicly reporting such activities last year.

America's commitment to Taiwan is "rock-solid and contributes to the maintenance of peace and stability across the Taiwan Strait and within the region," Psaki said. "We have been clear, privately and publicly, about our concern about the PRC's pressure and coercion toward Taiwan, and we will continue to watch the situation very closely," she said. Meanwhile, State Department Spokesperson Ned Price told reporters that the US is very concerned by China's provocative military activity near Taiwan.

China views Taiwan as a break-away province. However, democratic Taiwan sees itself as a sovereign state. Beijing has not ruled out the possible use of force to achieve unification with Taiwan.

"This activity is destabilising. It risks miscalculations and undermines regional peace and stability. We strongly urge Beijing to cease its military, diplomatic, and economic pressure and coercion against Taiwan," he said. Some analysts say the increased military flights could be seen as a warning to Taiwan's president Tsai Ing-wen ahead of the island's National Day October 10.

UAE's new space mission

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dubai, Oct 5: The United Arab Emirates Tuesday announced plans to send a probe to land on an asteroid between Mars and Jupiter to collect data on the origins of the universe, the latest project in the oil-rich federation's ambitious space program.

A successful landing would see the UAE join an elite club of the European Union, Japan and the United States, which have completed the feat.

will travel some 3.6 billion kilometers (2.2 billion miles). The spacecraft would need to slingshot first around Venus and then the Earth to gather enough speed to reach an asteroid some 560 million kilometers (350 million miles) away.

The probe would remain behind on the asteroid, transmitting back to Earth information on the composition of the asteroid as long as its batteries remain charged. The project targets a 2028 launch with a landing in 2033, a five-year journey in which the spacecraft will travel some 3.6 billion kilometers (2.2 billion miles). The spacecraft would need to slingshot first around Venus and then the Earth to gather enough speed to reach an asteroid some 560 million kilometers (350 million miles) away.

It's still under discussion what data the Emirates will collect but the mission will be an even greater challenge that previous ones, given the spacecraft will travel both near the sun and far from it, said Sarah al-Amiri, the chair of the UAE Space Agency and a minister of state for advanced technology.

'Pandora papers' show London is a key hub for tax avoidance

ASSOCIATED PRESS

London, Oct 5: Transparency advocates are calling on Britain to tighten the country's defenses against money laundering and tax avoidance after a massive leak of financial data showed how London is a key destination of choice for some of the world's richest and most powerful people to conceal their cash.

The cache of almost 12 million files shows how wealthy people around the world reportedly set up offshore companies to buy property and avoid taxes.

Foreign individuals identified as beneficiaries of these types of offshore accounts in London include Jordanian King Abdullah II, Azerbaijan's President Ilham Aliyev and associates of Pakistani Prime Minister Imran Khan. Abdullah has denied any impropriety and Khan tweeted that his government would investigate anyone mentioned and take appropriate action if wrongdoing is found. Aliyev hasn't commented. Though the purchases are legal under British law, they highlight the complicated — and often anonymous — financial practices wealthy individuals use to avoid tax, far removed from the everyday experience of most of the British population.

London is a go-to for the rich and powerful because it's home to a sophisticated ecosystem of businesses that can help in the process, including creative wealth management firms, high-end lawyers and long-established accounting firms.

FB, Insta, WhatsApp, Messenger back online

AGENCIES

Washington, Oct 5: Facebook, Instagram, WhatsApp, and Messenger are now back up and running after the popular social media platforms suffered a massive global outage due to a "faulty configuration change" that lasted almost six hours, affecting tens of millions of users worldwide.

Network hurts kids, fuels division : Ex-FB employee

A former Facebook data scientist told Congress Tuesday that the social network giant's products harm children and fuel polarisation in the US while its executives refuse to change because they elevate profits over safety. And she laid responsibility with the company's CEO Mark Zuckerberg. Frances Haugen testified to the Senate Commerce Subcommittee on Consumer Protection. Speaking confidentially at a charged hearing, she accused the company of being aware of apparent harm to some teens from Instagram and being dishonest in its public fight against hate and misinformation. "Facebook's products harm children, stoke division and weaken our democracy," Haugen said.

are now back up and running. "We apologize to all those affected, and we're working to understand more about what happened today so we can continue to make our infrastructure more resilient," the Indian-American official said in a statement. All three services are owned by Facebook and could not be accessed over the web or on smartphone apps. WhatsApp users on both iPhone and Android could not make or receive phone or video calls or send text messages.

While the users of the three social media platforms remained clueless as they repeatedly received error messages for most part of the day, the stocks of Facebook dropped by nearly five per cent. Earlier, Facebook founder Mark Zuckerberg apologised to those affected by the outage. "Facebook, Instagram, WhatsApp and Messenger are coming back online now. Sorry for the disruption today - I know how much you rely on our services to stay connected with the people you care about," he posted on Facebook.

Mark Zuckerberg's personal wealth has fallen by more than $6 billion in a few hours, knocking him down a notch on the list of the world's richest people, after a whistleblower came forward and outages took Facebook Inc.'s flagship products offline.

A selloff sent the social-media giant's stock plummeting 4.9% on Monday, adding to a drop of about 15% since mid-September.

Power plants left with less than 4 days of dry fuel stocks

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, Oct 5: Ahead of the festival season, coal supply crisis seems to be deepening as 64 non-pithead power plants are left with less than four days of the dry fuel stocks.

The latest report on coal stocks for power plants from the Central Electricity Authority (CEA) also showed that 25 such power plants had coal stocks for less than seven days as on October 3.

As many as 64 non-pithead thermal power plants had less than four days of stocks of the dry fuel. The CEA monitors coal stocks at 135 power plants that have a cumulative generation capacity of 165 GW on a daily basis.

Overall, total coal stocks of 78,09,200 tonnes were available at the 135 plants as on October 3 and that was sufficient for four days.

The daily coal requirement of the 135 power plants with 165 GW of installed capacity is 18,24,100 tonnes. Among the 135 plants, not even a single one had eight or more days of coal stocks.

According to the report, there were seven non-pithead plants (where the coal mine is more than 1,500 kilometres away) which had less than five days of coal (super critical) while one such plant had less than nine days of stocks of dry fuel (critical).

Among the pithead power plants, three had less than three days of coal (supercritical) while seven had less than five days of stocks of dry fuel (critical).

The report also showed that 17 plants - with cumulative installed power generation capacity of 21,325 MW - had zero coal stocks while 20 power plants of 22,550 MW capacity had one day of the dry fuel stocks.

As many 20 power plants with a total generation capacity of 29,960 MW had two days of coal stocks while 19 power plants, with total generation capacity of 22,000 MW, had three days of the dry fuel stocks, as per the report.

The report showed that there were 15 power plants, with cumulative generation capacity of 16,890 MW, which had four days of coal stocks. Six power plants, having 7,174 MW generation capacity, had dry fuel stocks for five days.

Nine power plants with 9,360 MW total generation capacity had coal stocks for six days while one power plant of 2,270 MW generation capacity had dry fuel stocks for seven days.

Power Minister R K Singh had reportedly termed the coal shortage as way beyond normal.

Invest in EVs, charging pods: Govt to Coal India

REUTERS

Chennai, Oct 5: India's coal ministry has asked state-run Coal India to diversify its interests to areas such as electric vehicles and charging stations, according to an agenda document on the ministry's website.

"Coal India must diversify its business and must explore prospects in sunrise industries electric charging pods, electric vehicles etc," the coal ministry said in a document titled "Ministry of Coal's agenda for 2021-22".

Coal India is the world's largest coal mining company by production and accounts for over 80% of India's output of the fuel.

India is the second-largest importer, consumer and producer of coal, and has the world's fourth-largest reserves. It mainly imports from Indonesia, Australia and South Africa.

The federal government-controlled miner has already announced plans to invest in solar wafer manufacturing and power generation, coal gasification, extraction of coal bed methane and setting up aluminium smelters.

India has also asked the miner to consider participating in foreign tenders seeking coal after meeting domestic demand.

"Traders/coal consumers of the neighboring countries can also participate in the Special Spot e-auction / Spot e-auction windows of Coal India," the document read.

The ministry also said a "robust media campaign" was needed for "perception management in the coal sector," adding that plans submitted by Coal India and its units were being finalized.

Indian utilities are currently scrambling to secure coal supplies as inventories hit critical lows after a surge in power demand from industries and sluggish imports due to record global prices push power plants to the brink.

Moody's upgrades India's rating outlook to stable from negative

AGENCIES

New Delhi, Oct 5: International ratings agency Moody's Tuesday upgraded India's rating outlook to 'stable' from 'negative', saying a recovery is underway in Asia's third-largest economy and growth this fiscal will surpass the pre-pandemic rate.

Moody's Investors Service however kept India's sovereign rating at 'Baa3' - which is the lowest investment grade, just a notch above junk status.

The change in the rating outlook to 'stable' from 'negative', which was assigned in November 2019, reflected receding downside risks to the economy and financial system.

"An economic recovery is underway with activity picking up and broadening across sectors," Moody's said.

Following a deep contraction of 7.3 per cent in fiscal 2020 (ended March 2021), Moody's expects India's real GDP to surpass 2019 levels this fiscal year (April 2021 to March 2022), rebounding to a growth rate of 9.3 per cent, followed by 7.9 per cent in the next financial year.

"Downside risks to growth from subsequent coronavirus infection waves are mitigated by rising vac-ination rates and more selective use of restrictions on economic activity, as seen during the second wave," it noted.

The US-based ratings firm had in 2020 lowered India's rating from 'Baa2' with a 'negative' outlook, saying there would be challenges in policy implementation amid low growth and deteriorating fiscal position.

In a statement on Tuesday, Moody's said "the decision to change the outlook to stable reflects Moody's view that the downside risks from negative feedback between the real economy and fi-ancial system are receding."

With higher capital cushions and greater liquidity, banks and non-bank financial institutions pose much lesser risk to the sovereign than Moody's previously anticipated.

"And while risks stemming from a high debt burden and weak debt affordability remain, Moody's expects that the economic environment will allow for a gradual reduction of the general government fiscal deficit over the next few years, preventing further deterioration of the sovereign credit profile," it added.

DoT mulls withdrawing cases against telcos

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, Oct 5: The government is considering withdrawing legal cases against telecom companies, involving disputes of about ₹40,000 crore, according to a source.

In line with this, the Department of Telecom has already filed an affidavit before the Supreme Court in a case against Anil Ambani-promoted Reliance Communications to take an informed decision whether to proceed with the present appeal or not, the source said.

DoT has said the telecom sector is passing through a financial stress due to various circumstances and telecom services providers are making losses.

It has sighted representation from the Indian Banks' Association that adverse developments in the telecom sector may lead to failures, vanishing competition, duopoly, unsustainable operations and severe loss for the banking system which has a huge exposure to this sector.

"...The central government is desirous of reviewing and/or re-considering its decision to proceed with the present proceedings of appeal. It is submitted that considering the nature of issue involved, this decision will have to be taken after the scrutiny at various levels which may consume some reasonable time," the affidavit dated October 4 said.

According to the government, the amount involved in the cases imposes financial liability to the tune of ₹40,000 crore approximately on various telecom operators.

DoT has asked the Supreme Court for three weeks' time to enable "the central government to take an informed decision whether to proceed with the present appeal or not" and requested that the case be adjourned for a period of four weeks. The government September 15 had announced relief for telecom operators by giving them more time to pay dues and interest on penalties in the form of equities.

DoT said the decision was taken to promote public interest, protect government revenue and more particularly encourage competition amongst telecom operators by preventing a situation where viability of some of the service providers becomes unsustainable

The government is considering withdrawing legal cases against telecom companies, involving disputes of about ₹40,000 crore resulting in monopolistic situations and other adverse impact on the economy.

Cyril Amarchand Mangaldas partner Sameer Chugh said DoT seeking time from the Supreme Court to review and reconsider its decision to proceed with the appeal against the order of the TDSAT in case of RCom seems yet another step to rectify the past anomalies.

"Clearly, the signs of the revival and the future growth of the telecom sector will be a boost to the overall economy also. This will give telcos like Airtel and Vodafone further relief on the amounts owed to DoT from the past and allow for investment into technologies like 5G. The telecom sector, which has been an extremely litigious sector, will see decline in litigation paving the way for more focus on business," Chugh said.

Hockey India pull out of 2022 CWG

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, Oct 5: India Tuesday pulled out of next year's Birmingham Commonwealth Games' hockey competition, citing COVID-19 concerns and UK's discriminatory quarantine rules for travellers from the country, a day after England's withdrawal from the junior men's World Cup in Bhubaneswar over similar reasons.

Hockey India President Gyanandro Ningombam communicated the federation's decision to Indian Olympic Association (IOA) President Narinder Batra in a letter.

Hockey India reasoned that there is only a 32-day window available between the Birmingham Games (July 28-August 8) and the Hangzhou Asian Games (September 10-25).

HI said it can't risk sending its players to the UK, which has been one of the worst affected by the coronavirus pandemic.

"You will appreciate that the Asian games is the Continental qualification event for the 2024 Paris Olympic Games and keeping the priority of the Asian Games in mind, Hockey India cannot risk any members of the Indian teams contracting COVID-19 during the Commonwealth Games," Ningombam wrote.

"Therefore, Hockey India will not be sending its men and women teams to Commonwealth Games 2022 and are informing you in advance to kindly notify the Organisers to identify reserve teams."

The UK recently refused to recognise India's COVID-19 vaccination certificates and imposed a 10-day hard quarantine on travellers from the country even if they were fully vaccinated.

The discrimination was prominently mentioned in Ningombam's letter to the IOA President, who has issued instructions for co-ordination with the sport's world governing body FIH for the details of the reserve teams. Batra heads the FIH as well.

"Such discriminatory restrictions were not imposed on Indian athletes and officials during the recent Tokyo Olympic Games and this 10-day quarantine requirement for vaccinated sports persons will affect their performance," Ningombam stated. "We feel these restrictions are biased against India and term it as very unfortunate," he said.

HI's move comes a day after England pulled out of the junior World Cup to be held in Bhubaneswar next month, citing a number of COVID-related concerns and taking "note" of the Indian government's mandatory 10-day quarantine protocol for all UK nationals. India imposed reciprocal curbs on all British nationals arriving in the country after UK's steadfast refusal to reconsider its restrictions.

Under India's new norms, all British nationals arriving here from the UK, irrespective of their vaccination status, will have to produce the result of the RT-PCR test done within 72 hours before travel.

They will also have to undertake two more RT-PCR tests, one on their arrival at the airport in India and the second one on Day 8 after arrival.

The Birmingham CWG would have been first big event for both the teams after their inspirational performances at the Tokyo Games, where the men's team won a bronze while the women finished a creditable fourth.

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Sharjah, Oct 5: James Neesham (3/12) and Nathan Coulter-Nile (4/14) bowled exceptionally well to keep Mumbai Indians alive and kicking as they outclassed Rajasthan Royals by eight wickets in a low-scoring IPL match, here Tuesday.

Neesham and Coulter-Nile got required help from Jasprit Bumrah (2/14) to choke Rajasthan for a meagre 90/9. The five-time champions then knocked off the runs in 8.2 overs to go up to 12 points and more importantly improve their net run-rate to -0.048. This was also the biggest victory for MI in terms of balls left (70).

Ishan Kishan (50 n o, 25b, 5x4, 3x6) got some much-needed confidence during the short chase as MI knocked Royals out of IPL from the league stage itself yet again as they flattered to deceive.

MI will now meet Sunrisers Hyderabad Friday, another must-win game but they would also want Kolkata Knight Riders (12 points, NRR +0.294) to lose their last match against Royals Thursday.

In case KKR win and move up to 14 points, MI on the last day would know how much they require to get past Shah Rukh Khan-owned team's net run-rate.

On the day, Neesham and Coulter-Nile hit the ideal length on a tacky strip as they choked Royals to the lowest T20 total by any team batting first at Sharjah.

Rohit Sharma was spot-on in deciding to bowl first and Neesham, playing his first game of the UAE leg, took the pace off his deliveries on a Sharjah track where the ball wasn't coming onto the bat.

Coulter-Nile was equally effective with his change-ups and hitting the hard-lengths more often than not en route one of his best IPL spells.

Royals were blown away in a space of four overs as they slumped from 41/1 in the last over of Powerplay to 50/5 by the time the first 10 was about to end. There was no looking back for MI from that position.

The in-form Sanju Samson (3) tried to slash hard without reaching to the pitch of the delivery as Jayant Yadav at point took a diving catch. Shivam Dube after the CSK heroics tried to reach at a fuller delivery on 'fifth stump' and dragged it back while Rahul Tewatia (12) in the midst of a horrendous season, tried to pull a short ball that came late and took the edge into keeper's hands.

Neesham's induction in place of Krunal Pandya proved to be a master-stroke as he didn't give enough pace to manoeuvre and also bowled wicket-to-wicket, not experimenting much.

Evin Lewis (24) once again started in rollicking fashion but the course of Royals innings was changed when talented Yashasvi Jaiswal (12) failed to ride the bounce off a Coulter-Nile delivery to be caught behind. Once Bumrah got rid of Lewis, rest of the Royals batters fell like a pack of cards.

BRIEF SCORES
RR 90/9 (Evin Lewis 24; Nathan Coulter-Nile 4/14, James Neesham 3/12, Jasprit Bumrah 2/14) lost to MI 94/2 (Ishan Kishan 50 n o; Mustafizur Rahman 1/32) by 8 wickets.
