Odisha govt to own a team in Ultimate Kho Kho

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, June 23: The Odisha government has decided to pick up ownership of a team in the soon-to-be-launched sporting league Ultimate Kho Kho, an official said Thursday.

It will be the second direct sports venture for the Naveen Patnaik government as it also jointly owned Kalinga Lancers, a franchise in the now-defunct Hockey India League.

The team, owned by the Odisha Sports Development and Promotion Company (OSDPC), will be the fifth side in the upcoming league.

The Odisha government's announcement to own a team in the tournament comes days after the state bagged silver medals in both boys and girls categories in Kho Kho during the recently-concluded Khelo India Youth Games.

"Kho Kho is very popular in many parts of Odisha. In the recent Khelo India Youth Games, our boys and girls played well and won the silver medals. Since it's a traditional game, we have huge scope to develop it further in the state. Therefore, we've decided to participate in the Kho Kho league," said Odisha's Sports and Youth Services Minister Tusharkanti Behera.

There are currently four franchises in the league and the teams represent Chennai, Gujarat, Rajasthan, and Telangana.

'Nuapada ambush a bid to revive LWE violence'

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, June 23: The recent ambush of three CRPF personnel and looting of their weapons by Naxals in Odisha's Nuapada are being seen by security officials as an attempt to 'rekindle' Maoist insurgency in 'silent' areas where the forces have begun dominating the remote topography.

Two sub-inspectors and a constable of the paramilitary force were ambushed and their sophisticated assault rifles were looted by the Maoists June 21 in Nuapada district of the state which borders Chhattisgarh and has a cross-border jungle area running into the Sunabeda sanctuary area.

A senior security officer told PTI that the attack on the three

personnel, who were possibly isolated from their team doing a road clearing exercise, was carried out by central military commission and Odisha state Maoist committee head Malla Raji Reddy alias

Sathenna/Murali/Sangram. The personnel were killed while they were under a tree in an open field and were reportedly shot and fired with crude 'barrel grenade launchers' that have explosives filled inside their iron casing. The slain personnel belonged to the 'golf' company of the 19th battalion of the Central Reserve Police Force (CRPF) and were making a movement to secure a new forward operating base that the force had established in the area only three days back.

"There has been no violent incident in the Nuapada district and its remote locations including near Sahajpuri village where the ambush took place Tuesday. This looks to be an attempt by the Maoists to register their presence and rekindle their activity," the officer said.

He said the CRPF recently created a forward base in the area so that the Maoists' supply line in the area is cut and armed cadres who would operate across the border in south Chhattisgarh and escape to this area could be checked.

A strong team of Naxals ambushed the three CRPF personnel and looted their AK series rifles. The overall execution of this attack is understood to have been made by Malla Raji Reddy, a second officer said.

The CPI (Maoist) unit of the local Mainpur-Nuapada division led by state committee member Guddu was reported to have been moving in the area, he said.

"After a long silence, a top Maoist cadre of Mainpur (Chhattisgarh)-Nuapada (Odisha) division has marked its presence in the area. The forces are geared up and alert to counter this challenge," the second officer quoted above said. (More P5) Contd...4

POST NEWS NETWORK, AGENCIES

Bhubaneswar, June 23: Congress MLAs from Odisha will not support NDA's presidential candidate Droupadi Murmu as she has been inspired by BJP and RSS ideology, said party legislator Narasingha Mishra Thursday.

"If a person, irrespective of his/her personality, intelligence and popularity, is inspired by the BJP or RSS ideology, neither me nor my party members will cast a vote in favour of that person," Mishra said.

Murmu is a nice person. However, she is inspired by the BJP and RSS ideology, which is responsible for the assassination of Mahatma Gandhi. So, the Congress party will not support her, Mishra added.

"The Opposition parties at the Centre, including the Congress, have already chosen their candidate for the presidential elections. Our party has supported a candidate for the top post. If we

The Congress leader also criticised the BJD government and Chief Minister Naveen Patnaik, who had appealed to all MLAs from the state to support Murmu, a resident of Odisha.

Claiming that the BJP and the BJD are like two sides of a coin, Mishra said, "If the Chief Minister has so much love for Odisha and Odias, why did he send a non-Odia to the Rajya Sabha? Were there no deserving Odia candidates?" He was referring to the BJD's support to BJP candidate Ashwini Vaishnav, a former Odisha cadre IAS officer, in the 2019 Rajya Sabha election. Vaishnav, now a Union minister, worked as the district magistrate of Cuttack and Balasore during his tenure. He hailed from Rajasthan.

The Congress MP from Koraput, Saptagiri Ulaka, told PTI that as a tribal leader, he welcomes the nomination of a tribal candidate for the Presidential election.

"But, the tribals should be actually empowered. Any symbolic representation will not work," Ulaka said.

Itishree Murmu, the NDA pres-

She has left to serve the country after handing over the responsibilities of the family to me." Itishree is a bank official in Bhubaneswar and is currently on maternity leave to take care of her two-month-old daughter.

On Wednesday, Droupadi Murmu was received in Bhubaneswar by state BJP president Samir Mohanty and local MP Aparajita Sarangi at a guest house, where she spent the night, an official said.

She had to drop her plan to visit her alma mater, Unit-II Girls' High School, in the capital city as she attracted crowds wherever she went. She also wanted to pay obeisance at Lingaraj temple here, but had to shelve the plan owing to a delay in her arrival, the official said.

Murmu's school teachers and some of her college lecturers, however, greeted her at the guest house.

"We are proud that our alumna is tipped to become the next President of India," said her school's headmistress, Kalyani Mishra.

The former Jharkhand governor had graduated from Rama Devi Women's College, now a university. Murmu had also worked as a class-III employee in the Odisha Irrigation Department after completing her graduation.

BMC launches campaign to combat dengue in City

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, June 23: In a bid to combat the rising cases of dengue in state capital, the Bhubaneswar Municipal Corporation (BMC) Thursday launched Dry-Day Bhubaneswar campaign to create awareness on destroying mosquito breeding grounds to curb vector-borne diseases.

BMC Mayor, Sulochana Das, launched the campaign with Padyatra in multiple wards along with citizens and local corporators. The campaign was kicked off from Magala Slum of Unit 9 area under South East Zone and covered about 2,000 households with more than 60 source reductions. "As the city witnesses the first touch of monsoon, it has become more vulnerable in terms of spreading of Dengue. BMC has been doing its bit and the citizens should come forward and join hands to get rid of the possible dengue menace" said Das while doing Padyatra in Nayapalli and adjacent areas under ward No 37, 38 and 39. The Dengue cases in the capital has shown double rate of increase in the past two weeks creating concerns among citizens. The campaign is also aimed at reaching out to schools and Anganwadis centres in the city to increase awareness.

"Generally August is the month for Dengue outbreak in the city and we have started the campaign earlier to inculcate a regular practice amongst citizens to prevent dengue. The unwanted containment of stagnant water for more than 7-10 days causes the breeding of mosquitoes. Hence, this campaign will be carried out on Sunday and Thursday to bring a behavioural change in each household," said Vijay Kurlange, BMC Commissioner.

Under this scheme, stalls are being provided at stations to the local artisans to showcase and sell products of their areas.

Nuapada ambush a bid to revive LWE violence?

A CRPF spokesperson, on the day of the incident, had said that their "troops retaliated forcing the Maoists to flee while three bravehearts made the supreme sacrifice in the encounter".

Officials said that according to the new categorisation of left wing extremism-affected districts of the country brought out by the Union home ministry in June last year, Nuapada does not figure among the "most affected" Naxal violence affected districts of the country.

Nuapada has been silent, with no Maoist incidents being reported for over some years but, yes, the district figures in the list of those 70 districts in 10 states which get the security related expenditure funds from the centre to counter Naxal activities, usher in development and creation of infrastructure for security forces, officials said.

Only three districts of Odisha i.e. Kandhamal, Malkangiri and Kalahandi are put under the most affected left wing extremism districts while Koraput is listed under the 'district of concern' category.

There are a total of eight districts in six states categorised as 'districts of concern' and as per government definition they are those jurisdictions where the authorities need "to counter Maoists' spread to new areas and to stop resurgence in the areas where left wing extremism influence is waning".

WHO mulls declaring monkeypox a global emergency

Many scientists doubt any such declaration would help curb the epidemic, since the developed countries recording the most recent cases are already moving quickly to shut it down

As the World Health Organisation (WHO) convenes its emergency committee Thursday to consider if the spiralling outbreak of monkeypox warrants being declared a global emergency, some experts say WHO's decision to act only after the disease spilled into the West could entrench the grotesque inequities that arose between rich and poor countries during the Covid pandemic.

Declaring monkeypox to be a global emergency would mean the UN health agency considers the outbreak to be an "extraordinary event" and that the disease is at risk of spreading across even more borders. It would also give monkeypox the same distinction as the Covid-19 pandemic and the ongoing effort to eradicate polio.

Many scientists doubt any such declaration would help curb the epidemic, since the developed countries recording the most recent cases are already moving quickly to shut it down.

Last week, WHO Director-General Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus described the recent monkeypox epidemic identified in more than 40 countries, mostly in Europe, as "unusual and concerning." monkeypox has sickened people for decades in central and west Africa, where one version of the disease kills up to 10% of people. In the epidemic beyond Africa so far, no deaths have been reported.

"If WHO was really worried about monkeypox spread, they could have convened their emergency committee years ago when it reemerged in Nigeria in 2017 and no one knew why we suddenly had hundreds of cases," said Oyewale Tomori, a Nigerian virologist who sits on several WHO advisory groups. "It is a bit curious that WHO only called their experts when the disease showed up in white countries," he said.

Until last month, monkeypox had not caused sizeable outbreaks beyond Africa. Scientists haven't found any major genetic changes in the virus and a leading adviser to WHO said last month the surge of cases in Europe was likely tied to sexual activity among gay and bisexual men at two raves in Spain and Belgium.

To date, the US Centers for Disease Control and Prevention has confirmed more than 3,300 cases of monkeypox in 42 countries where the virus hasn't been typically seen. More than 80 per cent of cases are in Europe. Meanwhile, Africa has already seen more than 1,400 cases this year, including 62 deaths.

David Fidler, a senior fellow in global health at the Council on Foreign Relations, said WHO's newfound attention to monkeypox amid its spread beyond Africa could inadvertently worsen the divide between rich and poor countries seen during Covid-19.

"There may be legitimate reasons why WHO only raised the alarm when monkeypox spread to rich countries, but to poor countries, that looks like a double standard," Fidler said. He said the global community was still struggling to ensure the world's poor were vaccinated against the coronavirus and that it was unclear if Africans even wanted monkeypox vaccines, given competing priorities like malaria and HIV.

"Unless African governments specifically ask for vaccines, it might be a bit patronizing to send them because it's in the West's interest to stop monkeypox from being exported," Fidler said.

WHO has also proposed creating a vaccine-sharing mechanism to help affected countries, which could see doses go to rich countries like Britain, which has the biggest monkeypox outbreak beyond Africa — and recently widened its use of vaccines.

To date, the vast majority of cases in Europe have been in men who are gay or bisexual, or other men who have sex with men, but scientists warn anyone in close contact with an infected person or their clothing or bed sheets is at risk of infection, regardless of their sexual orientation. People with monkeypox often experience symptoms like fever, body aches and a rash; most recover within weeks without needing medical care.

Even if WHO announces monkeypox is a global emergency it's unclear what impact that might have.

In January 2020, WHO declared that Covid-19 was an international emergency. But few countries took notice until March, when the organisation described it as a pandemic, weeks after many other authorities did so. WHO was later slammed for its multiple missteps throughout the pandemic, which some experts said might be prompting a quicker monkeypox response.

"After Covid, WHO does not want to be the last to declare monkeypox an emergency," said Amanda Glassman, executive vice president at the Center for Global Development. "This may not rise to the level of a Covid-like emergency, but it is still a public health emergency that needs to be addressed."

Salim Abdool Karim, an epidemiologist and vice chancellor at the University of KwaZulu-Natal in South Africa, said WHO and others should be doing more to stop monkeypox in Africa and elsewhere, but wasn't convinced that a global emergency declaration would help.

"There is this misplaced idea that Africa is this poor, helpless continent, when in fact, we do know how to deal with epidemics," said Abdool Karim. He said that stopping the outbreak ultimately depends on things like surveillance, isolating patients and public education.

"Maybe they need vaccines in Europe to stop monkeypox, but here, we have been able to control it with very simple measures," he said.

The jawans took shelter under a Mahua tree as it was raining heavily. Suddenly, Maoists launched an attack from behind. Three jawans fell to the Maoists' bullets.

On the other hand, following the ambush, the people in the area have been living in an atmosphere of terror. People Wednesday feared to venture out to sell their produce at a recently inaugurated market in the area.

Couple leads by example in horticulture

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bolangir, June 23: A migrant labourer couple has become self-reliant by fighting all odds in a dry and non-irrigated region like Muribahal block, infamous for migration in Bolangir district.

The couple - Gourang Pattnaik and his wife Baidehi Pattnaik of Tetelkhunti village under the block - has achieved self-reliance by growing vegetables on farmlands taken on lease from other villagers.

However, with their sheer grit they have brought a turnaround in their fortune by growing vegetables on their farmlands. A few years back, Gourang and his wife had no choice than to migrate to other states to earn a living. But now with their hard labour and determination they are leading by example in the area.

However, things took a different turn when the couple migrated to Chhattisgarh with their three sons to work in a poultry farm on Raipur outskirts. There they saw some farmlands lying close to the poultry farm.

There the couple witnessed how horticulture is profitable and it is helping the farmers to lead a decent life. There they learnt how vegetable farming requires very less water.

Later, they returned to their village and decided to take up some land on lease from co-villagers and start cultivation. They borrowed ₹20,000 from a co-villager and got 4 acre land on lease from another near a small rivulet called Kankada Jora and cultivated watermelon.

They reaped a good harvest and profit from the cultivation. However, the next year he failed to reap the same quantity of harvest. He was pondering about recovering the losses when he came in contact with an official of a voluntary outfit who taught him to take up mixed crop farming with the assistance from the Horticulture department.

They used to leave for their farmland early morning and spend the whole day there cooking food, clearing weeds, applying manure to the plants, planting saplings and watering the crops. Gradually, they became very popular among the farmers' community in the district.

Encouraged by the advice, he took seven acre of land on lease and cultivated vegetables and applied organic manure for better harvest.

Since then, there has been no looking back for the green couple.

Gourang said he has earned around ₹60,000 to ₹1 lakh from broccoli cultivation on half acre of farmland. Moreover, he has also earned ₹40,000 from chili cultivation, ₹1 lakh from pointed gourd and ₹60,000 from long beans cultivation. Deputy director of Horticulture department Prafulla Kumar Bhanja said Gourang and his wife have become an example for others to emulate. The couple who once worked as migrant labourers has been able to engage five casual labourers in their farmlands.

Collector Chanchal Rana lauded the couple for selecting the right alternative and becoming self-reliant through horticulture. The state government has also been encouraging farmers like Gourang, he said.

Sambalpur, June 23: The ailing tusker that breathed its last after being stuck in a pond near Sapalahara village under Padiabahal forest range in Sambalpur district for four-five days was actually shot by poachers that eventually led to its death, revealed Divisional Forest Officer in a press meet held Thursday.

The matter came to the fore after doctors found a 4-inch bullet from the carcass of the tusker during post-mortem. Swinging into action, police and forest department officials have detained three accused in this connection.

Briefing the media, DFO Vishwanath Neelannavar said

"Initially, we suspected it could have died due to illness after being stuck in the pond. However, during post-mortem, doctors recovered a bullet from the carcass."

"An extensive search operation was launched in Padiabahal range and three persons were detained within 48 hours. During interrogation, the poachers confessed to the crime. The accused are reported to have fired at the elephant from atop a tree in Kalapat area. Today we raided their houses and seized a country-made gun, two axes, wires and a rod used for stuffing the gun barrel. Interrogation is on," Neelannavar added.

The incident has triggered outrage among wildlife lovers.

Notably, the tusker was trapped in the slush in a pond near Sapalahara. Due to weakness, the pachyderm was partially submerged in water and was unable to come out. Forest officials claimed that they had given their best efforts to revive and rescue the ailing elephant. However, the tusker did not respond to the treatment. Finally, it breathed its last June 21.

THE MOTHER

The New Revolution

Human-induced climate change is causing dangerous and widespread environmental disruption and affecting the lives of billions of people around the world. According to the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change, the world faces unavoidable climate hazards over the next two decades. But, with average annual global greenhouse-gas emissions reaching their highest levels in human history between 2010 and 2019, we are simply not doing enough to limit global warming to 1.5° Celsius.

The IPCC report released in April recommended that the world rapidly reduce fossil-fuel supply and demand between now and 2050: by 95% in the case of coal, 60% for oil, and 45% for natural gas. But how can we possibly achieve such ambitious targets?

The answer is by switching to green hydrogen, which can be produced from all forms of renewable energy, including solar, wind, hydro, and geothermal. Green hydrogen is a zero-emissions fuel, when produced through electrolysis, the only "emission" is water. It is a practical and implementable solution that, by democratising energy, decarbonising heavy industry, and creating jobs globally, would help revolutionise the way we power our planet.

A rapid acceleration of the green-energy transition can also fundamentally alter the geopolitical landscape, since countries will no longer be powerful simply because of the fossil fuels they produce. In 2021, Russia provided 34% of Germany's crude oil and 53% of the hard coal used by German power generators and steel-makers. Russian-piped natural gas was Germany's largest source of gas imports in December 2021, accounting for 32% of supply. Since Russian President Vladimir Putin launched his horrific, unjust war in Ukraine in February, fossil-fuel exports to Europe have been earning Russia roughly $1 billion a day.

But since the start of the invasion in February, European Union countries in particular have moved quickly to reduce their energy dependence on Russia, recently agreeing to ban all seaborne imports of Russian oil. These new sanctions against Putin's war machine could cut the amount of oil the EU buys from Russia by 90% this year. The US has declared a complete ban on Russian oil, gas, and coal imports, while the UK is phasing out imports of Russian oil by the end of 2022.

These policies have sent fuel prices soaring. But sharply higher prices have also highlighted the opportunity to drive down energy costs by investing in renewables and the production of green hydrogen.

New research suggests that green hydrogen will be competitive with fossil fuels over the next decade. The cost of green hydrogen is expected to decline significantly by 2025 and to fall to $1 per kg by 2030 in favourable locations such as Australia. For comparison, grey hydrogen, which is made using polluting liquefied natural gas, currently costs around $2 per kg.

Some advocate using LNG to "solve" the current energy-security crisis, but "natural gas" contains methane, and the IPCC says that we must reduce use of natural gas by almost 45% by 2050; adding more to the energy mix now would be a catastrophic mistake.

So, there is now a global race for green energy, and specifically for green hydrogen. Dozens of countries that have abundant renewable-energy sources can develop energy independence by producing green hydrogen at scale. And energy importers will not have to rely only on the few countries (such as Russia) that have a natural endowment of fossil fuels.

In a recent report, the International Renewable Energy Agency said that (green) hydrogen can bolster energy security in three main ways: by reducing import dependence, mitigating price volatility, and boosting energy systems' flexibility and resilience through diversification. As technologies improve, the cost of green hydrogen will fall. We must do everything we can to accelerate this process.

Companies like Fortescue, where I am a board director, are investing significantly in green hydrogen and will help to replace Russian fossil fuels with green energy. Fortescue recently announced an agreement with Germany's largest energy distributor, E.ON, to supply Europe with five million tonnes of green hydrogen a year by 2030 – the equivalent of one-third of the calorific value of the energy that Germany currently imports from Russia.

But while rapid changes in the energy and geopolitical landscape present a clear opportunity to address the energy and climate crises simultaneously by investing in green energy, there is a clear perception of unfairness when developed countries claim that relatively low-emitting developing economies need to shut down fossil-fuel use. Why should they risk slowing their development to address a problem they played no part in causing?

It's a valid question. Policymakers will need to account for developing countries' interests during the green transition and enhance funding and incentives for them to move to clean energy as the basis of industrialisation.

The world is clearly at a fork in the road. We can remain locked into a costly, polluting future that is hideously inefficient and empowers only a handful of fossil-fuel-rich countries. Alternatively, we can choose a green revolution of low-cost energy for all that keeps our future secure from pollution, global warming, and dictators. Given that green energy has the power to democratise global supply as more countries achieve energy independence, the choice is not difficult.

WORDSWORTH

Tolfraedic

In centuries past, merchants selling goods by number often supplied more than the nominal total. The baker's dozen of 13 is well known. Less so is the measure of 120, which was once known variously as the great hundred, long hundred or small gross. This number 120 is the result of measuring items in a mixed system of twelves and tens, in part a survival of the duodecimal system used by many civilisations in antiquity and of which relics like the dozen and the gross still survive. It's known, though very rarely, as the tolfraedic system. In origin the word is Icelandic, from tólf, twelve, plus ráða, to speak. Relatives of the term were used in Iceland and throughout Scandinavia to distinguish between hundreds that were ten tens and hundreds that were ten twelves (in Icelandic called tölfrátt hundrað). The long hundred was so widely used at one time in England that a proverb was created to remind people that: Five score's a hundred of men, money and pins; six score's a hundred of all other things (Quoted in Curiosities in Proverbs, by Dwight Edwards Marvin, 1916).

SPECTRE OF STAGFLATION

FOCUS ECONOMY

The COVID-19 pandemic, which triggered an unprecedented health and humanitarian crisis, pushed the world economy into the quagmire of recession by triggering supply disruption and demand compression. India has endured more than its share of suffering. But now the world economy is not only plagued by inflation and recession but is teetering on the brink of stagflation too. The World Bank in its latest Global Economic Prospects report slashed its global growth forecast to 2.9 per cent for 2022 from 5.7 per cent in 2021, warning that Russia's invasion of Ukraine has heightened the economic impact of the pandemic, and many countries now face the possibility of a recession. The Bank also warned that the world economy could slip into a period of stagflation similar to the 1970s.

Stagflation or recession-inflation is a combination of stagnation and inflation. It was last felt in the 1970s, during which many developed economies experienced spiralling inflation and high unemployment as a result of the oil crisis. As per the latest data, the inflation rate in the US is 8.6 per cent; Great Britain 9 per cent; Germany 8.6 per cent; and France 5.3 per cent. However, it is only 2.1 per cent in China and 2.5 per cent in Japan. India's retail inflation measured in the consumer price index (CPI) was at 8-year high of 7.79 per cent in April. It has been up more than 6 per cent for the past five months. Wholesale inflation rose to 15.88 per cent in May, which is the highest in the last 30 years. It has been in double digits for the fourteenth month in a row.

While the inflationary spiral is a worldwide phenomenon, India is beleaguered by a high unemployment rate of 7.83 per cent (in April) with labour force shrinking and labour participation rate plummeting. The labour participation rate declined from 46 per cent in 2017 to 40 per cent in 2022. The employment scenario is so bleak that more than half of the 90 crore Indians of legal working age – roughly the population of the US and Russia combined – are not looking for jobs, according to the CMIE.

However, despite the looming danger of stagflation, the government is indulging in self-adulation for witnessing a growth of 8.7 per cent in 2021-22, though it is lower than earlier projections. The grim reality is that this growth is due to pent-up demand and on the back of negative growth of 6.6 per cent seen in the previous fiscal. In the last two fiscals, the economy has grown only by 1.5 per cent. What is worrying is that per capita private consumption and per capita income remain below the pre-COVID level in 2021-22. The growth rate of 20.1%, 8.4%, 5.4%, and 4.1% in the four quarters of 2021-22 indicates that the economy is slowing down again. The soaring inflation and unemployment with the concomitant economic slowdown establish that the Indian economy is in the grip of stagflation. The policy action is increasingly constrained due to elevated debt levels.

Inflation or stagflation is an upshot of imbalance ingrained in the economy. Healing the pandemic's economic scars demanded swift action, but most of the countries provided stimulus packages, a major part of which included liquidity infusion, and reduction of interest rates. Excess liquidity did not ensure any discernible recovery as demand was compressed and the credit growth was subdued.

The liquidity infused to support the economy through with inflows from foreign portfolio funds have inflated asset prices in the equity markets. The reduction of interest rate to reduce the interest rate liability of the government and corporate behemoths in the name of spurring growth enhanced the wealth of the rich, while the pandemic pushed crores of people into the quagmire of poverty with a major section experiencing a decline in their real income.

The central banks around the world, including RBI, emulated the US Federal Reserve which had an ultra-low-interest regime and ignored the inflationary spiral embedded with liquidity infusion and reduction of interest rate. The inadvertent consequences of the ultra-loose monetary policy led to the rise of global asset prices that surpassed the pre-COVID level despite weak growth impulses and retail inflation globally has accelerated beyond the comfort zone of many central banks.

When inflation breached the upper tolerance band of 6 per cent, the lower being 4 per cent fixed by RBI, the government simply ignored the threat of inflation stating it as an imported one especially attributing it to the rise in the price of international crude oil.

Normally, inflation of 2 to 4 per cent is good if accompanied by growth and employment. In order to curb high inflation the central bank can raise the interest rate if inflation is due to excessive liquidity. But cost-push inflation cannot be tackled just by raising the interest rate. However, in the case of stagflation, if the central bank raises interest rates to tame inflation, it may aggravate the recessionary tendency, including growth and employment. That is why it is very difficult to tackle stagflation.

When the US sneezes, other countries catch a cold. India raised its interest rate reluctantly because the US raised its interest rate. Keeping the real interest rate in negative territory for a long time was a grievous blunder. Similarly, it was equally dangerous to raise interest rates within a short span when economies have been intoxicated with a lower interest regime. The US has raised rates by 0.25 per cent in March, 0.50 per cent in May, and 0.75 per cent June 15. This has a cascading effect on the world economy. Investors are pulling out their money from emerging markets like India and investing in treasury bonds for better returns. This is going to further complicate India's economic woes amid the looming stagflation.

SPECTRUM EDUCATION

Helping 222 million children

The United Nations recently estimated that the number of crisis-affected children in need of urgent educational support has skyrocketed from 75 million in 2016 to 222 million today. That's 222 million dreams dashed – and 222 million attacks on our collective humanity.

This growing crisis will have far-reaching effects on our economies and societies. But only 24 per cent of global humanitarian funding is dedicated to education. As world leaders decide how to allocate resources in response to COVID-19, climate change, and conflict, they must make spending on education a much higher priority. This means rethinking international development policy with a view to achieving a world in which respect for equality and human rights starts with education for all.

Education requires money, but it is an investment that empowers people, creates more resilient economies, and ends poverty traps that perpetuate negative cycles of hunger, displacement, conflict, and chaos. A space flight with Jeff Bezos was recently auctioned for $28 million – a sum that could provide close to 200,000 crisis-affected children with the safety, power, and opportunity for an education.

Every $1 spent on girls' education generates approximately $2.80 in return. And ensuring that all girls complete their secondary education could boost developing countries' GDP by an average of 10 per cent over the next decade.

But we can't just throw money at the problem. We need to think about the quality of our investments in education.

Of the 222 million children currently affected by crises and emergencies, 78.2 million are out of school. And nearly 120 million are in school but not achieving minimum proficiency in math or reading.

Yes, these children need classrooms, teachers, books, pencils, and more. But, to benefit from the kind of learning that has the power to transform societies, they also need a broad spectrum of additional educational supports.

For example, according to the UN, only 56 per cent of schools in least-developed countries have access to safe drinking water, and the 350 million children worldwide are hungry. How can a child who rarely eats a nourishing meal be expected to learn algebra?

Through the School Meals Coalition and other broad partnerships, we can ensure that children in places like Haiti and Somalia are able to eat at least one nutritious school meal a day. That can make all the difference.

So can protecting children from violence. The recent deadly shooting at an elementary school in Uvalde, Texas, was a tragic reminder of the need to keep schools safe. The challenge is particularly daunting for children who face the prospect of living their entire life in a war zone.

According to the recent Education Under Attack 2022 report, attacks on education and the use of schools by military forces increased by one-third from 2019 to 2020. The war in Ukraine, in which over 1,800 educational institutions have so far been damaged and 170 completely destroyed, has made the situation even worse. Upholding international humanitarian law and the Safe Schools Declaration is another investment countries must make.

Additional supporting measures will help to achieve quality learning outcomes. These include counseling and other psychosocial services, which are vital to ensuring continuity of education for young people.

Donors should also follow the lead of organisations like The LEGO Foundation by investing in early childhood education. Teaching girls science, technology, engineering, and math should be a high priority. And we must provide the specialised education services that children with disabilities and other severely marginalised groups need.

Without education, no other Sustainable Development Goals can be achieved. To avoid inefficiencies and further disruptions to efforts to deliver on the SDGs, we need to focus on achieving universal and equitable education (SDG4).

That is a distant dream for the 84 per cent of the crisis-affected out-of-school children who are living in areas with protracted crises. The vast majority are in Afghanistan, the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Ethiopia, Mali, Nigeria, Pakistan, Somalia, South Sudan, Sudan, and Yemen. The war in Ukraine is exacerbating the problem, with recent estimates indicating that the conflict is threatening the lives and well-being of 5.7 million school-aged children.

There is hope. For example, the Ecuadorian government has recently responded to the crisis in Venezuela by allowing refugees to access public education. In Uganda, which hosts the largest refugee population in Africa, the government is implementing an Education Response Plan to provide safe learning environments for refugee children. In Ethiopia, accelerated school programs are helping refugee girls to make up for years of lost learning.

Responding to the urgent educational needs of children affected by crises is not the job only of national governments or the UN. By making a global commitment to help every child and adolescent – including those enduring wars, forced displacement, and climate-induced disasters – to reach their potential, we can contribute to human rights, peace and security, and economic prosperity for all. First, we have 222 million dreams to save.

Ban scurrilous speeches

Sir, There is a saying: "Speech is silver, silence is golden." Now a days, many political leaders are making scurrilous speeches damaging the reputation of opponents in public. Freedom of speech is not a license to spread venom in the society. A person who has no control over his speech can hardly prosper in life. Right to speech guaranteed under Article 19 (1) of the Constitution is not absolute. Reasonable instructions can be imposed on it on account of maintaining public morality and security of the state. In politics, there should not be any room for hatred and antipathy. Politics is the affairs of the state, that strives to attain a state having built on the edifice of equality, fraternity, fellow feeling and good will. Venomous speech doesn't augur well for the growth of democracy. It creates division in the society, and a rupture in the opponent's heart than maintaining peace and harmony in the society. The Election Commission of India should ban scurrilous speeches made by leaders of various political parties. This is the demand of the day.

Murmu as Prez candidate

Sir, Both the ruling NDA and the Opposition UPA have announced their candidates for the upcoming presidential election. The UPA chose former Finance and External Affairs Minister Yashwant Sinha as their candidate, while the NDA nominated teacher-turned politician and former Jharkhand Governor Droupadi Murmu as their candidate. With the numbers on the NDA's side, we can expect Droupadi Murmu to be the next President of India. If elected, Murmu will become the first-ever person from a tribal community to hold the office. She will also become the second woman President of India. Nominating Murmu who has experience of working as a Governor of Jharkhand will increase the chances of winning the election for the NDA. We hope this nomination of Murmu will pave the way for other women in rural and semi-urban areas of the country to dream big and achieve their goals. This is such a proud moment for every tribal woman throughout the country facing different social challenges for basic rights. This is also a matter of pride for every Odia.

China 'largest security anxiety': Aus Dy PM

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, June 23: China is the "largest security anxiety" for Australia and India and Beijing's actions along the Line of Actual Control in 2020 as well as in South China Sea were reflective of its increasing assertiveness, and like-minded countries must work together in the face of such challenges, Australian Deputy Prime Minister Richard Marles said Thursday.

Marles also said that China has been attempting to 'shape the world in a way that was not seen before' and that deeper defence cooperation between India and Australia is absolutely crucial to protect the rules-based global order including in the Indo-Pacific region.

India is "completely central" to Australia's worldview, he told a small group of journalists, wrapping up his four-day visit to India, the first from Canberra after Prime Minister Anthony Albanese's center-left Labor Party came to power last month.

"For Australia, China is our largest trading partner and so is for India. For Australia, China is our largest security anxiety. That is also the same for India. How to reconcile those two things is not obvious," he said.

"Our anxiety is that when you look at the Chinese behaviour; be it in the Line of Actual Control (LAC), be it in the South China Sea - what you are seeing is an assertive behaviour which seeks to challenge the established rules based order which has been so important to the prosperity of the region," he added. In that context, Marles, who is also Australia's defence minister, said Canberra sees its relationship with India as being "really important" in protecting the global rules-based order, adding Chinese assertiveness is a matter of concern.

"We have seen it in respect of the Line of Actual Control (LAC). The incident that occurred a couple of years ago, where there was appalling behaviour towards Indian soldiers, and we stand in solidarity with India in respect of that incident," he said, referring to the Galwan Valley clashes in 2020.

He said the Chinese actions along the LAC was reflective of one country seeking to deal with its disputes not based on a set of rules but through "power and through force and that's a concern". The Australian deputy prime minister said China has been increasing its assertiveness in the South China Sea and noted that its actions are inconsistent with the UN Convention on the Law of the Sea.

Marles said Australia is also "anxious" about the growing defence ties between China and Russia and emphasised the importance for democracies to protect the rules-based order. Replying to a question, he said "China is seeking to shape the world around us in a way that we have not seen before and that is really about the last decade. And in seeking to shape the world around us we are experiencing particularly recently in the last couple of years more assertive Chinese behaviour."

ED GRILLS RUJIRA FOR SIX HOURS

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

New Delhi, June 23: Rujira Narula Banerjee, the wife of Trinamool Congress' national general secretary, Abhishek Banerjee, Thursday faced a marathon six-hour questioning by Enforcement Directorate (ED) sleuths holding her two-and-a-half year-old son Ayansh.

She is being questioned in connection with the coal smuggling scam in West Bengal, which as per the estimates is to the tune of Rs 1,300 crore.

According to ED sources, Rujira Narula Banerjee reached central government office (CGO) complex at around 11.10 a.m. holding her son in her lap. She requested the investigating officials, who came from New Delhi on Thursday morning only, to allow her son to be present during the questioning session.

The ED officials allowed that on humanitarian ground. The investigating officials, source said, gave her timely breaks in between in view of the fact that her son was with her. Sources said that Rujira was questioned mainly on two bank accounts, purportedly held by her, one in London and the other in Bangkok. She was specially questioned about the Bangkok-based bank account, where money was transferred by a Howrah-based chartered accountant, Neeraj Singh, who is currently absconding. The money transferred, according to ED sources, was from an India-based bank account after converting Indian rupee into Thai baht.

Apart from that she was also questioned about some mobile screenshots that the agency has recovered from the cellphones of other suspects in the coal smuggling scam.

Sources said that in most of the questions she either denied any knowledge or claimed to have been erased from her memory. Finally, at around 5 p.m. she left the ED office. A team of four officials of the ED that included a lady officer and led by joint director, Kapil Raj came from Delhi specially to interrogate Rujira Narula. They left for New Delhi on Thursday only.

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Lucknow, June 23: An average of only 41 per cent votes were cast till 5 pm Thursday in the by-elections to Azamgarh and Rampur Lok Sabha seats, an hour before polling was scheduled to close in the two Samajwadi Party bastions. Rampur, which fell vacant after SP leader Azam Khan moved to the state assembly, recorded a turnout of just 37 per cent till this time. In 2019, the final percentage was 63.19. In Azamgarh, represented by SP president Akhilesh Yadav before he was elected to the assembly in the last Vidhan Sabha polls, the turnout was 45.97 per cent till 5 pm. In the last Lok Sabha polls in 2019, the final turnout on this seat was 57.56 per cent.

Together, the two seats had registered a turnout averaging a little over 41 per cent till an hour before closing time. Polling began at 7 am. Over 35 lakh people were eligible to vote in the bypolls in these two constituencies to decide the fate of 19 candidates.

No violent incident was reported. But in a series of tweets, the opposition Samajwadi Party alleged irregularities in both constituencies. "The police are harassing SP workers at the behest of the ruling party in Tanda and Daryal areas of Swar assembly seat in Rampur. The Election Commission should take note. Action should be taken against the guilty policemen. Ensure fair voting," the party said.

It attached a letter written to the poll panel with this complaint. The party alleged that people were prevented from casting votes at a booth in Tanda and the polling was stopped. It also claimed that its agents were driven out of several polling booths in Azamgarh. "All agents were made to leave from all the polling booths in Gopalpur, Sagdi, Mubarakpur, Azamgarh and Mehnagar assembly areas as part of a conspiracy at the behest of the BJP.

The role of these real estate firms - five belonging to Shetty's Sahana Group and four others - have come under the Central Bureau of Investigation's (CBI) scanner in a Rs 34,615 crore scam in Dewan Housing Finance Corporation Limited (DHFL) as it has surfaced that loans to the companies were allegedly disbursed under the instructions of Kapil Wadhawan and Dheeraj Wadhawan, officials said.

Distress writ large upon submerged Silchar

Silchar Lok Sabha MP Rajdeep Roy Thursday said this was the worst flood that Silchar has witnessed in the last seven decades

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Silchar, June 23: Silchar town, the gateway to Assam's Barak Valley is in the grip of severe floods with the town remaining submerged since Monday, and people facing acute shortage of food and drinking water, besides frequent power outages.

Silchar Lok Sabha MP Rajdeep Roy Thursday said this was the worst flood that Silchar had witnessed in the last seven decades. Cachar, Karimganj and Hailakandi - the three districts of Barak Valley - are reeling under severe floods with the Barak and Kushiara rivers flowing above the danger level, affecting over six lakh people - 2,32,002 in 565 villages in Cachar district and 2,81,271 in 469 villages of Karimganj.

Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma made an aerial survey of the marooned town, which has a population of approximately three lakh, visited a few relief camps, and reviewed the prevailing flood situation with public representatives and district officials on Thursday.

Ten-year-old Shreya Das of Silchar town was relieved last week when the Cachar district administration had announced the closure of schools following incessant rainfall, as she would not have to wade through water-logged streets. Little did the Class 4 student know of the harrowing time that her family would experience over the next few days. Shreya's house, along with that of around two lakh people in most areas of the town, was submerged following the damage of a dyke at Betkundi. The dyke breached on Sunday following which water entered the homes of people, disrupting power and water supplies and the flood-affected population waiting to be evacuated.

"For four days, we are without power and clean drinking water and flood waters have entered the ground floor of my house, forcing us to move to the upper floors. At least, we are fortunate to have a triple-storied house and we could move to safety within the house", school teacher Mandira Deb of the College Road area said.

The water level of River Barak was already flowing above the danger level since the rains but with the breach in the dyke, it gushed into the low-lying areas of Sonai Road, Rangirkhari, Link Road, Ambicapatty, Ashram Road, College Road, Public School Road, Fatakbar, Betkundi and other areas of the town.

However, retired government employee Bireswar Nath of the Rangirkhari area was not so lucky and he along with his family of five remained inside the flooded home for over 24 hours. They were evacuated to a relief camp, set up in a school, that too under water. In Cachar, 33,766 people have taken shelter in 258 relief camps while in Karimganj 20,595 inmates are in 103 relief camps.

Monica Acharjee, a 32-year-old with severe breathing problems, aggravated by the trauma of flood waters entering her home in Ghaniwala area was unable to reach the hospital, but the local ward commissioner reached out to the Deputy Commissioner who sent a rescue team and evacuated her to an emergency ward of a private hospital. The Silchar MP Thursday posted pictures on social media of the road outside his home in Bilpara area, which is completely submerged with only the upper portion of vehicles in sight.

Roads wither soon after ₹23cr repair ahead of PM's visit

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Bangalore, June 23: The Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP), which drew flak from the public for spending Rs 23 crore for the facelift of 14 km roads in Bangalore ahead of Prime Minister Narendra Modi's recent visit, is again finding itself on a spot.

The asphalted roads are wearing out at many locations and in some parts the roads are even caving in, exposing the public to danger. People of the surrounding areas of this stretch of roads, who were happy feeling that their hiatus with potholes was over, are now disappointed again.

The authorities have developed Kengeri to Kommaghatta (7 km), Mysuru Road (0.15 km), a stretch after Hebbal flyover (2.4 km), Tumakuru Road (0.90 km) and roads in Bengaluru University campus (3.6 km). The BBMP also repaired maidans, fixed street lights, painted roads and kerbs.

The work was done on war footing amid rains. However, though the roads could hold till Prime Minister Modi's visit, the public started complaining about potholes coming up on these roads and at some points jelly stones surfacing.

A stretch of road, asphalted as part of Rs 23 crore road works, the Jnanabharathi Main Road was repaired at a cost of Rs 6 crore and Modi travelled on this stretch Monday.

After a spell of overnight rain, this stretch of road caved in. BBMP Chief Commissioner Tushar Girinath stated that at some points the asphalted road was damaged only due to heavy rainfall and it was not fair to say that the entire stretch of repaired road was damaged.

Ravindra PN, the Special Commissioner (Projects) has stated that asphalted roads is part of protocol ahead of the PM's visit. The civic agency has so far fixed 14,500 potholes in the city. Another 1,500 potholes will be fixed soon and rains are delaying the work, he maintained.

The pathetic condition of the roads in the city has been a major concern among the vehicle riders in Bangalore. The issue has been raised by many prominent personalities, including Biocon Chief Kiran Majumdar-Shaw. The Karnataka High Court also warned the authorities on multiple occasions to fix the Bangalore roads.

100 pool-sized potholes in 20-km stretch of NH

Interestingly, road construction minister of Bihar Nitin Navin comes under the BJP quota in Nitish govt

AGENCIES

Patna, June 23: While the double engine government of Bihar has been claiming a good road network in the state, a video of National Highway 227 in Madhubani district has taken social media by storm which shows 100 small pool-size potholes on the road.

The highway has more than 100 big potholes in a stretch of over 20 km from the Kaluahi village to Umgaon crossing at Basopatti block in the district.

The local residents claim that the road was in good condition in early 1990 and the Union Road Transport ministry gave it the status of a national highway in 2001. After that, the road construction department of the Bihar government looked after this road. In the last 20 years, the condition deteriorated to such an extent that now it is full of with potholes.

The local residents claim that the road was being used by all the big officers in the state, including the District Magistrate, Superintendent of Police, local MLA, ministers and even the chief minister, but no action was taken to repair it.

As the road is situated close to the Nepal border, heavy trucks regularly ply on it leading to further deterioration. During the monsoon season, small ponds appear on the road that give one an experience of travelling through a jungle, said a local resident, Raju Kumar.

Local MLA Arun Shankar Prasad said, "Thrice we raised this issue in the Bihar Vidhan Sabha, but the road construction department has not taken cognizance of the matter."

Prashant Kishor taunts Nitish over Bihar roads

Patna: 'Jan Suraj' campaign convener Prashant Kishor Thursday sought to puncture his former mentor Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar's claims of having given a face-lift to the state's roads. Kishor, who is touring the state as a spade-work for a full-time launch into politics, shared on his Twitter handle an image of a national highway passing through Madhubani district which reminded him of the "jungle raj of the 1990s". "Nitish ji had recently told officials of road construction department that they must tell the people about the condition of roads in the state", Kishor tweeted. "Jungle raj of 1990s" was a reference to the husband-wife duo Lalu Prasad and Rabri Devi who together ruled Bihar for 15 years until the defeat of their RJD by the NDA headed by Kumar in 2005. Lawlessness and the abysmal state of roads were the two primary counts on which the RJD faced criticism. Kishor, who had helped Lalu-Nitish alliance clinch a victory in the 2015 assembly polls and formally joined the JD(U), then headed by Kumar, as his number two a couple of years later, now feels that the two leaders have let the state down. Having given up his career which gave him the opportunity to rub shoulders with the who's who of Indian politics, Kishor has now come out with the promise of transformational, bottom-up politics in his home state.

in Nitish Kumar government.

Ravindra Kumar, the contractor of this road said, "The department has allotted the tender to me but has not released the fund. The rate of construction materials has already been increased. We are unable to pay our labourers. Hence, the repairing of the road has not happened so far."

Bihar BJP chief fires fresh salvo at JD(U)

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Patna, June 23: In fresh trouble for the ruling NDA in Bihar, state BJP president Sanjay Jaiswal has squarely blamed alliance partner JD(U) of Chief Minister Nitish Kumar for the less than satisfactory condition of higher education in the province.

Jaiswal also termed as laughable the contention of JD(U) that there should be a punarvichaar (re-think) on the Agnipath scheme of recruitment in the armed forces which last week left the state in throes of violent protests. The BJP leader made the remarks on Wednesday, a day before a video of the same went viral on social media, at the remote Raxaul town falling under his Pashchim Champaran Lok Sabha constituency.

Jaiswal was holding forth on the promised virtues of Agnipath which, he said, would equip youngsters with enough skills and qualifications by the time they were discharged after four years of service. I find it laughable when JD(U) leaders demand a rethink. They should do punarvichaar of the state of higher education in Bihar. The portfolio has been with them and students still have to contend with delayed academic sessions, spending more than three years to complete their graduation, said Jaiswal.

The JD(U), which was last week left fuming after Jaiswal alleged complicity of the administration in the attack on his house by a mob protesting against Agnipath, was predictably rankled by the latest barb hurling at the party. Former minister and JD(U)'s chief spokesman Neeraj Kumar came out with an indignant statement enumerating steps taken for bringing the academic calendar back on track.

He did not mention Jaiswal by name but prefaced his rebuttal with the Hindi saying kahin pe nighan, kahin pe nishana (looking at one place, aiming at another), in a clear signal that the JD(U) would not take kindly to any snide remarks by its ally, whatever may be the pretext.

'Blueprint is ready for development of Lord Hanuman birthplace'

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Koppal (Karnataka), June 23: The ruling BJP in Karnataka Tuesday clarified that the blueprint for the development of Anjanadri hills, which is regarded as the birthplace of Lord Hanuman, is ready. We will develop Anjanadri Hills at any cost, announced Tourism Minister Anand Singh.

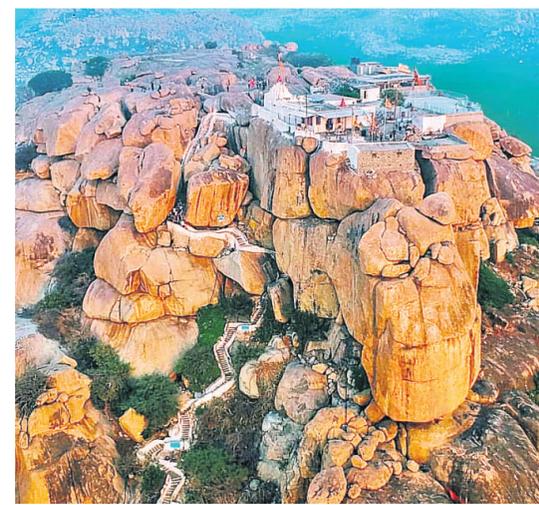

The Tirupati Tirumala Devasthanams (TTD) in Andhra Pradesh is disputing the fact that Karnataka is the birthplace of Lord Hanuman which claims that Anjanadri Hills at Tirumala is the birthplace of Lord Hanuman.

The Karnataka government is claiming that since time immemorial, thousands of devotees are visiting Anjanadri hills in Koppal district which is regarded as the birthplace of Lord Hanuman. To counter the move by TTD, the state government of Karnataka has prepared a grand plan of turning the place as a pilgrimage centre to visit after Ram Mandir in Ayodhya. Recently in Maharashtra, it was claimed that Anjaneri in Nashik is the real birthplace of Lord Hanuman. Amid row, Congress leader in Karnataka Ugrappa has chided that the ruling BJP is least bothered about developing the birthplace in Karnataka as Lord Hanuman belongs to lower caste. Reacting to this, Minister Anand Singh said that his party did not know about castes.

The Karnataka government is all set to elevate the Anjanadri Parvatha (hills) as a pilgrimage centre of the world, he said. The plan is being made to make Ayodhya-Anjanadri a tourism corridor. Sources say that Ramsetu in Kanyakumari will also be included as a part of the corridor, since all these places are integral part of Hindu holy book 'Ramayana'.

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai had announced Rs 100 crore for the development of the birthplace of Lord Hanuman in the state budget. The state also has plans to invite Prime Minister Narendra Modi to inaugurate a slew of development projects.

Bihar legislature's monsoon session begins today

CONTINUING TILL JUNE 30, THE SESSION WILL HAVE ONLY FIVE DAYS OF LEGISLATIVE BUSINESS

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Patna, June 23: A short, though thunderous and stormy, monsoon session of the bicameral legislature in Bihar commences here Friday.

Continuing till June 30, the session will have only five days of legislative business, though, in the backdrop of the political heat, lots of fireworks may be expected.

One of the things to watch out for will be the chemistry, or lack thereof, between the ruling allies JD(U) and BJP which had recently been at each other's throats with divergent views on the Agnipath scheme and the massive unrest that rocked the state in its wake.

Opposition RJD led by Tejashwi Yadav has fired on all cylinders whenever the legislature is in session though it would be interesting to see whether its recent strategy of attacking BJP more than Kumar and his JD(U) continues on the floor of the House.

Despite having an axe to grind against Kumar who dumped it in 2017, the RJD has shown a bit of leniency towards the chief minister, an arch-rival of its founding president Lalu Prasad, since the fellow Mandalite ordered a headcount of castes following the Centre's refusal to undertake the same as part of the census.

The Executive and General Council meet held together saw EPS emerging as the supreme leader and he was honoured with a decorated crown, a sword and sceptre by supporters.

EPS's colleague and Coordinator O Panneerselvam, popularly known as OPS was apparently snubbed in the meet and rude slogans were shouted against him.

The meet, which stuck to the one and only demand of making EPS the supreme party leader, turned out to be a full show of strength of the Palaniswami camp with OPS followers heavily outnumbered. LAWRENCE BISHNOI PLANNED MOOSEWALA KILLING, SAYS COP

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Chandigarh, June 23: Gangster Lawrence Bishnoi has admitted that he was the "mastermind" in Punjabi singer Sidhu Moosewala's killing and the planning was going on since last August, Punjab Police ADGP Pramod Ban said Thursday.

Ban, who is also the head of the Anti-Gangster Task Force, said another accused, Baldev alias Nikku, a resident of Haryana's Sirsa district, was arrested on Thursday. Shubhdeep Singh Sidhu, also known as Sidhu Moosewala, was shot dead in Mansa district on May 29, a day after the Punjab government pruned the security cover of the singer and 423 people temporarily.

"We had recently arrested Lawrence Bishnoi in the case and his remand was extended till June 27. He has admitted that he was the mastermind (in Moosewala's killing)," Ban told reporters here.

"The plan to carry out the killing was being hatched since August last year. According to our information, recce was done thrice. In January too, a different group of shooters had come to kill Moosewala but could not do so," the ADGP said.

"We have arrested 13 people so far and the entire conspiracy has been unravelled," Ban said, adding that Lawrence has also admitted to using a mobile phone in Tihar Jail. Asked if the weapons recovered from the arrested shooters in the case by the Delhi Police were used in Moosewala's killing, he said they are waiting for the forensic analysis.

"We will have to get those weapons forensic checked to see whether those were used in this case, that is part of the investigation," Ban said that fake passports made outside Punjab were used by Lawrence's brother Anmol and his associate Sachin Thapan to travel abroad earlier this year. Bishnoi made them settle abroad

A court in Mansa had recently extended the police remand of Lawrence Bishnoi who was brought to the state by the Punjab Police from Delhi last week for questioning in the Moosewala murder case

from where they could coordinate, facilitate and successfully execute the crime without being noticed or held culpable, the police officer said. A separate FIR has been lodged in Mohali in connection with the case of the fake passport, he said.

Bishnoi has confessed to hatching the conspiracy with Canada-based gangster Goldy Brar, Sachin Thapan and Anmol, he said. Ban said the police have got details of associates, weapons suppliers, financiers and others helping this gang in various activities. The police in various districts of the state have arrested 19 people linked to this gang.

The ADGP said a Punjab Police team is in the national capital for the questioning of arrested shooter Priyavrat alias Fauji and others who are in the custody of the Delhi Police. He said that within hours of Moosewala's killing, the Punjab Police made the first arrest in the case. Some of the accused involved in the crime had reached Mansa three to four days before the crime. "As far as the arrest of the other accused goes, eight to nine teams of the Anti-Gangster Task Force are at the job. We are also in touch with other states and are hopeful of nabbing them soon," the ADGP said. About the accused arrested on Thursday, Ban said Baldev was the main person who carried out recce with Sandeep, who has also been arrested.

Baldev took a selfie with Moosewala and he spoke to Goldy Brar and Sachin Thapan over the phone and passed on information to the conspirators who had direct contact with the shooters, he said.

A court in Mansa had recently extended the police remand of Lawrence Bishnoi who was brought to the state by the Punjab Police from Delhi last week for questioning in the Moosewala murder case. The reopening of the embassy came three weeks after an Indian team led by JP Singh, the MEA's point person for Afghanistan, visited Kabul and met acting Foreign Minister Mawlawi Amir Khan Muttaqi and some other members of the Taliban dispensation.

It is learnt that the Taliban side had assured the Indian team that adequate security will be provided if India sends its officials to the embassy in Kabul.

"In order to closely monitor and coordinate the efforts of various stakeholders for the effective delivery of humanitarian assistance and in continuation of our engagement with the Afghan people, an Indian technical team has reached Kabul today and has been deployed in our embassy there," the MEA said.

The MEA has been maintaining that the embassy was not shut as only India-based officials were brought back home and that the local staff continued to function at the mission.

"Recently, another Indian team visited Kabul to oversee the delivery operations of our humanitarian assistance to Afghanistan and met with senior members of the Taliban," it said, referring to the visit to Kabul by the Singh-led team.

In the statement, the MEA said an assessment of the security situation was also carried out during the visit of that team.

"Our longstanding links with Afghan society and our development partnership including humanitarian assistance for the people of Afghanistan, will continue to guide our approach going forward," the MEA said.

It said India has a historical and civilizational relationship with the people of Afghanistan.

ED asks Sonia to depose late July

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, June 23: The Enforcement Directorate has asked Congress president Sonia Gandhi to record her statement with the agency sometime in late July after it accepted her plea to postpone her deposition in a money-laundering case linked to the National Herald newspaper, officials said Thursday.

She was issued a second summons for June 23 by the agency but the 75-year-old Congress leader could not keep the date as she "has been strictly advised to rest at home following her hospitalisation on account of Covid and lung infection". Sources said the federal agency has postponed her questioning in the case for about four weeks and she has now been asked to depose sometime in the last week of July.

Sonia Gandhi was first issued the notice for an appearance on June 8 but after she reported positive for COVID-19, the summons for June 23 was issued. The Congress president was Monday discharged from a private Delhi hospital where she was admitted for coronavirus-

MBBS ASPIRANTS DEMAND NEET POSTPONEMENT

The last year's exam was initially scheduled for August 1 but was postponed to September 12 due to the second wave of the pandemic

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, June 23: Thousands of MBBS aspirants have demanded the postponement of medical entrance exam NEET scheduled on July 17, saying it's "too close" to other competitive exams, giving them limited time to prepare.

Hashtag #PostponeNEETUG has been trending on microblogging site Twitter and the aspirants have also started an online petition which has been signed by over 24,000 students.

In their petition, they said the counselling of National Eligibility cum Entrance Test (Undergraduate)-UG 2021 ended just in March, and the 2022 edition is scheduled on July 17.

"How are we to revise such a vast syllabus in just 3 months? Moreover, other important exams like the Board Exams, CUET, JEE Mains are also scheduled around the same time. Imagine the trauma and pressure we students are having to go through with all these significant exams scheduled one after the other. Is this a fair decision?" the petition demanded.

The last year's exam was initially scheduled for August 1 but was postponed to September 12 due to the second wave of the COVID-19 pandemic. "So much stress in the last days of exams. I'm losing my hope. No one wants to hear, no one wants to help us, no one wants to understand us. We, the aspirants, are in great trouble. Please postpone the NEET-UG," said Sanjana Gupta, an aspirant.

According to Anubha Srivastava, a lawyer and the president of the India Wide Parents' Association, NEET and Common University Entrance Test (CUET), are happening at the same time causing inconvenience to students.

"NEET must be held after JEE MAINS so that students can prepare well. Already the session is not going to start before Feb 2023 for NEET Aspirants as the counselling will take time," she said.

The National Testing Agency (NTA) announced Wednesday that the debut edition of CUET-UG will be conducted from July 15 to August 10.

"Dear @DG_NTA and @EduMinOfIndia please hear the plea of the students, and their small demand, it's not a unjustified wants there are many reasons also NTA announced the CUET which directly clash with NEET exam," a Twitter user said.

The number of registrations for medical entrance exam NEET has crossed 18.72 lakh this year - 10.64 lakh women, 8.07 lakh men - recording a significant jump of over 2.5 lakh since 2021.

Kigali (Rwanda), June 23: External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar Thursday met many of his counterparts from the Commonwealth countries here and exchanged views on major international issues and measures for further strengthening cooperation with their countries.

Leaders of Commonwealth nations are calling for increased climate action at a meeting in Rwanda this week, ahead of the United Nations climate change summit in the seaside resort of Sharm El Sheikh in Egypt later this year.

Jaishankar, who attended the Commonwealth Heads of Government Meeting (CHOGM) Foreign Ministers' plenary, met his counterparts from Sri Lanka, Bangladesh, Canada, Tanzania, Rwanda, New Zealand, South Africa, Brunei, Tuvalu, Singapore, Bahamas, Guyana and other member nations of the 54-nation bloc.

Jaishankar arrived here Wednesday on a four-day visit to attend the 26th Commonwealth Heads of Government Meeting (CHOGM). He will be representing Prime Minister Narendra Modi at the summit June 24-25.

During his meeting with New Zealand Foreign Minister Nanaia Mahuta, the two leaders exchanged

Ukr takes tentative step towards EU membership

Ukrainians living in Belgium protest outside the European Council building

Kyiv, June 23: Ukraine is set to be accepted as a candidate to join the European Union Thursday, a move that boosts the country's morale as Russian assaults wear down the defenders of two cities in the eastern Donbas region.

Although the approval of the Kyiv government's application by EU leaders meeting in Brussels is just the start of what will be a years-long process, it marks a huge geopolitical shift and will anger Russia as it struggles to impose its will on Ukraine.

The expected green light "is a signal to Moscow that Ukraine, and also other countries from the former Soviet Union, cannot belong to the Russian spheres of influence," Ukraine's ambassador to the EU, Vsevolod Chentsov, told Reuters.

Friday will mark four months since Russian President Vladimir Putin sent troops across the border in what he calls a "special military operation" partly necessitated by Western encroachment into what Russia considers its sphere of influence.

The conflict, which the West sees as an unjustified war of aggression by Russia, has killed thousands, displaced millions and destroyed cities as well as having ramifications across much of the world as food and energy exports have been curtailed. Russia has focused its campaign on southern

Russian military extends its grip

KYIV: The Russian military extended its grip Thursday on territory in eastern Ukraine, capturing two villages and vying for control of a key highway as it seeks to cut supply lines and encircle some frontline Ukrainian forces, British and Ukrainian military officials said. Ukrainian forces withdrew from some areas near the city of Lysychansk to avoid being surrounded as Russians sent in reinforcements and concentrated their firepower in the area, Britain's Defense Ministry said. The city is located in Luhansk province, a major battlefield in Russian President Vladimir Putin's war against Ukraine.

The war of attrition in the Donbas - Ukraine's industrial heartland - is most critical in the twin cities of Sievierodonetsk and Lysychansk, which sit on opposite sides of the Siverskyi Donets River in Luhansk province.

The battle there is "entering a sort of fearsome climax", said Oleksii Arestovych, an adviser to Zelenskyy.

US Supreme Court expands gun rights, striking NY limits

AGENCIES

Washington, June 23: In a major expansion of gun rights, the Supreme Court said Thursday that Americans have a right to carry firearms in public.

The justices' 6-3 decision follows a series of recent mass shootings and is expected to ultimately allow more people to legally carry guns on the streets of the nation's largest cities - including New York, Los Angeles and Boston - and elsewhere.

About a quarter of the US population live in states expected to be affected by the ruling, the high court's first major gun decision in more than a decade.

The ruling comes as Congress is working toward passage of gun legislation following mass shootings in Texas, New York and California. Justice Clarence Thomas wrote for the majority that the Constitution protects "an individual's right to carry a handgun for self-defense outside the home".

In their decision, the justices struck down a New York law requiring people to demonstrate a particular need for carrying a gun in order to get a license to carry one in public. The justices said that requirement violates the Second Amendment right to "keep and bear arms". California, Hawaii, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey and Rhode Island all have similar laws. The Biden administration had urged the justices to uphold New York's law.

New York Gov. Kathy Hochul said the decision comes at a particularly painful time, when New York is still mourning the deaths of 10 people in a mass shooting at a supermarket in Buffalo.

"This decision isn't just reckless. It's reprehensible. It's not what New Yorkers want," she said. In a dissent joined by his liberal colleagues, Justice Stephen Breyer focused on the toll taken by gun violence. "Since the start of this year alone (2022), there have already been 277 reported mass shootings - an average of more than one per day," Breyer wrote. In most of the country gun owners have little difficulty legally carrying their weapons in public.

India ready to help SL in quick economic recovery

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Colombo, June 23: A four-member Indian delegation led by Foreign Secretary Vinay Kwatra Thursday met Sri Lanka's top leadership, including President Gotabaya Rajapaksa, and underlined that India stands ready to help the island nation's quick economic recovery through promoting investments, connectivity and strengthening economic linkage.

Sri Lanka is facing the worst economic crisis since independence in 1948 which has led to an acute shortage of essential items like food, medicine, cooking gas and fuel across the island nation. The delegation first met President Gotabaya Rajapaksa.

During the meeting, Kwatra told

Rajapaksa that India, as a close friend, will extend its fullest support to Sri Lanka in overcoming the difficult situation, the newsfirst.Lk website reported.

The delegation includes Secretary of the Department of Economic Affairs of the Ministry of Finance of India, Ajay Seth; Chief Economic Advisor to the Government of India Dr V Anantha Nageswaran and Joint Secretary of the Indian Ocean Region (IOR) Kartik Pande of the Ministry of External Affairs of India, Sri Lanka's Ministry of Foreign Affairs said in a statement.

The delegation reviewed the already provided assistance in terms of fuel, medicine, fertiliser and other essentials and said the Indian government is committed to support Sri Lanka, the report said. The delegation also met Prime Minister Ranil Wickremesinghe and discussed Sri Lanka's economic situation.

In a tweet, the Ministry of External Affairs spokesperson Arindam Bagchi said Kwatra, accompanied by Seth and Nageswaran, met President Rajapaksa and "held productive discussions on the current situation in Sri Lanka and India's ongoing support".

N Korea's talks of new army duties suggest N-deployment

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Seoul, June 23: North Korea discussed assigning additional duties to front-line army units at a key military meeting, state media said Thursday, a move that analysts said indicates it plans to deploy battlefield nuclear weapons targeting South Korea along the rivals' tense border.

While much international attention has focused on North Korea's testing of intercontinental ballistic missiles potentially capable of reaching the U.S. Mainland, it is also developing a variety of nuclear-capable short-range missiles that can target South Korea.

South Korean officials recently said that North Korea has completed preparations for its first test of a nuclear explosive device in five years, part of a possible effort to build warheads capable of being mounted on short-range missiles.

During an ongoing meeting of the Central Military Commission of North Korea's ruling Workers' Party leader Kim Jong Un and other top military officers discussed Wednesday "the work of additionally confirming the operation duties of the front-line units of the Korean People's Army and modifying the operation plans," according to the official Korean Central News Agency.

Afghans bury dead, dig for survivors of devastating quake

The Taliban and the international community that fled their takeover struggled to bring help to the disaster's victims

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kabul, June 23: Villagers rushed to bury the dead Thursday and dug by hand through the rubble of their homes in search of survivors of a powerful earthquake in eastern Afghanistan that state media reported killed 1,000 people.

Under a leaden sky in Paktika province, which was the epicentre of Wednesday's magnitude 6 earthquake, men dug a line of graves in one village, as they tried to lay the dead to rest quickly in line with Muslim tradition.

In one courtyard, bodies lay wrapped in plastic to protect them from the rains that are hampering relief efforts for the living. The state-run Bakhhtar News Agency reported the death toll and said an estimated 1,500 more were injured.

In the first independent count, the United Nations Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs said around 770 people had been killed in Paktika and neighbouring Khost province.

It's not clear how the totals were arrived at, given the difficulties of accessing and communicating with the affected villages tucked into remote mountainsides.

Either grim till would make the quake Afghanistan's deadliest in two decades, and officials continued to warn the number could still rise.

The Taliban's takeover led to a cutoff of vital international financing, and most governments remain wary of dealing directly with them.

UN agencies and other organizations still operating in Afghanistan said they sent supplies to the area, including medical kits, tents and plastic tarps, but the needs appeared immense as whole villages sustained massive damage. Search and rescue remained a priority. In hard-hit Gayan

District, much of the rubble was too large for people to move with their hands or shovels. They said they hoped large excavators would make it out their remote homes. For now, there was only one bulldozer in the area.

On Wednesday, a UN Official said the government had not requested that the world body mobilise international search-and-rescue teams or obtain equipment from neighbouring countries, despite a rare plea from the Taliban's supreme leader, Haibatullah Akhundzadah, for help from the world.

UN agencies are facing a $3 billion funding shortfall for Afghanistan this year, and Peter Kessler, a spokesman for the United Nations' refugee agency, said that means there will be difficult decisions about who gets aid.

In addition to the political and financial concerns, there were also logistical challenges to getting aid to remote villages.

The roads, which are rutted and difficult to travel in the best of circumstances, may have been badly damaged in the quake, and landslides from recent rains have made some impassable.

Though just 175 kilometers directly south of the capital, Kabul, some villages in Gayan District took a full day's drive to reach.

Rescuers rushed in by helicopter — and Associated Press journalists also saw ambulances in the quake zone Thursday — but heavier equipment will be difficult to deliver.

Walls and roofs of dozens of homes in Gayan collapsed in the quake, and villagers said whole families were buried under the rubble.

Germany triggers gas supply alarm stage

THE MEASURE IS THE LATEST ESCALATION IN A STANDOFF BETWEEN EUROPE AND MOSCOW SINCE THE RUSSIAN INVASION OF UKRAINE THAT HAS EXPOSED THE BLOC'S DEPENDENCE ON RUSSIAN GAS SUPPLIES

REUTERS

Berlin, June 23: Germany triggered the "alarm stage" of its emergency gas plan Thursday in response to falling Russian supplies but stopped short of allowing utilities to pass on soaring energy costs to customers in Europe's largest economy.

The decision, announced by the economy minister, marks a stark shift especially for Germany, which has cultivated strong energy ties with Moscow stretching back to the Cold War. Lower gas flows sparked warnings this week that Germany could fall into recession if Russia supplies halted altogether. S&P Global's flash Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) Thursday showed the economy losing momentum in the second quarter.

Russia has denied the gas supply reductions were premeditated, with state supplier Gazprom blaming a delay in return of serviced equipment caused by Western sanctions. Under its Phase 2 plan, Berlin will provide a credit line of 15 billion euros ($15.76 billion) to fill gas storage facilities. In addition, a gas auction model will be launched this summer to encourage industrial gas consumers to save gas.

shortages. It theoretically allows utilities to pass on high prices to industry and households and thereby help to lower demand.

Russia may cut off gas to Europe entirely to bolster its political leverage, the head of the International Energy Agency (IEA) said on Wednesday, adding Europe needed to prepare now.

Centre to keep FY2023 fiscal deficit at '21 level

Efforts to maintain some fiscal discipline reflect the government's concern around risks to its sovereign credit rating, but will likely limit its firepower to contain inflation and provide relief to households and businesses

REUTERS

New Delhi, June 23: India's government won't be able to cut its budget deficit in the current fiscal year as previously projected, officials said, but will seek to cap the shortfall at last year's level to prevent a major deterioration in public finances.

In February, the government set a fiscal deficit target of 6.4 per cent of gross domestic output (GDP) for the year that started April 1, compared with a deficit of 6.7 per cent in 2021.

The sources said while increased spending to provide relief from inflation meant the government would miss this year's target, policymakers would seek to limit the deviation to 30 basis points.

"We will try to contain the slipage to last year's levels," one of the officials, who did not want to be named, told Reuters.

Surging costs forced India in May to cut fuel taxes and change duty structures, hitting revenues by about $19.16 billion, while additional fertiliser subsidies lifted expenditure.

India's government and central bank have scrambled to contain prices through fiscal measures and

India's debt to GDP ratio, which currently stands at around 95%, is significantly higher than 60-70 per cent levels for other similarly rated economies

May's fuel taxes cut measures are already expected to drive up the deficit by more than 30 basis points if revenue collection does not exceed the budget target

Fertiliser subsidy bills could rise by ₹500-700 billion from the current estimate of ₹2.15 trillion monetary tightening after inflation jumped to multi-year highs.

Retail inflation has held above the Reserve Bank of India's 6 per cent mandated ceiling for five straight months while wholesale price inflation has risen to 30-year highs.

"The government can definitely do more but at what cost? If more steps are taken, it will require additional market borrowing and that will drive up yields and eventually cause higher inflation," a second source said.

The government is reluctant to expand its record market programme of ₹14.31 trillion rupees in the current fiscal year; both officials said adding that a decision on additional borrowing requirement would only be taken in November.

The officials said with little scope for more central government measures, state governments needed to do more to help control inflation.

Tax collection remains the "bright spot" and has given the government some room to manoeuvre, the first official said. From April to June 16, the government's direct tax collection rose 45 per cent year-on-year to ₹3.4 trillion, while indirect tax collection in April-May rose nearly 30 per cent.

RUPEE SETTLES AT RECORD LOW

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Mumbai, June 23: The rupee Thursday closed at its all-time low of 78.32 against the US dollar as strong American currency and persistent foreign fund outflows weighed on investor sentiments.

At the interbank foreign exchange market, the local currency opened higher at 78.26 and rose to the day's high of 78.22 due to weakness in the US dollar and crude oil in early trade.

However, a rebound in the greenback and Brent crude later hit the rupee sentiment, pushing the local currency to the day's low of 78.38. The rupee finally settled unchanged at 78.32, its record low level against the US dollar.

The dollar had weakened in the early session in Asia after the US Federal Reserve chairman said a recession is possible as the US central bank raises interest rates to cool surging inflation.

The dollar index, which gauges the greenback's strength against a basket of six currencies, rose 0.41 per cent to 104.62. Brent crude futures, the global oil benchmark, edged higher 0.3 per cent to $112 per barrel after initial losses as investors weighed recession fears.

On the domestic equity market front, the BSE Sensex ended 443.19 points or 0.86 per cent higher at 52,265.72, while the broader NSE Nifty gained 143.35 points or 0.93 per cent to 15,566.65.

London/Tokyo, June 23: Manufacturing growth is slowing from Asia to Europe as China's Covid-19 curbs and Russia's invasion of Ukraine disrupt supply chains, while the growing risk of a recession in the United States poses a new threat to the global economy.

High prices in the euro zone meant demand for manufactured goods fell in June at the fastest rate since May 2020 when the coronavirus pandemic was taking hold, with S&P Global's headline factory Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) falling to a near two-year low of 52.0 from 54.6.

A Reuters poll had predicted a more modest drop to 53.9 and the index nudged closer to the 50 mark separating growth from contraction.

"The global macroeconomic outlook has deteriorated materially since end-2021," said Fitch Ratings, which slashed this year's global growth outlook to 2.9% in June from 3.5% in March. "Stagflation, which is characterised by persistent high inflation, high unemployment and weak demand, has become the dominant risk theme since late 1Q22 and a plausible potential risk scenario," it said in a report released this week.

A string of recent data globally showed policymakers are walking a tight rope as they try to defuse inflation pressures without tipping their economies into a steep downturn.

Britain's economy unexpectedly shrank in April, adding to fears of a sharp slowdown as companies complain of rising production costs. In Asia, South Korea's exports for the first 10 days of June shrank almost 13% year-on-year, underscoring the heightening risk to the region's export-driven economies.

Dambulla, June 23: The Indian bowlers choked the Sri Lankan women's team after Jemimah Rodrigues' vital knock on return to secure a convincing 34-run victory in the first T20 International here Thursday.

Defending a modest 139, left-arm spinner Radha Yadav (2/22) made her presence felt right after the powerplay by dismissing the dangerous-looking Sri Lankan captain Chamari Athapaththu (16) and Harsitha Madavi (10) in three balls.

Reduced to 27/3 inside seven overs, Sri Lanka never managed to get going in the run chase, which was further derailed by some tight bowling by seamer Pooja Vastrakar in the middle overs en route to a tidy spell of 4-1-13-1.

Deepti Sharma gave India a flying start, dismissing opener Vishmi Gunaratne (0) in the second over. The senior off-spinner was at her miserly best in the powerplay and returned with figures of 3-1-9-1 to stymie the Sri Lanka's progress early on. Deepti also took a stunning catch running in from deep square leg to give Radha her second wicket of the day.

Kavisha Dilhari waged a lone battle for the hosts with a fighting 49-ball 47 (6x4), but the Indians' top-class bowling and fielding ensured their team emerged easy winners for a 1-0 lead in the three-match series.

The hosts needed 78 runs in the last five overs and Kavisha got going with a flurry of boundaries against Harmanpreet Kaur and Radha. But it proved insufficient as the Indians choked the home team's run rate while denying the Islanders any six in their innings. Shafali Verma compounded Sri Lanka's misery by dismissing Ama Kanchana (11) in the death overs to leave them tottering at 104 for five. The second match of the series is slated for Saturday.

Opting to bat, India lost opener Smriti Mandhana (1) in the third over of the game, the 25-year-old becoming the victim of veteran spinner Oshadi Ranasinghe while looking to free her arms. She hit a tossed-up delivery straight to Chamari Athapaththu at mid-on.

Sabbhineni Meghana was out for a golden duck, sent back to the dressing room by old warhorse Ranasinghe. Losing two wickets early and under pressure in the hot and humid Dambulla, it was left to the duo of Harmanpreet and Verma to take control of the situation.

A well-settled Verma was the next to go, dismissed by Athapaththu on 31 while trying to go for a maximum. Smart bowling by the Lankans ensured that they soon got their biggest breakthrough when Harmanpreet (22) was trapped in front of the wicket by spinner Inoka Ranaweera in the 11th over.

Ranaweera picked two more wickets to send back wicketkeeper batter Richa Ghosh (11) and Vastrakar (14) to reduce the visitors to 106 for six in 17 overs and leave Jemimah with the task of giving the Indian total a semblance of respectability.

Coming in at five, Jemimah, who made her comeback to the side after a while, did not succumb to the pressure and scored some crucial runs, hitting three fours and a six, with Deepti playing the second fiddle with a 17 off 8 balls.

BRIEF SCORES

India Women 138/6 (Jemimah Rodrigues 36 n o, Shafali Verma 31; Inoka Ranaweera 3/30, Oshadi Ranasinghe 2/22) beat Sri Lanka Women 104/5 (Kavisha Dilhari 47 n o; Radha Yadav 2/22, Deepti Sharma 1/9, Shafali Verma 1/10, Pooja Vastrakar 1/13) by 34 runs.

Bangalore, June 23: Sarfaraz Khan (134, 243b, 13x4, 2x6) completed his transformation from Mumbai cricket's resident 'enfant terrible' to 'Man Friday' with a superb hundred that kept his side ahead against Madhya Pradesh in the Ranji Trophy final, here Thursday.

Courtesy Sarfaraz's fourth hundred of the season, the 41-time champions managed a fighting 374 in their first innings after beginning the day at 248/5.

But Madhya Pradesh won't be too unhappy as they finished the second day at 123/1 with Yash Dube (44 batting) and Shubham Sharma (41 batting) adding 76 runs for the unbroken second wicket.

The day belonged to none other than Sarfaraz, who has now scored an astounding 937 runs in Ranji Trophy in just six games and could make it 1000 for the season if Mumbai bat again in this match.

What stood out was how he managed the innings after Shams Mulani was trapped leg before by Gourav Yadav (4/106) in the opening over of the second day.

His batting with the tail showed his new-found maturity, which is proving to be a boon for Mumbai cricket. He chose loose deliveries for boundary, forcing MP captain Aditya Shrivastava to open the field.

The manner in which Sarfaraz has turned a corner since the 2019-20 season (928 runs back then) is phenomenal as he had disciplinary issues early in his career, which also forced him to leave Mumbai for a season.

With father Naushad Khan, who also doubles up as his coach, making him play 400 balls (nearly 67 overs including nets and knocking) a day at practice, Sarfaraz 2.0 is a battle-hardened man, the 'khadoos street fighter' that any captain would want to go to a war with.

Once he reached his fifty, he touched the lion's crest on his jersey, gesturing 'Don't worry, I am going nowhere'. Having entered '90s, he played a typical T20 scoop over keeper's head while being partially blindsided and completely off-balance. It was a sight worth capturing.

The Indian Test team's middle-order is still jam-packed but the manner in which Sarfaraz is batting, to put it in head coach Rahul Dravid's words, he is not just knocking but banging the selection door down.

Sarfaraz was involved in four small, but very effective, partnerships which could prove to be decisive if the match turns out to be an affair of one innings.

He added 40 for seventh wicket with Tanush Kotian (15), 26 for the eighth wicket with Dhawal Kulkarni (1), 39 for the ninth with Tushar Deshpande (6) and another 21 priceless runs for the final wicket with Mohit Avasthi (7).

By the time, he became Mumbai's last batter to be dismissed, he had ensured that the total is good enough for his bowlers to defend.

But there are ominous signs as MP batters have looked solid so far and Mumbai's bowling line-up hasn't made much of an impact, save Tushar Deshpande's delivery that straightened to find Himanshu Mantri's (31) pads.

BRIEF SCORES: Mumbai 374 (Sarfaraz Khan 134; Gourav Yadav 4/106, Anubhav Agarwal 3/81); Madhya Pradesh 123/1 (Yash Dube 44 batting, Shubham Sharma 41 batting). Match to continue.

Indian archers in WC Stage 3 final

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Paris, June 23: India's recurve archers, who had a nightmarish qualification round in the women's event, bounced back strongly to storm into the final, confirming their first medal at the ongoing World Cup Stage 3 here Thursday.

The Indian women's recurve trio started off by eliminating fourth-seed Ukraine 5-1 (57-53 57-54 55-55). Against Great Britain in the quarterfinals, they dropped just four points to down their opponents 6-0 (59-51 59-51 58-50).

In the semifinals, they had a slow start, aggregating 56 in the first set but their eighth-seeded Turkish rivals Gulnaz Coskun, Ezgi Basaran and Yasemin Anagoz shot a poor 51 to concede the first set by five points.

Pujara credits FC stint for comeback

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Leicester, June 23: India's star batter Cheteshwar Pujara said his first class stints in Ranji Trophy and County Championships helped him find his lost rhythm and stage a comeback to the national side.

The 34-year-old Pujara, who was left out of India's home Test series against Sri Lanka earlier this year, forced his way back into the national team for the fifth Test against England after scoring 720 runs in just five matches with an outstanding average of 120 for Sussex.

While in the Ranji Trophy, Pujara scored an 83-ball 91 against Mumbai, he hit four centuries, including two double centuries for Sussex in Division Two County Championships.

"It's about playing as many first-class games as possible and for me, that experience was very important. When you want to get back into form, when you want to find your rhythm, when you have that concentration, it is important to play some long innings" Pujara told BCCI TV.

"So, when I was playing for Sussex, I could do that. When I had my first big knock against Derby, then I felt that my rhythm was back, my concentration and everything was falling in place. Yeah, I had a very good time with Sussex," he added.

Pujara said that he was confident of performing in the county games, as he was already in good form in the Ranji Trophy. "I played three games for Saurashtra in the Ranji Trophy. Even there, I found my rhythm and I knew that I was batting well," Pujara said.

"It was about getting a big score and so when I had that in my first game, I knew that everything is back to normal now. (I was) finding my footwork, the back lift was coming along well."

Pujara along with wicketkeeper batter Rishabh Pant, and pacers Jasprit Bumrah and Prasidh Krishna will be representing Leicestershire in the four-day warm-up match starting Thursday.

India will take on England in the rescheduled fifth Test match starting July 1 at the Edgbaston Cricket Ground in Birmingham.

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, June 23: India Thursday named an 18-member women's hockey team for the upcoming Commonwealth Games, with star striker Rani Rampal left out yet again for failing to regain full fitness after an injury. The CWG team is very similar to the one taking part in the World Cup next month.

The side will be captained by goalkeeper Savita Punia while experienced defender Deep Grace Ekka will be her deputy in the Birmingham CWG, to be held from July 28 to August 8. The duo will also take the same roles in the World Cup, to be co-hosted by the Netherlands and Spain from July 1 to 17.

There are only three changes in the CWG squad from the World Cup team. Rajani Etimarpu was named in place of Bichu Devi Kharibam as number two goalkeeper while World Cup team member Sonika (midfielder) was left out from the CWG squad. Forward Sangita Kumari, who was named as one of the replacement players for the World Cup, figured in the CWG team as a full member.

India have been placed in pool A along with England, Canada, Wales and Ghana. They will begin their campaign July 29 against Ghana.

Rani, who led the Indian women to a historic fourth-place finish at the Tokyo Olympics, was picked for the recent FIH Pro League matches in Belgium and Netherlands after recovering from a hamstring injury.

She didn't feature in the first four games of the side's European leg of Pro League, raising doubts about her fitness. Eventually, it cost her a place in the World Cup-bound squad.

In the 2014 Commonwealth Games in Gold Coast, India had finished fourth after losing to England in the bronze medal match. However, after an impressive campaign in their maiden FIH Pro League where they finished overall third behind Argentina and the Netherlands, the Indian team is looking for a podium finish in Birmingham.

Speaking about the team selection, chief coach Janneke Schopman said, "We have chosen an experienced side for the Commonwealth Games and the players believe they have a good shot at a medal this time."

"The team is upbeat after a good outing in the FIH Pro League matches and understand very well that the expectations are also high. We would have finished our World Cup campaign only days before the CWG so it was very essential for us to pick a physically fit team as the recovery time between the two events is just about 10 days," added Schopman.

Warm-up game: Bharat shines, top order falters

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Leicester, June 23: Wicketkeeper Srikar Bharat impressed with an unbeaten 70, even as India's top-order failed to get batting practice on the first day of their warm-up match against Leicestershire here Thursday.

Opting to bat after winning the toss, India's top guns failed to fire as the visitors slipped to 81/5, before reaching 246/8 at the close of play.

Bharat shone during his 158-minute stay in the middle before rain brought an early end to the day's proceedings at Grace Road. In all, the 28-year-old batter from Andhra hit eight fours and a six while facing 111 balls. At stumps, Mohammed Shami was giving Bharat company on 18.

Skipper Rohit Sharma (25) and Shubman Gill (21) got out after getting starts. The opening duo, which is set to begin India's innings in the one-off 'fifth Test', added 35 runs for the first wicket before the latter was dismissed by fast-medium bowler Will Davis.

India's first-choice wicketkeeper Rishabh Pant, who was representing the English county side alongside Cheteshwar Pujara, Jasprit Bumrah and Prasidh Krishna, held on to the catch of Gill, who found the fence four times while lasting 38 minutes.

For the addition of another 15 runs, India lost the wicket of Rohit. Rohit's departure paved the way for Virat Kohli's arrival. In between, Hanuma Vihari (3) came on to bat at No.3 but departed cheaply. Shreyas Iyer failed to open his account and walked back to the dressing room after facing 11 balls.

All-rounder Ravindra Jadeja too failed to make an impact as he was adjudged lbw off the bowling of Roman Walker (5/24).

Kohli and Bharat added 57 runs to steady the ship. However, Kohli fell to Walker before the seamer dismissed Shardul Thakur (6) to reduce India to 148/7. Umesh Yadav chipped in with 23 off 32 balls.

Trial for Maradona's medical personnel

BUENOS AIRES: An Argentinian judge ruled Wednesday that eight medical personnel involved in the care of soccer star Diego Maradona will face a public trial for criminal negligence. Brain surgeon Leopoldo Luque and psychiatrist Agustina Cosachov are among those who will stand trial for homicide, the judge ruled. The trial is not expected to begin until the end of 2023 or early 2024. The defendants are accused of failing to take proper care of Maradona when he was recovering from surgery, which led to his death. Maradona died at the age of 60 November 25, 2020 due to a cardio-respiratory arrest while he was recovering at a house outside Buenos Aires from surgery for a blood clot on his brain. Prosecutors requested in April that Judge Orlando Diaz put those under investigation on public trial.
